

Tri-County Meeting

Postmasters From Knox, Lincoln and Waldo Have Interesting Session Here

The three county meeting of the Knox, Waldo and Lincoln County units of the National Association of Postmasters was held in Hotel Rockland Wednesday night with some 24 Postmasters and guests in attendance.

President O. V. Drew of the Knox County Unit called the meeting to order after the banquet and a business meeting followed. President Drew spoke briefly about the new educational program that has been introduced by the Association calling for an educational program about postal matters in the public schools.

Postmaster Harold Weeks of Augusta informed the meeting of the latest information concerning the State Convention which is to be held in Augusta, June 20 and 21 and about the advertising program for the National Convention to be held in Boston in October.

Editor Frank A. Winslow gave a half hour talk on the many celebrities he had met and interviewed paper men. These included many noted and famous people from the time of James O. Blaine when he was a candidate for President down to the time of Dr. Allan Defoe and the Dionne Quintuplets.

Arrangements were made for a similar three-county meeting to be held early in May in Lincolnville under the sponsorship of the Waldo County Unit.

A program consisting of humorous readings by Mrs. Louise Gregory and the showing of Kodachrome slides taken in Nassau by Edward W. Coffin of Owl's Head, followed the business meeting. Mrs. Gregory's reading "The Village Postmistress" was especially appropriate and well received. Mr. Coffin furnished an interesting and entertaining commentary in his own slides.

Among the Postmasters listed were James Connellan, Rockland; Everett H. Hobbs, Hope; David Pollock, South Thomaston; acting P. M. Jeanette Harris, South Hope; Margaret R. Andrews, West Rockport; Bertha Borgerson, Owl's Head; Harold E. Weeks, Augusta; Lillian L. Gupitli, Newcastle; Enid Monaghan Port Clyde; Cyril Hopper, Lincolnville; Elena B. Shute, Acting P. M. Belfast; O. V. Drew, Vinalhaven.

Guests included: Frank A. Winslow, Mrs. David Pollock, Mrs. Charles Taylor, former Postmaster at South Hope. Allan B. Borgerson, Mrs. Harold Weeks, Howard Monaghan, Mrs. Cyril Hopper, Louise Gregory, Barbara Coffin, Edward Coffin, Sybil H. Webber and Clara L. Hammons.

Our Immortal Hope

St. Matthew, 28:6
"HE IS RISEN"

Rev. Curtis L. Stanley
Pastor of the First Nazarene Church of Bath, formerly of Rockland

If the Christmas Season is the happiest in the Christian calendar, the Easter Season is the most hopeful. On Christmas morning we celebrate the great fact of being human. On Easter morning we rejoice because of immortality. There clings about the Eastertide, apart from its religious significance and associations a rare sentiment, a poetic rapture, a glorified atmosphere, as the festival of the heart of man.

Life Is In The Air. The spirit of renewal pulses everywhere. The vernal ides are on their way. The world receives a new breath. It is not the time for the discussion of evidences or for an analysis of proofs. It is the season when the intuitions and the instincts reign. Logic and theology have their place and function but not now. Theistic conceptions are already freighted with the human soul and filling the human heart. There is a vast difference between what others say to us and what we ourselves feel. The revelations of God to the inner consciousness of man is more important than the deductions and arguments of the metaphysicians and philosophers.

The first Easter morning was preceded by dark hours. The powers of darkness seemed in league with each other against the Prince of Glory and the Master of Light and Dawn. Christ had been crucified. His body had been placed in a tomb. The hopes and aspirations of the disciples were also shut as it were, in a tomb. It seemed as if the message of the Master had been buried with the Master—the cause forever ruined. But that was seemingly so. Grief and sorrow were transient—they always are in the light of the Christian thought. It is not God's intention that they should tarry long in the divine scheme of things. On the morning of the third day the Lord of Life stepped forth from the tomb—The Grave Was Too Small For So Much Life. Armed sentinels could not hold it back. All the power of Rome was not sufficient to stem the tide of life. It looked upon the seen and temporal instead of realizing the unseen and eternal. The disciples after the resurrection came in close touch with their Risen Lord and receiving vision and strength for their specific tasks and regnant purposes went out from that Presence equipped and heartened. The world has been heartened and hopeful ever since. The glory of Christ's resurrection is being told around the world. And wherever that story is told with sincerity and consistency, there are new manifestations of life and fresh revelations of transformation. He has conquered death. He has triumphed over sin. He is the Victor over the grave. He is Risen and has become the "first fruits of them that sleep," in the fact of His resurrection we also find the message of:

1. Victory. The message came to hearts that were broken with sorrow for the Beloved, and wiped away their tears. It came to souls torn with anguish, because of the shadows that had settled like night fall upon them, and it came as the bursting of the light of God's own glory driving the darkness away. The Easter message is, that His is the victory over sin and sorrow, and all the evils that impoverish and burden the souls and lives of His own. His Victory Is the Promise of Our Victory in Him.

2. Joy. The message brought joy to the sorrowing disciples. At first they were amazed; they could not believe it; they wondered; then they came to know, for He appeared to them, "then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord." The message brings joy to us, because it assures us that in the darkest hours that come, we too may have the companionship of the risen Lord. He comes to us as He came to them; He walks with us as He walked with them; He speaks to us as He spoke to them; and He brings joy to us as He brought joy to them. There can be no dark hours in the company of our risen Lord.

3. Comfort. I wonder if we yet understand just how much light and glory have been brought to human life by the resurrection of our Lord.

The heathen decorated their tombs with the tokens of utter helplessness. Shattered columns, harps with broken strings, trampled flowers, were their symbols which sadly revealed their shattered hopes. We look upon our cemetery as God's Acre, where the bodies of His saints are sleeping, until the resurrection morn, waiting with the assurance "That since Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will be brought with Him." This is the comfort which the message brings to us. His resurrection is the pledge of theirs. His new life is the guarantee of their new life, and that their bodies shall also be raised to be transformed into the likeness of His glorious body. Our comfort is found in His own words "Because I Live, Ye Shall Live Also."

4. Courage. Someone has said that the "sublimest proof of the resurrection was the signal transformation it wrought in the character of the disciples." Before the resurrection they were a timid, fearful, irresolute group of men. But after the resurrection their devotion became the marvel of the age. In the power of the life of His resurrection they lost their fear of sin and death. It is in the power of His risen life that we, too, shall find our courage, and shall be brave in the face of all the problems and trials and difficulties that come upon us. We need the Courage that is born of faith in the Risen Christ, so that we shall be endowed with the perfect spirit of Christian heroism.

5. Hope. Hope is the mainspring of human life. If the mainspring is broken the watch will not run. When hope is dead man has ceased to live. A hopeless man is a helpless man. The disciples had lost their hope when they saw their Lord put to death and laid away in Joseph's tomb but the resurrection morning with its glad message, "He Is Risen" re-kindled their hope and gave it new meaning for them, they became new men and went about preaching the death and resurrection of Christ. It was St. Paul who based all faith and hope on the fact of the resurrection. We must make sure that this hope is ours by Faith in Christ. We must see to it that it is made firm by living the risen life. The promise of this new life (in the present) is only to those who have already been raised out of their death in their trespasses and sins by the power of the Risen Saviour. This Hope Belongs To Those Who Are His.

6. A Living Christ. We speak about the Church of the Living God. We may with equal dogmatism speak about the Living Church of God. This is no mere play upon words or the indulgence of rhetorical fancy. Because Christ Lives, the Church Also Lives. It is not the life of men that makes for the life of the church.

The gospel of Christ makes for the spirit of Christ. Here and there we listen to a message in the name of Christ instead of a message in the spirit of Christ. If the Christian Church would become irresistible, let her preach the religion of Jesus. He Himself promised to convince the world of His divinity. His influence, His life and power, if His followers would only lift Him up where men could see Him.

Jesus is our Immortal Hope. The proof of His resurrection lies in what He has done, is doing, shall do with men and groups, with environments and nations.

The Irish show was more than well received with its many feature acts which were well staged.

C-C TO CONTROL SOLICITATION

Credentials To Be Issued Workers On All Projects After Investigation Made By Chamber Committee

The Chamber of Commerce solicitation control program is now officially in operation. Henceforth solicitors for any program whatsoever must have certification from the Chamber of Commerce before merchants will entertain their sales talk or appeals.

The plan is not a new one but is one operated by Chambers of Commerce and Better Business Bureaus across the nation. The object is to protect merchant and householder alike from the hundreds of "schemes" which are attempted each year. In many of the apparently worthy projects, no profits but the solicitors or their employers, let alone those for whom the "drive" is allegedly being conducted.

House to house peddlers, out of town magazine subscription solicitors, solicitors for charitable groups, salesmen for various programs of events, etc., will all be asked to submit to Chamber checking. Those with the proper background of integrity and stability will be issued cards which they will carry.

Chamber Secretary Nathan C. Fuller points out that those individuals, firms and groups properly established and having a good record of fair dealings have nothing at all to fear from the system. In fact, the Chamber's card will aid them in their work.

Projects not measuring up to standard for any of many reasons will be refused recognition.

The following statement relative to the program appears in the Chamber of Commerce bulletin issued today.

"The program is designed to apply to . . . any donations, whether in the form of outright gift, advertisements, pins, seals, or other tokens of contributions." We reiterate: the intent of this program is not to stop any legitimate solicitations, but to attempt to exercise some control over abuses, maintain records, and to assist in whatever way we can to protect both businessmen and housewives from questionable solicitors and canvassers.

The soliciting individual or organization should be first referred to the Chamber of Commerce for the yellow Credential Card, or cards. The card is issued only after the solicitor has filled out an application, and the application has been referred to, and approved by, the Chamber's committee on solicitation.

As we have indicated, issuance of the card does not necessarily mean that the Chamber endorses either the campaign in question or the product. It simply shows that the bearer has registered with the Chamber, that a record is being kept, and that to the best of the Chamber's knowledge, there is no question about the reliability and authenticity of the soliciting organization.

Rockland Truck Dealer Will Visit the Bridgeport, Conn., Plant

John O. Dugan, of Maine Willis Sales Inc., local International truck leader, Rockland, leaves April 15 with 60 other New England International truck dealers for an inspection of the manufacturing of International Harvester's Metropolitan Body Company, at Bridgeport, Conn.

Mr. Dugan will see the complete assembly and manufacture of the sensationally successful Metro Body, an exclusive retail delivery unit manufactured by the Metropolitan Body Company for International Harvester since 1938.

Following the plant inspection and overnight at Bridgeport, Mr. Dugan, along with the 60 other dealers will form a half-mile cavalcade of new Metros in a mammoth driveway from Bridgeport to the more than half a hundred communities all over New England where during the next 60 days the International Harvester truck dealer organization will stage an intensive Spring demonstration and sales campaign to increase the already successful Metro market.

BATTERY D COMES HOME TODAY

National Guardsmen To Be Welcomed At Ash Point Armory This Afternoon

Rockland's National Guard battery returns home Saturday afternoon at about 3.30. The unit of some 35 to 40 men go directly to the armory at the Municipal Airport at Ash Point where they will be welcomed.

The outfit which numbered well over 100 men when it entered federal service in August of 1930 has been cut drastically by transfers and discharges. None of its officers will return with it.

Brigadier General George M. Carter, adjutant general of the Maine National Guard will extend the official welcome of the state to the returning troops.

The unit went first to Camp Gordan, Georgia and later moved to Camp Stewart in the same state. Within recent months, it has been stationed at Fort Hancock, N. J.

Commanding officer of Battery D 703d AAA when it went into federal service was Lieutenant Malcolm Pierson of Tenant's Harbor. He is now in Japan. Lieutenants Winfield Chatto and Kenneth Chatto are in Europe. Warrant Officer Donald DeLaite was transferred to Japan this month.

The battery will pick up where it left off as civilian soldiers in August of '50. The men returning will again enter state guard service and will establish regular drills and training program.

The office of the adjutant general said Friday that officers will be assigned the battery at once in order to complete the reorganization.

The battery was one of the first in the nation to enter service in the stepped up military program in 1950. With it at the time were units of the 703d from Bath, South Portland and Brunswick. Similar welcomes will be extended those units in their home communities.

As The Courier-Gazette goes to press, officials of Winslow-Holbrook-Merritt Post American Legion are making plans to turn out the drum and bugle corps for the welcome at the airport.

THE JUNIORS SCORED A HIT

"Take Care Of My Little Girl" Delighted Audiences and Reflected Credit On the Cast

This week the Junior Class of Rockland High School presented to the theatre-going public an excellent comedy-drama "Take Care of My Little Girl." The story which is an expose of Sorority life on a college campus, lent itself readily to a high school cast. Seventeen of Rockland's most attractive and talented girls dressed in the latest fashion put themselves in the place of sophisticated college sorority members.

The Queens' Sorority House was the scene of the play and the setting was probably the most picturesque and attractive seen on the stage of this auditorium. The lead was played by beautiful blonde Carol Stratton who displayed unusual talent. Sharing honors with Carol was pretty Marjorie Hart who played the part of the cynic, Casey. Marjorie cavorted with the grace and ease of an experienced thespian.

Estelle Sayward, who played the part of Dallas, deserves mention as the especially attractive snobbish model who lived only for style and clothes and their effect on fraternity men.

The Queen of the sorority was demure and charming Joan Talbot who directed the affairs of the sorority house. Blaise "AD" was ably portrayed by cute Marilyn Keefe. The nervous Joe was played by sweet Janice Beal while Jackie Rogers, Lanta Preston, Dolores Galiano and Lucie Lewis were the beautiful members of the sorority. The pledges who were put through the paces were depicted by Judy Burns, Ellen Sulides, Janet Hall and Janet Stewart.

The part of Marge was played by chic Marion Talbot. Mrs. Belows, Alumnae Adviser, was played by phone company at Bangor and worked in several other Maine cities before being assigned to Camden in 1925.

by charming Barbara Ilvonen who did exceptionally well in a difficult role. The part of House Mother was taken by lovely, dignified Beatrice Reed.

Only three boys appeared. These males roles were ably taken by John Bird, Bruce London and Ronald Marsh.

Much credit is due to Robert L. Hobbs who directed the play. His casting was exceptionally well done and the stagecraft unusual. Very few people realize that the play is entirely in the hands of the students during the production. Mr. Hobbs relaxes and "enjoys" the show with the audience.

The Black Cat

By the Roving Reporter

A young soldier in a hospital had received many kindnesses from a lady visitor, who asked him one day if there was anything she could send him to while away the long hours of his convalescence. He replied that he would like to have a record of Beethoven's "Moonlight Sonata." Some days later, he was astonished to receive a letter which read: "I have got you a record of Frank Sinatra singing 'Moonlight,' but nobody seems to have heard of 'Bert Hovens' Band."

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again, I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.
Out of the dark and grimy soil,
The pure, white lilies grow;
Out of the black and murky clouds,
Descends the stainless snow!
Out of the crawling, earthbound worm,
A butterfly is born;
Out of the somber, shrouded night,
Behold! a golden morn!
Out of the pain and stress of life,
The peace of God pours down;
Out of the nails, the spear, the Cross,
Redemption, and a crown!

Camden Bowlers Have Been Hitting the Thin Sticks the Past Week

(By Joe Talbot)

The Camden women defeated Rockland at Damariscotta Sunday to become the champion of the newly organized Tri-County League. At the end of the regular season, the two teams were tie. The roll off match was well fought with Camden taking a two pin lead in the first string and then down on the second, dropping 40 pins behind. They came crashing back in the third to win six pins of the Lime City lasses. Camden went two pins ahead in the fourth and added 29 more in the finale to salt the decision. Congratulations are in order to Virginia Heal and Gleania Ames who came through with nice totals of 467 and 460 respectively. Barnard went well for Rockland, rolling a total of 445. Bath won the mens division.

Thomaston dropped a 43 pin decision at Camden Sunday afternoon. Talbot was high line for Camden with a total of 503 with Shaw leading Thomaston with a 473 total. A return match will be rolled at Thomaston Monday April 14. John Jenkins of Thomaston went out to a slim four pin lead over Knox County Champ Wally Heal in the first 10 of a 20 string match rolled at Thomaston Friday night. Johnny posted a 989 total to Heal's 985. The final 10 will be rolled Wednesday April 9 at 9:30 p. m.

Next Sunday at 7 p. m. an Open Mixed Doubles match will be staged at the L.S.A. This should be interesting as it features some of the best bowlers, both men and women in this section. Damariscotta Thomaston will be represented in this event.

Ladies Fourflusher League

With three weeks more to go this has developed into a two team fight with the first half champion Spades holding a two point lead over the Hearts. The Clubs have an outside chance to come in but the chances are remote. The Diamonds haven't been clicking this half and are safely in the cellar. The Ladies have put up some enviable records this season with Virginia Heal leading most of the departments, having topped the 300 mark four times, with her top mark a record of 333. She has a top single of 136 and a fine average of 92.30. Gleania Ames is running a close second with an average of 90.25 and has hit over the coveted 300 mark three times, with her top score, a mark of 317. The next three in line are Dora Packard 88.22, Polly Leo 87.85 and Dot Aylward 87.46.

Ladies Nighthawk League

This is also a two team affair with the Queens leading the Jacks by six points. The Deuces and Kings are out of the running. The Queens were easy winners on the first half. Arlene Clark is the individual star of this league holding High Three Strings with 295, High Single with 124 and High Average with a mark of 87.56. The next four in line in the average department are Nellie Butler 83.70, Dot Poland, 82.65, Connie Milliken 82.59 and Bertha Mentley 80.64.

Hotshot League

This has been the closest race in the mens division with both halves being well fought with all the teams having a chance to win right into the closing weeks of both halves. The Panthers won out in the first half with the Rockport Boat Club winning the second half even though there is one more week to go. This is the first time either team has won a championship. The Rockland entry, Bobs, flopped badly this year after dominating the league three straight years. The loss of Harold Heal was like the Sox losing Williams. After numerous shifts Tom Aylward finally had the Lunchmen clicking and they reeled off four straight victories but they started too late. Tom leads the league with an average of 96.39 and also holds the high three string with 349 and several high singles, the top one a mark of 133. There are a few people that hint that Aylward should step up to the Speed League another season and stop dominating the minor leagues. Next in line in averages are Howard Dearborn 90.45, Bud Perry 89.60, Perley Bartlett 89.12 and Russell Richardson 88.4.

Speed League

Never in the 11 year history of the league have so many high scores been recorded. And never in the aforementioned history have the Clippers been out of the cellar for a sustained period. The All Star nosed out the Clippers in the last match of the first half and now as we swing into the last week the situation is reversed with the Clippers holding a three point lead over the Stars and these two teams destined to meet Thursday evening. Wally Heal has been the standout all season holding a fine average of 103.57 and has posted totals of 353 and 351 and singles of 148 and 145, to mention some of his good ones. Roy Hobbs is in second place with an average of 101.49 with Warren Colwell close behind with 101.19. Whittier, Richards and Talbot are running next in order with averages over the 100 mark. Talbot holds the high Three Strings with 367. George LaCombe, Maurice Robbins, Milliken and Jim Redman are also listed in the record book with totals of better than 350. Guess the boys are doing alright without those infernal machines.

Independent League

Last but not least comes the Friday night boys, a hooting, howling mob of fun loving bowlers that seems to be having a pretty good time doing just that. To be a bowler in this league you really have to have a rugged constitution and steady nerves. The Rockets led by "Silent" Bunny Young swept both halves to win the undisputed 1951-52 championship. Rocket leader Fran Perry holds an average of 96.23 also holds the high three strings with 339. "Hank" Bohndell is the holder of the high single mark of 135. Following Fran in the average department are Prince 92.45, Bun Young 92.19, Claytor 91.40 and Eddie Ames 90.71.

This is the last roundup boys, see what you can do about rearranging some of those records.

PASSED 100,000-MARK

United States battle casualties in Korea had reached the startling total of 107,134, according to the last report. The figures included 16,779 killed in action, 77,798 wounded and 12,557 missing. And yet nine months' negotiations have failed to produce an armistice. Brave men continue to serve as cannon fodder; "statesmen" continue to argue.

A SIZEABLE CUT

In the interest of economy the House of Representatives has cut the President's defense budget by $4,713,845,585. The reduction amounted to 9.2 percent. This action on the part of Congress might not be viewed with quite so much calmness—not to say approval—were it not for the fact that every day's developments bring the knowledge of such utter and disgraceful wastefulness.

IT COMES LATE

What will Congress do with President Truman's request to place customs collectors, U. S. Marshals and postmasters under Civil Service, thus removing their offices from the field of political patronage. A fine gesture, but if the President sees so much merit in it, how does it happen that he made no such recommendation when he first took office?

BUMPER WHEAT CROP

There's some comfort in the Agricultural Department's forecast of a bumper winter wheat crop. It will amount to the Department figures, to 946,450,000 bushels—third greatest in history. Added to the estimated spring wheat crop of 307,000,000 bushels, the winter wheat would bring the overall output this year to 1,253,450,000 bushels, well above the Department's goal of 1,165,000,000 bushels. Only the bumper crops of 1947 and 1948 exceed these estimates.

would attain the size of Anderson's fish in two years, but ideal growing conditions and ample feed made that Little Pond rainbow weigh almost six pounds in four years, so the browns who do grow rapidly in some waters are very likely big fish by now.

Many think the stocking report had sprung a misnomer on us and that browns were never stocked at Salt Pond, but if Walter Anderson's fish is really a brown trout then we have got to believe the records of the State hatcheries, and if there is one big brown trout it's quite likely there are many more.

The worst thing about brown trout is that after they grow to five pounds and over they are likely to give the brook trout a hard time, for they are capable of taking a bite at anything that swims when they get hungry.

Conditions at Salt Pond today were far from ideal. Water at the upper end was very roily and there was much drifting weed. The color of the water in general was far from clear and it must have been only a few degrees above freezing as there were ice cakes here and there.

Fishing should improve steadily with the first week of mild weather and from April 15 to mid-May the pond should produce excellent fishing.

Bank fishermen should be doing alright in another week or 10 days. Forest Lake is partly open today. (April 6) and also coming along is Iron Pond in Washington and Fresh Pond in Cushing. (Latter now fishable.)

The opening of these waters should take some of the fishing pressure off Salt Pond, although you may fish most anywhere and not find the qualities which the Salt Pond trout attain by their access to salt water.

The Iron Pond opening will be an event in which State stocked fish planted directly into its waters can be caught. Seventeen hundred marked trout were released there late last Summer.

Other spots which should produce early trout after opening are Lily Pond in Hope and Alford's Lake. Rocky Pond also had a goodly shot of brook trout a year ago last Fall.

There is unique pleasure in occasionally having a fishing companion along who has not experienced all the thrills of catching all kinds of fish. Usually such fellows care little for filling their creel and get almost as much "kick" out of seeing someone else catch a fish as if they caught it themselves, although the anticipation of action of any kind is what keeps them interested.

Today we had Harold Cushman of Clark Island with us and the piscatorial background of his 20-odd years of life has entered around smells and flounders; in fact there was a while when I wondered if Harold would ever take seriously to sport fishing in fresh water.

But lately he has purchased a fly-rod, reel and other accessories and today he fished like a veteran. I had hoped that he would have a streak of beginner's luck.

Just when I was quite encouraged at the progress he was making as a trout fisherman I happened to mention the large eels frequently caught in Fresh Pond, to which Harold replied, "Gee! I'd like to catch one of those about four feet long."

I couldn't imagine anything more embarrassing on a trout fishing trip, but the best part of it was that Harold meant it. That would give him plenty of action alright and besides, he has a neighbor who likes eels.

"Cap" Kidd of Omaha rolled up into the Bartlett dooryard at South Thomaston just before noon last Thursday morning and said he was in Maine to spend the Summer.

Our Bob Says It's Not Time That Everybody Understood Basketball

(By Bob Mayo)

Saturday Shorts—Mike DiRenzo has been offered substantially more than he is getting in Rockland by an Eastern Maine school whose identity you could never guess—Don McLeellan, looking rugged and fit as a fiddle is home from his Newfoundland Air Base for a month. The basketball team he played on lost in the finals for the Air Base championship of the North East seaboard bases. He reports that some great college and former pro-players operate in that circuit and the brand of basketball is somewhat more advanced than in Knox County.

Hank "Tonsils" Daley made a big hit at thrashing at the PTA meeting the other night. Incidentally, he will not return to Rockland next year as he plans further study—Chubby Ryder, Washington Senator's chafel, returns to the Capitol Sunday.

The Clippers directors met the other night and voted to send Freddy LaCrosse a suitable gift, discussing the raising of money, and set May 7 and 8 as the dates when the Clipper show will be staged.

It is seven years since Vinalhaven completed in the K-L circuit—Johnny Mills former Thomaston baseball and basketball player, deep in the heart of Texas at the Amarillo Air Base.

Tom Long reports that the Rockland Country Club will officially open this Saturday—Times have changed department; The old Broadway grounds, which once knew the flying feet of Sockalexis, was deemed too small for Little League ball. Can it be that the big redskin was overrated?

Best news of the Spring was that Bobby "The Brain" Gardner won the NROTC shot at Tufts. It couldn't happen to a nicer guy. Possibly the finest compliment paid him was by the coach of a rival school who said: "I never saw Bob by do a mean thing." And another school man calls him "The best all-around boy I have ever seen in 15 years of teaching." Justin Cross bound for University of Maine.

Lee Williams, basketball coach at Colby College, spoke at the banquet the other night in Camden which honored the Crimson Tide and the Mustangs. If we are to believe the daily papers he is quoted as saying "The reason basketball is so popular is that everyone understands it." I would like to differ sharply with this statement with all due respect to Mr. Williams.

It is my contention that, far from everyone understanding the game, there are probably not more than two out of 20 average fans who have more than the most elementary idea of what is going on out on the polished surface. About all the average fan understands is 1:

that a basket counts two points; 2: that when two or more players fall in a tangle there is a foul of some sort and 3: that when the home team loses the referee is automatically a bum and probably in the pay of the visitors.

Unless you know and can recognize the zone, floating zone, T defense, pick, double pick, Rome Rankin style, Oregon style, Kentucky style fast break, pivot shot, hook, shot, set shot, figure eight, post, all-court press, man for man, etc., then you don't really know the game. After five years of intensive watching, plus the intensive instruction of Charlie Wotton, James Connell and Mike DiRenzo, I still don't know more than a third of the above and I don't believe you do either. In fact there are times when I suspect that half the coaches are in a fog part of the time. Pardon my glove Mr. Williams.

A prominent Kiwanian said Friday morning "We'll take on the Lions in a basketball game any time they want to play." He went on to say that he didn't believe the Lions were very anxious anyway, since they had been talking about it all Winter without result. "They will probably say they are too busy with the minstrel show to play now," he added.

A good time for the Lions to play might be next week, since the Kiwanis ace, Mike DiRenzo will be away on the Washington trip with the High School Seniors. It is vacation week in the schools and there will be little sports activity going on. It appears that both are waiting for a challenge, and both are bashful about being the challenger.

Lincoln County Schedule
The baseball schedule for the Lincoln County section of the Knox Lincoln league calls for the seasonal opening on May 5 and continues through May 22. Each team plays six league games and all are called for 3:30 p. m. The play-off game between the Knox and Lincoln winners will be on May 27 at some Lincoln County school as yet undetermined.

May 5—Boothbay at Lincoln Academy, Waldoboro at Wiscasset.
May 8—Wiscasset at Boothbay Harbor, Lincoln at Waldoboro.
May 12—Boothbay at Waldoboro, Lincoln at Wiscasset.

May 15—Waldoboro at Lincoln, Boothbay at Wiscasset.
May 18—Waldoboro at Boothbay, Wiscasset at Lincoln.
May 22—Lincoln at Boothbay, Wiscasset at Waldoboro.

TENANT'S HARBOR
Mr. and Mrs. Fred Wall of Jackson Heights, L. I., New York, have been at their summer home at Wallston for several days.

of wheeltracks into Bartlett Lane since the big storm of February only an hour or two before his arrival.

Mr. Kidd who shoveled his share of Omaha snow this Winter, expressed his appreciation of this column, which is widely read among his friends from Maine who live in the Middle West.

He figures our recent Winter must have been all I said it was for it blew one end out of the Bartlett barn.

Someday I am going to tell Peggy that those "nice-seeds" she left around the house last Fall were not appreciated by the mice, but the squirrels seem to thrive on them.

Charles T. Smalley who spent the Winter in Florida phoned to tell me that after spending 18 Summers at Megunticook Lake he learned more about the lake than he ever knew before by reading about it in this column down in Florida.

Charles left the comforts of 90 degree Florida sunshine to return to Maine and find his driveway piled high with snow.

He claims in all the years of being around Megunticook he has never caught a salmon but he has decided to go after them seriously this year.

Well, they are in there and everything points to a good season at Megunticook.

If Charles has been converted to a sport fisherman by anything I have written I hope he don't get disappointed in his first attempt.

Late Rumor, (unconfirmed.) Salmon being caught by worm fishermen off the Bog Bridge in Camden.

The Budgeteer, a trade paper published in Pictou, N. S., gave Bob's Lunch of Rockland a front page plug the other day. Seems that a party from the paper's staff stopped off at Bob's enroute home to Pictou from Boston, a few weeks ago, and got what they considered a bumper meal for a reasonable price. At any rate, they advised their readers to make Bob's Lunch a stopping point on their trips to and from Boston. The writer even gave the address of the eating establishment to make sure Pictou people patronized the place.

IN MEMORIAM

1950—Judson A. Smith—1952
Died April 14
They say time heals all sorrow,
And helps one to forget
But time has only proven
How we miss him yet.
God gave us strength to face it
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose our dear father.
No one will ever know.
Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by his wife, son, daughter and family.

'Keag Library

Grangers Are To Establish It In Grange Hall; Part Of National Program

Members of Wessaweskeag Grange are in the first stages of providing a library for South Thomaston. At present, plans are being made for housing the library in a room in the Grange hall.

Named to head the committee is the member who proposed the project, Mrs. Aurelia Ripley. Serving with her are: Mrs. Marion Arey, Mrs. Clara Steves, Mrs. Verna Baum, Joseph Baum and Weston Arey.

The project comes under Grange activities through a program of National Grange for community betterment and is known as the National Grange Community Service Contest.

The project is receiving wide support in the community which is now without a library.

A fortune nowadays has been defined as a place to sleep and enough to eat.

Rockland-Rockport Group Buying Stove For Glen Cove Grange Hall; Hints On Caring For Foods In Home

Dear Homemaker:

Ingenuity could well be the keynote of the Rockport-Rockland Extension Group for earning money to help on their community project, which is to help pay for the new stove at the Glen Cove Grange Hall.

Here's what they did—each member was to earn $1, then at their meeting tell how she earned it. A few of the ways the dollars were earned by each member were: one of the members had a coffee party, one a scavenger hunt in her home, a few had samba parties, one took care of a baby, one gave up eating peanuts, one made a pie, another a cake.

Mrs. Vernetta Roberts, clothing leader of the Camden Extension Group, was guest leader at the South Thomaston Extension Group meeting Wednesday. Swedish weaving was the topic of the day. Mrs. Carolyn Davis, Ruth Drinkwater and Margaret Watts were on the dinner committee.

The Thomaston Extension group also had a guest leader at their meeting this week. Mrs. Dorothy Hamalainen, clothing leader of the West Rockport group, conducted the meeting on "Pressing Pays Dividends." Mary Harjula, Betty Townsend and Helen Aho served on the dinner committee.

Mrs. Rebecca White conducted the meeting "Do Your Own Wall-papering" for the Vinalhaven Extension Group at their April meeting. The group voted to buy juvenile books for the Library as part of their community project.

Foods leaders, please send in your emergency feeding committees as soon as possible.

Home Demonstration Week
A reminder to Extension Groups to plan for observing Home Demonstration Week April 27-May 3. More information will be sent to chairmen soon regarding this.

Everyone wants to get the full value for the money spent, whether it be for clothing, entertainment or food. In the case of food, one way of getting the most for your food money is to give that food the proper care from the time it leaves the store until it is to be cooked and served in the home.

Care of Food

What's the main reason you buy food? If you were asked that question what would be your answer? You'd probably say, "to give the members of my family the proper nutrition to keep them healthy and happy." And when you do go out to buy food, you try to buy the foods that will give you the most value for your food money, from the standpoint of economy and nutrition.

You may make some good buys at the store. But you are getting the full value from the foods purchased when it's time to cook and serve them. That time in between the purchase and the serving is pretty important. Foods must be given proper care in the home in order to keep the nutritional values and the quality of the items. Otherwise, you won't get your full value.

Economy and nutritional values can disappear in a hurry; if food is not given good care after it is purchased in the store until it is time to cook and serve it.

All the good of planning meals, proper preparation of the food, shopping list wise decisions at the food counters, can be lost by failing to take the proper care of food in the home.

There really isn't much to the job of keeping foods in excellent condition keeping the loss of food value appearance and quality to a minimum. So take a few simple precautions, and you can maintain the quality of the food items you buy between the time you take them from the store and the time you get ready to use them.

Here is a recipe which may interest you.

Scalloped Fish

2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons fat
2 cups milk
2 hard cooked eggs
2 cups flaked fish
1-2 cup mashed potato
salt and pepper
1 cup bread crumbs

Blend flour and fat in top of double boiler.
Add cold milk and allow to cook for 20 minutes.
Beat with an egg beater to make a smooth sauce.

Rub hard cooked eggs through a sieve and add to the white sauce. Eggs can be cut or chopped to save time.

Flake the fish and mix with the mashed potato. Season with salt and pepper.
Into a greased baking dish, put a layer of the fish and potato, mixture, cover with the sauce and another layer of fish, then sauce until both are used up.

Cover top with bread crumbs. Bake 15-20 minutes in a moderate 350-400 degree oven.

Sincerely,

Winifred Ramsdell

HOME DEMONSTRATION WEEK

Theme Of National Observance By the Extension Service Is "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World"

H. L. Wilson of Washington, D. C., national director of Extension Service Work, United States Department of Agriculture, has recognized National Home Demonstration Week, April 27 to May 3.

More than 12,000 Maine women will take part in special observances of Home Demonstration Week in the Pine Tree State. The many benefits of home demonstration work to Maine people will be emphasized.

Director Wilson says in his letter to home demonstration women of America: "It is particularly fitting that we pause once each year to pay tribute to the homemakers of America and their efforts to build better homes and better citizens. The week's theme, 'Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World,' has great significance in these times.

"As home demonstration women, you know that a successful home is dependent upon a well-informed homemaker—one who takes pride in making her home comfortable, attractive and inspiring to all who dwell in it. Healthy, happy homes are the foundation of this Nation. Character, confidence and the deeper spiritual values all have their beginnings in wholesome family life.

"I am proud that through organized planning and action you are making a lasting contribution to improved community living," he continues. "Through your study and discussion groups you are preparing to better meet your responsibilities as citizens, not only of your community, but of your State, Nation and World.

"Special appreciation is due to those of you who serve as volunteer local leaders in home demonstration work. You 500,000 leaders are the ones who make it possible to carry the extension educational program to the more than three million homes now participating in home demonstration work. Your service to neighbor and community is in the finest American tradition.

"Ever since our forefathers landed, women have been helping each other to build stronger homes and better communities for their families. Their contribution is beautifully illustrated by the pioneer mother and her modern daughter on the poster honoring National Home Demonstration Week in 1952.

"I congratulate all of you on the fine contribution you are making to our democratic life," concludes Wilson.

Spring Is Here And The Lambs With It

Spring and lambs come together and Henry Keller of West Rockport has evidence of both on his farm. Fourteen of the woolly little characters are gamboling about his place. His Oxford ewes had a total of 19 lambs, five of which were lost. Eight sets of twins are in the lot. Out of their pens for the first time Thursday, they were more than a little difficult to manage for picture taking as they explored the farm. One is a true black sheep, being as near to an ink spot as a lamb can be. True to his color, he just wouldn't stay around for a picture but wanted to wander far and wide, and did.

INTERPRETATIONS OF "THE WORD"

By Louis A. Walker
THE SUFFERING SERVANT OF THE LORD
Read Isaiah 52:13 through Chap. 53.

Mysterious references to the "Servant of the Lord" appear at intervals in Isaiah beginning at Chap. 41, verse 8. At first they seem to depict the Israelites as the Servant, a national saviour of the world. Israel is represented as collectively giving itself for the regeneration of society. Later on the references may be, and are, interpreted as applying to an individual. These passages, along with the book of Daniel and many later non-canonical books determined the Jewish Messianic hope. Among profound thinkers this hope took on the meaning of an atoning and intercessory function on the part of the forerunner and of the nation itself. The Jews could not envision or tolerate the idea of a suffering Messiah. This reading is a moving prevision of the experience of Jesus during Passion Week. But it also fits the experience of many who have given their all to God and Man. It is not to be interpreted doctrinally but rather inspirationally. The suffering of the ideal servant of the Lord with and for transgressors is an awful fact but it is not helpful to reduce it to a legalistic formula. It may be that the world awaits a sacrificial nation ready to suffer to save Man from himself. But where is such a nation? Apparently Israel was not equal to it. Jesus accepted it. So did Albert Schweitzer, Edith Cavell, St. Francis of Assisi and many more.

Dr. Harry I. Marshall
Dr. Harry I. Marshall, 74, of 1028 Hardee Road, Coral Gables, Fla., for 40 years a missionary in Burma, writer, lecturer and authority on the Bible, died recently.

He was a native of New Hampshire, and pioneered in the Burma mission field as a member of the Northern Baptist Convention.

When the Japanese swarmed over Burma in World War II, Dr. Marshall was forced to leave his mission, and got out of that country on the last boat to leave.

His greatest triumph was the conversion of the Karen tribe in Burma. In connection with this he translated the Bible into the Karen tongue, and later became president of the Karen Theological Seminary.

Dr. Marshall was the author of several books, the most outstanding being "The Karen People of Burma," cited by the Encyclopedia Britannica as an "authoritative source on these people, and 'Naw Su,' a fictional story of a Burmese girl.

He held degrees from Dartmouth, Andover, Newton, Harvard, Ohio State and Colby Universities.

Besides his wife, Edith Lawrence Marshall, he leaves four sons, John of San Francisco; Robert, Redonda Beach, Calif.; Edward, Groton, Mass., and Daniel of Houston, Texas and a daughter Mrs. Elizabeth Howe of St. Louis.

Dr. Marshall's Summer home has been on Pascal avenue, Rockport, the past eight years. There, he and his wife wrote several books.

Mrs. Marshall will return to Rockport for the Summer.—Camden Herald.

A New Chairman

Mrs. Selma Wagg Of Lisbon Becomes National Committeewoman

Eisenhower adherents of Maine's 16-member Republican delegation to the Chicago national convention in July scored a two-fold victory today by unseating a Taft-minded national committeewoman and taking command in the selection of a delegation chairman.

By an 11 to 5 vote, the group elected Mrs. Selma M. Wagg of Lisbon to supplant Mrs. Inez L. Wing of Kingfield as national committeewoman at a closed-door session in the Augusta House.

Mrs. Wagg, who recently retired as vice chairman of the state committee during the state convention in Bangor, still maintains she is "neutral" so far as the Eisenhower-Taft presidential race is concerned, but she reportedly leans toward Eisenhower.

Mrs. Wing served six years as a member of the national committee.

The delegation, by nine to six vote, also elected as its chairman Attorney Sidney W. Thaxter of Portland, State chairman of the Eisenhower campaign committee in Maine.

Thaxter, son of State Supreme Court Justice Sidney St. Felix Thaxter of Portland, recently took over the Eisenhower leadership in Maine when Gov. Frederick G. Payne resigned, after becoming a candidate for United States Senator.

Payne, who next January, will complete his second two-year term as Maine's chief executive, always has been a strong Eisenhower supporter.

Without opposition, National Committeewoman Fred C. Scribner, Jr., young Portland lawyer, was re-elected for a second four-year term.

State Representative Seth Low of Rockland, a businessman serving his first term in the Maine House, had announced a few weeks ago he would contest the re-election of Scribner on the grounds that "the First Congressional district has had this honor long enough—12 years—" but opposition from him did not materialize when he failed to appear at today's organization meeting of the delegation.

Scribner, incidentally, has the distinct honor of being the youngest member of the national committee which nation-wide has a membership of 104.

M. Lucille Nason gave a report on the Spring board meeting held at Auburn, March 29. Joyce Champlin reported on the Lobster Festival Corporation meeting which she attended as Club representative, March 28.

Margaret Crockett gave a report on the "Get Out The Vote" meeting which she and President Cross attended as Club representatives.

This meeting consisted of the two Chambers of Commerce, the League of Women Voters and the B.P.W. Club. In connection with the foregoing, President Cross through First vice-president Hamalainen appointed the following BPW members to assist the committee in any way they can and at their convenience, Eliza Steele, Joyce Champlin, Nettie Frost, Ann Povich, Flora Cullen, Virginia Knight and Dora Leo. President Cross and Margaret Crockett, Public Affairs Chairman are our representatives to the regular meetings of said committee.

There being no further business to come before the meeting, First vice-president Hamalainen introduced Mrs. Flora Cullen. She explained some of the fundamentals of painting and then began a portrait of one of our members, M. Lucille Nason. It was very interesting and much enjoyed.

All Girl Revue

Evelyn's Troupe Will Be At the Legion Home On April 18

Coming Friday, April 18, at the American Legion Home, will be the return engagement of that popular Evelyn's All-Girl Revue, which was stormed out on Washington's Birthday.

This outstanding troupe of girls with few new faces added, was judged one of the best ever to be presented in Rockland. Under the expert training and supervision of Mrs. Evelyn Clark, the troupe will present chorus numbers, single and double song numbers, tap, baton twirling and comedy skits.

Check rooms will be maintained on both floors with attendants at each so as to give the patrons an opportunity to check their clothing. Dance music with an orchestra of four pieces will be used as usual. This floor show will compare favorably with shows seen in the larger night clubs in much larger cities.

"Viva Zapata"

Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Viva Zapata," 20th Century Fox's heralded biographical drama starring Marlon Brando and Jean Peters, is scheduled to open at Strand Theatre of Sunday.

A fiery page from the turbulent history of Mexico, "Viva Zapata," directed by the renowned Elia Kazan, unfolds the courageous story of Emiliano Zapata, who for nine years was the unconquered leader of a people in arms. It is the saga of a semi-educated peasant who fought brilliantly as an ally of Pancho Villa to end the tyrannical 34 year reign of the dictator-president.

In the role of the heroic patriot Marlon Brando was the perfect choice on the heels of the outstanding job that he did in "Streetcar Named Desire" for which he was nominated to receive the academy award.

"Viva Zapata!" will continue through Monday night on the Strand screen.

Tip to motorists: Remember to guard your Sunday pleasures with safety measures.

LIONS START SHOW TICKET SALE

Ticket sales for the Lions Club Minstrel Show early next month took off with a rush Wednesday with the distribution of tickets to members at the noon luncheon at the Thorndike Hotel. Editor Frank A. Winslow left, of The Courier-Gazette was the first to buy a pair of tickets. The salesman is Wendell Hadlock, director of the Farnsworth Museum.

REALM of MUSIC

by Gladys S. Heistad

One of the show places in St. Augustine, Fla., is the Lightner Museum of Hobbies, the only one of its kind in the world. It occupies more than 22,000 square feet of floor space, and displays thousands of actual and varied exhibits. The gift of O. C. Lightner, of Chicago, publisher of Hobbies Magazine, it is now municipally owned by the City of St. Augustine.

Quite recently Mrs. Abbie Hanson, who now makes her home in Deland, Fla., visited this Museum with friends and in keeping with her natural thoughtfulness sent me several attractive cards showing some of the exhibits which took her fancy in particular, such as the Button Map of the U. S. A., the Doll Collection, the Crown Jewels, the Crystal Room, and so on. She speaks with regret that she could not get a card of the music room, but none were available at that time.

In speaking of the music room she said: "I saw so many different kinds of instruments from many foreign countries. There was everything there from a mouth piece to a Hammond organ. There was an oddity from Scotland and a hurdy-gurdy from Germany."

Mrs. Hanson also sent leaflets of two other places she visited in St. Augustine—the Villa Zorayda, the great architectural reproduction of the original "Castle of the Moors" which is known today as the "Alhambra" in Old Granada, Spain. Within its mosaic walls are some of the world's most unusual and intriguing collections of art treasures. Built in 1883, this remarkable structure houses the lifetime collection of rarities of the late A. S. Mussallem, noted art authority.

And the other, La Leche Shrine, America's oldest mission and the site of the founding of the nation's oldest city, Sept. 8, 1565. Preserved here is the original coffin of Pedro Menendez de Aviles, founder of St. Augustine. On this authentic relic is the date of the Conquistador's death, 1574. These treasures were given by the City of Aviles, in Spain, the birthplace of Menendez, to the City of St. Augustine. The mission was established and maintained by Spanish Catholic missionaries from 1567 to 1763.

And a charming note comes from Lisette Emery, from Palm Beach, enclosing a program of the Stabat Mater (Rossini) which she heard performed as a part of the Lenten season on March 16 in the church Bethesda-by-the-Sea. Lisette comments: "It was beautifully done, and I couldn't help but think of you and how you would enjoy it. The bass doing the solo parts had a beautiful voice." The mixed choir of this church is augmented by a choir of boys, 30 in number.

An announcement in the New York Times of March 26 of the newly elected officers of the Corning Glass Center includes the name of James M. Brown III, director, now appointed a vice president. Glowing reports of Mr. Brown's success as director have come to us from time to time, and we are not surprised that he has stepped ahead, for he is one of those rare individuals who have the combination of knowledge, ability and personality.

It is always a joy to have a letter from Phil Wentworth, now in TV work in Cleveland (Station WKXL-TV). Quoting in part:

"We finally got the show started Feb. 25, so this Friday (March 14) will be our ninth show. We are fortunate in having Bruce Standerman as our writer producer and director. He is lately come from New York where he was in radio and television, writing most recently 'Capt. Video' which is that popular young people's serial on TV.

"Our show, 'Tune Inn' is partially scripted, but it takes an accomplished writer to keep up with it. I sing a song each show and do a duet with Patty (Patty Rowe), or she does a solo, then we talk to teen-agers about five or six minutes, discussing subjects we hope appeal to teen-agers in general. It is a lot of fun but hard work, as perhaps you can guess. You can never know, however, how long a show will run—depends on the sponsors.

"I have a church job—at the Old Stone Presbyterian, on the Square. It has an octette, and we take turns doing solos. I am studying again, with Ben Brentt, an old friend of Nathan Price's. He is helping me, I believe, although I do miss Don Johnston.

"Just finished reading John Erskine's 'My Life in Music'—have you read it—I know you would enjoy it. He mentions Mary Davenport a couple of times—what news of her, by the way?

"We are having Ethel Smith, the organist, on our show next Monday. We hope to get guest artists occasionally, which should not be too difficult, for there's a lot going on in Cleveland.

"Flagstad sang here with the Cleveland Symphony, under Szell, but I could not go to the concert. Did hear her in New York not too long ago."

The leaflet Phil sends describing the show would indicate that "Tune Inn" is bright and sparkling. In fact, in the column "See-Hear" written by Stan Anderson for one of the Cleveland papers recently had this to say: "I have heard Phil Wentworth and Miss Rowe on two shows. They sparkle more than anyone on local TV. Their songs are cheerfully presented and most of the time the kids handle themselves like a couple of seasoned pros." It would seem that Phil is natural TV material—he has an expressive face and is good looking, great charm of manner, and an excellent voice. His natural poise should be an asset, too.

Incidentally when in Camden last week I learned that Grace Lenfest, who will be graduated from Oberlin College this coming June, recently had a dinner date with Phil. I can imagine their tongues flew fast catching up on all the Camden news. Miss Lenfest has been touring with the symphony from Oberlin (in the harp section) which has met with unusual success in its various appearances which included New York's Town Hall.

Community Concerts for the month of April are: April 4, The Little Symphony, Thomas Scherman, conductor, Lewiston. April 5, The Little Symphony, Augusta. April 14, Ervin Laszlo, pianist, Rumford. And the Railroad Hour for April, over the NBC Network Monday nights 8 to 8:30: April 7, "Roberta" with Nadine Conner. April 14, "Rosallinda," with Dorothy Wrenskjold. April 21, "Erminie" with Nell Tangeman. April 28, "Pink Lady" with Nadine Conner.

I promised to tell you a little about Martin Gumpert's article in the New York Times magazine of March 23—entitled "Toscanini's Secret: Keep Growing." You may recall that I mentioned that Martin Gumpert is an M. D. with an expert knowledge of geriatrics (the study of old age), as well as a great lover of music.

Quoting at random from Dr. Gumpert's article which approaches Toscanini from a different angle than is usually done—and written to coincide with the Maestro's 85th birthday on March 25:

"No doubt Toscanini has never abused his heart, but has disciplined it—and the rest of his body—to serve him efficiently. And such discipline, a mixture of prodigious spending and careful saving of energies, explains his longevity, and that of many other creative persons.

"Toscanini's secret is unlimited devotion to a limited area of life. Creative passion enlarges the frame of existence almost beyond the point of death. Indeed, it sometimes seems that death will not wait until a powerful drive toward some goal has been achieved. His life has been an unbroken chain of re-creations, an avalanche of music which has grown under his directing hands and has not yet ceased to grow. This unswerving devotion and creation has gone on for many decades, and it is an exciting human experience to watch closely, with one's own eyes, so dynamic a display of mind and emotion and physical endurance.

"Some people are constantly looking for a magic formula which might be the cause of unusual vitality or longevity. Our faddists thoroughly exploit such search. Toscanini—as far as we know—would disappoint the believers in blackstrap molasses or other dietary regimes. He likes to have soup with his breakfast; he likes a glass of champagne during the intermission of his concerts; he is a discriminating but moderate eater. He leads the strenuous and exciting life of a concert artist, and exposes himself to emotional outbreaks on every occasion. Age is his bitter enemy. It threatens the continuation of his growth. But he has succeeded magnificently in being 'an ageless old man', and his struggle against deterioration is not at all pathetic—it is fierce and victorious.

"The man's sheer physical vigor is amazing. He often jumps from floor to the seat of a couch, back and forth, back and forth, as a sort of setting-up exercise. He has his own teeth. He has retained his fabulous memory. He enjoys the primitive pleasure of life—love of food, love of wine, love of his canaries, love of good clothes, and of boxing and wrestling sessions before his television set.

"There was this 85-year-old man (Dr. Gumpert now refers to seeing him) conduct a rehearsal of the NBC Symphony, an amazing unity of mental power, emotional vitality, sensual acuity, and physical strength. Physically, mentally, emotionally, he refuted all customary concepts of old age.

"Is Toscanini's vigor at the age of 85 a miracle? I do not think so. His life has been one of unbroken purpose since the age of nine, when he entered the Conservatory of Parma. Since then his life has been completely subordinated to his work. He has never changed. Unfinished work and unrelinquished responsibilities keep him alive and preserve his vitality.

"Too many of us have succumbed to the injustice of premature death or pathological decline from disease to old age. The future will show—as Toscanini does today—that such decline and decay are not normal aging. Everybody who establishes a reason for his existence, who discovers and pursues work to be done, can hope to prolong his life and his balance of health. Toscanini, who has by no means escaped the inevitable inequalities of living, is today a happy old man. Why? He has never stopped learning, growing, doing. His formula for a long and successful life is no secret. It can be practiced by all of us."

STEAMBOAT YARNS of Ships and Men

John M. Richardson

The City of Bangor after the fire—some comments.

The picture of the steamer City of Bangor following the fire at Foster's Wharf, Boston, in 1913, drew many replies.

From Clermont, N. Y., came a word from Edwin M. Eldridge, probably the top authority in the country on steam propelled vessels, present and past. He wrote in part:

The picture of the "City of Bangor" shows the vessel after the fire of July 18, 1913 at Foster's Wharf, Boston.

I was with the Eastern Steamship Corporation at the time and the Boston papers certainly played up the fire with rather startling headlines. Perhaps you carried the story in your own paper. The correct date is Friday July 18, 1913 and not June as stated in the caption under the picture.

Your book tells of her career after she was rebuilt, including illustrations of her being sunk at Federal Wharf, East Boston after having been sold in the Fall of 1928 to C. L. Dimon.

Clarence H. Tapley, one of the dyed-in-the-wool steamboat lovers and insurance minded Tapleys of Ellsworth, has this to say:

Steamer "City of Bangor" was launched at Boston in 1894, 277 long, 1661 gross tons, 1600 horse power, wood hull, paddle wheel, twin stacks. She replaced the "Katahdin" on the Boston-Bangor route. Afterward acquired the "Katahdin's" whistle. First steamer to make three round trips weekly.

Was a great money maker for the company. In 1907 was put in service on the Kennebec route. Back on Penobscot a while in 1908 and then on Kennebec until 1917 when she went on the Boston-Portland route with "Ransom B. Fuller" after loss of the "Bay State." In 1918 was back on the Penobscot again as "Belfast" and "Camden" were put on the Boston-New York route to replace boats taken from that line by Government. In 1923 was on Kennebec again after "City of Rockland" struck ledges at the mouth of the river on Sept. 2, 1923.

This line was given up shortly afterward. The Kennebec run had been started again in 1920 by the Kennebec Steamship Co., but did not prove successful.

The "City of Bangor" went back on the Boston-Portland route and made her last trip on it on Sept. 27, 1927. Afterward tied up at East Boston. Her last trip on the Penobscot was in the Fall of 1934 when she made a freight trip. The worst catastrophe was by fire which did damage of $100,000 while the steamer was tied up at Foster's Wharf in Boston on July 19, 1913. One crewman lost his life.

The old side wheeler is the second steamer of that name to ply in Penobscot waters. There was a screw steamer by that name launched in Brewer in 1879, 104 long, 159 gross tons, wood hull. She was built by the Barbours for the line between Bangor and Bar Harbor. In 1881-02 she ran from Boston to Portsmouth, N. H. Later from Boston to Provincetown. In 1884 or so she was renamed "City of Portsmouth" and hailed from that Port. She burned at Salem, Mass., in 1894.

Fred Green of Boston and formerly of Rockland, veteran newspaperman and long friend of The Courier-Gazette writes:

Your quiz of last Saturday rings several memory bells. I don't think I'll ever forget that date, which was the day on which fire swept the bow section of the "Bangor" while she was laying at Foster's Wharf, in Boston.

It was an early morning blaze which I covered for the Boston Transcript. At one stage, several of us were standing on a flat roof looking down at the firemen who were waging a fight. A large, muscular and indurated stranger was there. Evidently he had a violent dislike for newspaper reporters in general and for the Transcript man in particular, for after much verbal abuse he suddenly announced he was going to throw me into Boston Harbor. He meant it too.

but my colleagues aided by two firemen, overpowered him when he had me at the very edge of the roof.

That fire was all below decks and I couldn't understand why it didn't burn through the hull in any place. There was a hatch open just forward of the stairway leading up to in front of the pilot house and flames poured out of that opening with sufficient intensity to melt away a section of one brass hand-rail.

The crew member who died in the blaze was trapped in the crew's quarters forward. As I remember it, he was the only one aboard, or, at least the only one sleeping in that section. That seems odd when you look back, for the "Bangor" must have been in service at that time of the year, although she had not sailed eastward the night before.

Because of the large amount of water poured into the hull she took a list to starboard but didn't go over. The subsequent repairs, I believe, changed her makeup and affected her speed.
