Home Nursing Course Completed By Eight

Even a sick person could not refuse a meal presented in such an appetizing manner. Serving the patient, Miss Mary Wasgatt, members of the Home Nursing class demonstrate how it should be done. Left to right: Mrs. Esther Long, EN, instructor; Mrs. Linnibel Sproul, Appleton; Miss Madeline Philbrick, Mrs. Pauline Saunders, Mrs. Mildred Richardson, Mrs. Charlotte Flint, Mrs. Ruth Pease, Hope; Mrs. Reita Holden and the "patient" Miss Wasgatt.

Thursday evening brought on the end of a home nursing course which had been in session at the Bok Home for Nurses, Rockland, for the past six weeks.

Mrs. Esther Long, nurse for the State Department of Health and Welfare, was the instructor. Her student body consisted of Mrs. Ruth Pease, Hope; Mrs. Linnibel Sproul, Appleton; as well as Mrs. Reita Holden, Mrs. Mildred Richardson, Mrs. Pauline Saunders, Miss Mary Wasgatt, Miss Madeline Philbrick and Mrs. Charlotte Flint, all of Rockland.

With the exception of one, all attending the course had previously qualified as nurse's aides during World War II and were taking the new course as a refresher, qualifying them for duty as instructors or teachers in the Civil Defense set-up of the county.

Realizing that there is a shortage of medical and professional nursing personnel, the Red Cross has designed the course of study just completed with a view of training individuals in the care of the sick or helpless at home.

Using the six, two-hour periods available, represents an endeavor to teach at least one acceptable method for each step believed to be necessary in home nursing.

Time does not permit the teaching of more than one method and the program demonstrates the most efficient and most economical way of doing things in the sick room.

Mrs. Long expressed herself as much pleased with the progress made by her students and hopes to continue training of others in the near future.

Certificates of proficiency will be awarded.

"Operation Neighbor" Given By Members Wednesday In Program Featuring C-D

The Civil Defense co-chairmen, Mrs. Dora Leo and Miss Elizabeth Thurston and their committee members, Miss Sylvia Adams, Mrs. Exxy Perry, Miss Marion Carr and Mrs. Clara Nason, presented the program at the BPW meeting Wednesday night.

Ralph Clark, Knox County coordinator gave a talk on the Ground Observations Corps and the Air Raid Warning System in Rockland and Knox County. He stated that the new post located in the Yacht Club building at the Public Landing is almost completed and it is hoped that it will be possible to maintain operation on a 24 hour basis.

At the present time there are not enough volunteers to do so but he is hoping that more people will come forward and offer their services. Volunteers will work on two hour shifts.

Nineteen communities in the Knox County area are set-up under Civil Defense. An interesting fact and one worthy of commendation is that of the small island of North Haven, which is able to maintain a Civil Defense post on a 24 hour basis.

Due to the storm, Major John Craig, commanding officer of the Bangor Filter Center was not able to be present.

A skit on Civil Defense "Operation Neighbor" was presented by Miss Madeline Philbrick, acting as a radio program director and Miss M. Lucille Nason as a newspaper reporter, assisted by Mrs. Dora Leo, Miss Margaret Crockett, as narrator, Miss Elizabeth Thurston as a teacher, Miss Barbara Morse, as a housewife, and Mrs. Esther Long as a teacher of nurses' aides with Miss Alberta Kimball as property manager.

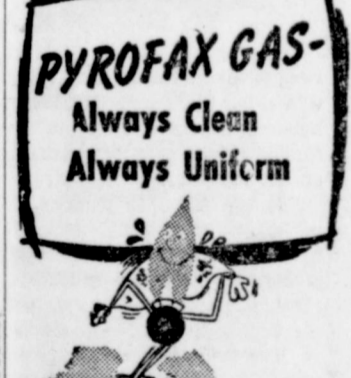

At the business meeting preceding the program, President Cross asked members to bring in children's clothing for a package to be sent to the German Youth Center.

A party committee was appointed as follows: Mrs. Irene Adolphsen, Mrs. Virginia Knight, Miss M. Lucille Nason, Miss Winifred Ramsdell, Miss Barbara Morse, Miss Margaret Crockett, Mrs. Dorothy Polta, Miss Madeline Philbrick and Mrs. Ruth Cross.

Mrs. Cross announced that a state convention planning-committee meeting would be held at her home on Feb. 3 at 8 p. m. This committee consists of Mrs. Bernice Havener, Mrs. Nettie B. Frost, Miss M. Lucille Nason and Miss Ruth McBride.

The next business meeting will be Feb. 11 at the Farnsworth Museum.

MOTHERS' MARCH HITS NEW HIGH

Camden Led In Contributions With Rockland Showing Most Increase

"The Mothers did it again." The ladies who marched on polo Thursday evening in seven communities in the county collected approximately $1,000 more than last year, according to George Parsons and Mrs. Inez Harden who headed the concerted effort to raise funds for polo.

Receipts for the county totaled $3,589.66 when all reports were in at mid-morning Friday. The 1952 collections amounted to $2,538.18.

The City of Rockland showed the greatest increase, bettering its 1952 donation by $550.00. The highest total was that of Camden which contributed $1,266.21 to show a gain of $200 over last year.

Contributions by communities shows Camden to have donated $1,266.21 to the ladies who called at hundreds of homes. Rockland followed with a total of $1,206.00. Thomaston, $409.63; Rockport, $335.15; Warren, $165.75; Owl's Head, $136.37; and South Thomaston, $70.27.

"STRIVE TO KNOW—DARE TO BELIEVE"

Protestant Youth Of Six Churches Will Meet Tomorrow In This City

Protestant youth from six Rockland and Thomaston churches will present a service of worship on Sunday afternoon, (tomorrow), at 3:30 at the Littlefield Baptist Church, Rockland, with the service conducted entirely by youth, and with the offering being donated to the current polo drive. The national theme for Interdenominational Day is "Strive to Know—Dare to Believe," and the theme chosen by the young people is "Affirming Our Faith," with Patricia Pease presenting "Our Homes," Rae Clarke, "Our Churches," and Janet Henderson, "Our Schools." This is the fifth annual Interdenominational youth service.

Ushers: Philip Young, Richard MacFarland, Albert Hallowell

Denominations: Manning, Congregational; Favreau, Methodist; Talbot, Universalist; Carl Gray, Littlefield Baptist; the Wixson brothers, Littlefield; Pickard and ushers, Thomaston Baptist; Pease, Congregational; Clark, Thomaston Baptist; Henderson, Littlefield; Demmons, Salvation Army.

Littlefield Baptist Church... 3:30 o'clock... Feb. 1, 1953... for and by youth... for all youth, their families, and friends.

For Iron Lung

Rebekahs Will Hold Public Card Party Feb. 10—Excellent Prizes

A public card party with a most worthy objective will be held the night of Feb. 10, Tuesday, at IOOF Hall, School street. Miriam Rebekah Lodge will sponsor the affair with Mrs. June Ellis as chairman. Play will start at 7:30 and there will be excellent prizes including table prizes, a door prize and a special prize. There will be refreshments. Admission 50c.

Those desiring reservations should call Mrs. Ellis, Tel. 991-R or her assistants, Mrs. Margaret Butler, 934-M or Mrs. Nina McKinney, Tel. 1103-W.

The beneficiary will be the IOOF Respirator Fund for Maine. Odd Fellows and Rebekahs all over the State have joined forces to raise funds with which much needed respirators may be purchased. These "iron lung" so called, are the best weapon with which to fight the dread polio. It is hoped that a dozen of these may be made available for emergency use if the conditions of last summer arise this year or next.

All a free man asks is equality with the right people.

The C-G's Carriers

Dana Merrill

They say that to err is human and if that is so we sure are plenty human.

Thursday The Courier-Gazette began a series of sketches of the newspaper's carriers, with picture. The only trouble is that we used the wrong cut. So today we present with pride the carrier for Route One, Dana Merrill.

Dana was greatly surprised when he saw someone else's picture grace our front page, over his name. However, he proved again that he is a good sport. His only comment, "You couldn't have picked a nicer guy."

Camera Club

Tuesday Meeting Changed To Farnsworth Museum

Knox County Camera Club will hold the next regular meeting Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Although originally slated to be held at the studio of Carroll Thayer Berry in Rockport the latter was forced to withdraw his invitation because of sickness and the meeting will be held in the Farnsworth Museum instead.

The program will consist of demonstration of trick lighting, indirect lighting of transparent subjects, etc., and members are requested to bring camera and tripod.

Kindness will open a door when all other keys fail.

YOUR FAVORITE POEM

If I had my life to live again, I would have made a rule to read some poetry and listen to some music at least once a week. The loss of these tastes is a loss of happiness.—Charles Darwin.

I THINK THAT GOD IS PROUD

I think that God is proud of those who bear
A sorrow bravely—proud indeed of them
Who walk straight through the dark to find Him there,
And kneel in faith to touch His garment's hem
Oh, proud of them who lift their heads to shake
Away the tears from eyes that have grown dim.
Who tighten quivering lips and turn to take
The only road they know that leads to Him.

How proud He must be of them—He who knows
All sorrow, and how hard brief is to bear,
I think He sees them coming, and He goes
With outstretched arms and hands to meet them there
And with a look, a touch on hand or head,
Each finds his hurt heart strangely comforted.
—Grace Noll Crowell.

Lions' Founder Honored By Thomaston Club; Fluorine Treatments Due

The Thomaston Lions Club observed Melvin Jones, or founders night at their meeting Wednesday at the Knox Hotel with International Councillor Edward True of Bath as the speaker. Lion True gave a very interesting history of Lionism tracing it from its beginning up to the present date.

The next meeting of the Club will be Feb. 11 when a Father and Daughter banquet will be held.

The Club is again sponsoring the Fluorine treatment in the grades as it did last year. This will be done in March through the co-operation of Division of Dental Health, Dept. of Health & Welfare of the State of Maine.

UNION P.T.A. TO CONDUCT PANEL

Officials, Students Of Four Towns Will Discuss Area High School Wednesday

"The Advantages and Disadvantages of a Consolidated High School" will be the topic of a panel discussion at the Union PTA meeting Wednesday Feb. 4 at 7:30 p. m.

A town official, school official and students from Warren, Appleton, Washington and Union have been asked to participate in the panel discussion. A member of the School of Education of the University of Maine will act as moderator and will be prepared to answer questions.

Invitations have been extended to the members of the Appleton Community Club, Warren PTA and Washington PTA to attend the meeting.

The subject of a consolidated high school is one much discussed in the four communities. The panel discussion is designed to help everyone to understand more clearly all the issues involved and to ascertain the public interest on this subject.

All parents of Union school children who would be at all interested in the possibility of hot lunches served daily at the school are urged to attend the meeting and to hear the report of the hot lunch committee of PTA, who are working with the superintendent of schools, under whom such a program would be organized.

An appeal for funds for PTA to continue the dental health program has been sent out to the community. The report sent by the State Department of Health after last years examinations and sodium fluoride treatment indicated a need for continued dental health program in Union.

Plan '53 Yule

Chamber Moving Ahead In Planning Decorations For Business Area

The merchants' committee of the Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting held this week, entered into the planning stage of a long-time program of increasing in scope the Christmas decorations in the city.

The committee, headed by Mrs. Ruth Hoch, is following through with a five-year plan instituted last fall, and which resulted in the decorations on street light poles during the Yule season.

Fund raising possibilities were discussed and will be given further study at coming meetings. It was pointed out that inasmuch as the project will be merchant sponsored, the merchants must agree on the program before it can be put into effect.

The committee members commented that the business people of the city are looking forward to increased activity as far as the decoration plans go.

A special committee was named to further study the financing and technical problems and to report at a later date. Those to make the study are: Walter Morse, Carl Sullivan, Lucius E. Jones and William A. Glover.

TRAWLER FOUND

Coast Guard Rockland reported Friday afternoon that the cutter Yankton located the missing Boothbay Harbor trawler Sandra & Earl and found all crewmen in good condition. The craft was at a position 14 miles, 280 degrees off Mt. Desert Rock. The trawler Kit and the Maurice Davis, both of Boothbay Harbor, and said to be in company with the Sandra & Earl, on a fishing trip which should have brought them to port on the 28th, are still unreported.

OUTDOOR AROUND KNOX COUNTY
BY RALPH W. TYLER

Figure that I'll soon be making a stretching board upon which to put the hide of one of those strange animals that are being seen here and there around the county.

I've offered to skin the "critter" out when Herb Elwell of Spruce Head shoots it and I believe Herb was serious when he told me he was going after it as soon as it snows a little.

Guess Herb has seen some tracks and heard it's voice once or twice recently and he allows it ain't no "hullabey."

Dorothy Russell of East Friendship sends me an interesting card. She writes: "Vermont has its panther sears too. A reward of $100 was offered for years by the Rutland Herald, with no takers. But Vermont had a panther caught in Barnard, which can be seen in the State house museum, mounted and stuffed."

Well—dust off a shelf up there in Augusta boys, Herb and I are really going out after this local "varmint."

Mrs. Russell also writes that dandelion blossoms were plentiful down Meduncook River way until Dec. 21 and only yesterday (Jan. 22) she picked one near Salt Pond.

Gosh yes! and I just read where Mrs. Bernice Jackson picked a violet on Saturday in her garden.

We used to get two winters every year, January to April and November to January. If something don't happen soon we're only going to have one chance in 1953.

Close to 50 years ago I dated a girl to go mountaining on Mt. Wentworth one Sunday around the middle of April. It had been a warm spring.

There was three days of bluebird weather preceding that Sunday, and were the mayflowers thick.

When I got up on Sunday morning of the date, there was just a foot of snow everywhere.

Snow out of season can be depressing.

Warden Ken Gray of Augusta paid the hunters of Knox County quite a compliment the other night at the Thomaston Fish and Game meeting.

Believe he said Knox County was the only one in the State which did not record a fatal hunting accident in the open season just passed.

Was it actually an indication of more care in the woods, or just plain luck?

I know one hunter who had three rifle bullets strike uncomfortably close to where he stood.

All he said was "If that feller is shootin' at me he's a poor shot and if he's shootin' at a deer I'm practically astride the animal."

George Higgins of Camden came up with a good idea for raising money for furnishing the new fish and game club house at Alford Lake at the last meeting.

Sort of a White Elephant auction similar to the one recently staged by the Warren Lions so successfully.

The "gadgets" these hunters and fishermen could dig up for an occasion of this sort can only be imagined.

Expect to see George's proposal put into action before spring and of course he will donate a few of his flies, which if you ask me, are no white elephants in any fisherman's fly-box when the salmon are hitting.

There is one most satisfying attribute always found when you get out to observe nature. Probably it is why one can relax so completely there.

Modern times and methods has never influenced nature to lean towards the "Hot-Rod" age through which we humans are now passing.

Here we are "Larruping" through an era of super-sonic travel, instant coffee, 5-second aspirin, 3-minute cereal, 4-hour enamel, "Zephyr" trains, super-speed films, anti-histamine, 2-hour cold busters and "quickie" high-balls that give you a glorious "bun-on" in 12 minutes. But nature never fell in line with all this hurry-up and best of all never will.

The National Safety Council and insurance statistics show an alarming increase in heart trouble as a killer. Believe it has held first place for some time now.

This age of haste in all pursuits of life puts us on the danger side of the line at around 40, and dropping dead after 45 is just everyday stuff.

When the muskrat trapping season used to open March 20 (the time when skins are really best) I used to start out about March 1 to look over trapping areas.

Usually they were hopelessly frozen over and the open water so necessary was still locked in winter's grasp.

Perhaps twice a week I went around to check on conditions.

Little by little I could see the erosion caused by a gradually warming sun and the perpetually shifting winds of coming spring.

After the snow had gone I noticed long vertical bubbles in the ice.

"Atom busting" so dreadfully sudden as arranged by humans was taking place in nature's own deliberate way with a purpose just as certain.

Cold nights came to re-seal what melting the sun had done, but the vertical bubbles were still there.

Soon came the time that the ice crumbled as I stepped onto it's edge. The sun had also warmed the bank where it had been locked all winter.

What crumbled under my feet was but a handful of elongated facets of ice crystals, definitely blasted by the slow moving process of nature.

The scope and power of this process did not ignore the rest of our countryside in it's purpose, for along the bank the buds of pussy willows had been showing ever so little more of their gleaming silken fur each day and on the southern slopes were the slowly encouraged shoots of white violets peeping through the provident cover of last autumn's fallen leaves.

Sap, which had wintered in the roots of trees below the frost had felt this urge to move too, and leaf buds were taking on a warm, living color everywhere.

There was no sudden change; no illusion of haste in this mighty force which had processed our countryside for centuries.

Only among the animate creation which had not already heard the whisper of coming spring was there any abrupt indications of it's power. For, where yesterday only the sounds of the slipping finger hold of winter came from the uplands, today came the drum of a cock partridge. And across the valley a neat brown female quickly turned her back in his direction.

Cupid, ever with us humans, but generously attentive to our wildlife at springtime was here today.

At first I fretted at this gradual process. Yet each day I noticed every rill was a little wider and deeper, each slope a little dryer, each bud a little greener.

Why should I be in haste? For ages nature had worked as deliberate and as definite as this. I was as powerless to speed it up as I was to retard it. I grew small as I appraised this rushing age in the face of such a great force. Like time and tide, it waits or hurries for no man.

It is sad that in this era of speed so many of us lose contact with this slow moving miracle of nature as we go from one season to another.

To me the greatest of these are response of all living things to the whisper of spring and their subsequent preparation for the coming of winter.

In their will to live they accept the cold desolation of one for the hope and comfort of the other and through it all runs the golden thread of perpetuation, in no haste. Truly a symbol of nature's own deliberate way.

Bowlers Ready
Schedule For First Week, Second Half, Is Announced
Herewith appears the men's City Bowling League schedule for first week, second half.
Alleys 1-2 Tuesday, Feb. 3, MORRIS Legion; Thursday Feb. 5, Birds-eye-40&8; Friday Feb. 6, Gulf-Shell.
Alleys 3-4 Independents-IOOF, Feb. 3; Van Baalen-Water Co., Feb. 5 and Elks-Eastern Tire, Feb. 6.
In a Thursday night match the Independents really poured it on to the lowly Water Co. by the enormous total of 307 pins in a real slaughter as the Independents rolled the high single team total of 561 and high five string team total of 1582 which bettered their former records of 547 and 1532. They combined totals of 493, 561 and 525 for their total. Pitch had high single of 133 and high total of 343 followed closely by Perry with 333 and Galtcomb with 329. These three have now really boosted their averages up in the high nineties. Nuff said for that one. The schedule in full will appear next week.

THE COURIER-GAZETTE
Editor and Publisher, JOHN RICHARDSON
[EDITORIAL]
"WE ARE TRAINED TO BE COURTEOUS AND HELPFUL"
The daily press has been filled the past few days with angry charges of persecution of Maine motorists by Massachusetts traffic officers and court officials. "Unfairness," "unjustified severity," "lack of common courtesy and of any consideration whatever" are among the less vigorous comments on the cavalier treatment accorded motorists from Maine.
A member of the State Police who resides on Talbot Avenue in this city was approached by two irate citizens who demanded to know what the State Police would do to the Massachusetts drivers by way of retaliation. "Nothing," replied Officer Ray Foley. "We are trained to be courteous and helpful."
There was a wealth of meaning in that quiet, eminently sane reply. In those few brief words the whole philosophy of the Maine State Police was stated in a nut shell, and with it the basic cause for the respect and confidence the people of this State feel in their own police. No retaliation, no hot-headed action can be laid at the door of these men. Instead, "We are trained to be courteous and helpful."

EDUCATIONAL TV AT HUGE PUBLIC EXPENSE
"Pooling of public and private resources in the tri-State area would help overcome the tremendous financial hurdle blocking educational TV at present."
This shocking statement by New Hampshire's Governor Hugh Gregg was made with reference to a meeting to be held March 9 in Concord, N. H., in behalf of a proposed tri-State television broadcasting station. It will be attended by the governor and top educators of Maine who will be asked to help overcome this "tremendous financial hurdle" with public money.
The era of overcoming numberless pet projects with tremendous financial hurdles (with public money and increased taxation) has passed, or we thought it had.
The citizens of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont backed General Eisenhower at the polls and subscribed to his religion of economy on the home front and the cutting down of the huge Federal Budget by eliminating pet local projects which make up a very large part of the spending program. And now we propose to overcome this semi-local "tremendous financial hurdle" with public money.
Unquestionably educational TV is a desirable addition to the facilities of the State financed universities. It would be admirable and certainly fair for the many privately financed colleges, like Bowdoin, Colby and Bates in Maine to also have educational TV facilities, but manifestly impossible because they are unable to dip into the public pocket. It could be that the smaller cultural schools would be allowed to make some use of the tri-State station, but that is beside the point.
The Department of Education of Maine is making a desperate struggle to secure even reasonably adequate housing for its rapidly growing school population, admittedly housed at present in school buildings inadequate and in many instances extreme fire hazards. At the same time the Department and every town and city in Maine are straining every nerve to secure public funds enough to pay our teachers reasonable salaries—and the teacher is beyond question the important factor in all education.
It seems that the duty of Governor Cross is clear and undeniable—to place every educational dollar of Maine public funds in the channels of stern necessity—safe, adequate school houses and retaining our competent teachers through the best possible pay.

END THE DOUBLE TALK
It is devoutly to be hoped that the people of this country will put an end to the absurd use of double talk terms which marked the New Deal, Fair Deal commentators' language when an end comes to the other Fair Deal sophistries.
Every public question discussed by the recently "strong men" commentators of press and radio has been ticketed "reactionary," "progressive" or "liberal." If a man favored a free market he was "reactionary." If he worked for price controls and similar Fair Deal philosophies he was "progressive" and if he favored private operation of power companies as opposed to bureaucratic operation he was a "tory."
Why not look beneath the labels of these "liberals" who belittle every achievement of those in private life who have made this country great and always find some excuse to extend government controls and services and still further increase taxation thereby. Just what is "liberal" about price controls under which every merchant, big and little, lives with a constant threat of penalties, even jail, if he deviates from incomprehensible rules of merchandising drawn up by political appointees inexperienced in business. Even under war conditions some emergency controls are necessary but should always be recognized as dangerous expedients. Now, under the new regime minus the socialistic philosophies, let's call a spade a spade and eliminate this double talk and politically twisted play on words.

TO END AN ERA OF DEATH
The top non-military problem facing this nation today relates to the appalling cost in lives and treasure of the operation of our highways. The loss of human life over the recent holidays have brought to public mind the vast importance of finding some means of eliminating death dealing congestion on our highways.
It has fallen to Charles E. Wilson, recently president of General Motors and nominated for Secretary of Defense by Eisenhower, to take a concrete step toward solution of the problem. Under his guidance the company has offered $194,000 in a contest it hopes will turn all the best minds in the United States toward solving the dreadful muddle.
The Courier-Gazette mentions this matter not as a commercial boost for General Motors but as a hope for solution. No one dreamed 20 years ago that 53 million motor vehicles would be using the highways and that our cars and trucks would be driven a billion miles a day in 1953. Conservative estimate based on population growth and general conditions place the number of cars and trucks at 80 million in 1975. Think what that will mean in carnage.
It is to be devoutly hoped that from this tremendous concentration of minds on highway safety ideas will come up that can be transmitted into the pure gold of an end of this ghastly era of highway death and destruction.

LEARNED AT LONG LAST
It begins to become apparent that the rank and file of citizens of the United States have learned at long last that we can take nothing from the government that we not first put into it—and that a high percentage of what we put in is wasted or dissipated. It also seems that we as a people are learning that the terrific burden of taxation we are now bearing, resulted in a large part from the public demands for subsidies, handouts and so-called "security." Likewise the people are coming as a unit to see through the eyes of President Eisenhower his often repeated desire to give the government back to the State and local levels. This must be our course if we are to remain strong, free and a solvent nation.

THE SCHOOLBOY SPORTS WHIRL
Warren Loses To Bristol As Rockport Takes Islesboro; Vinalhaven Over North Haven; Tigers In Spudland
The small schools in the area were active Wednesday night, a night on which there is generally not much basketball activity.
Warren, which had previously defeated South Bristol at home, found life more grim when they invaded the Lincoln County school and were slaughtered to the tune of 85-30.
The South Bristol coach, Tiny Boothby expressed himself as "sorry" about running up such a score. However there seems to have been little he could do about it, since he has only six players on the entire squad and thus could do little substituting. The South Bristol center racked up 30 points for his evening's work.
Warren scoring: Howard; Martin 3; Waters; Smith 4 (10); Barbour; Waters 2(2).
Rockporters Take Islesboro
On the same night, Rockport entertained Islesboro and got in a good deal of shooting practice in posting a 72-44 win.
The girl Beavers had an even wider margin as they won 72-35.
In the boys' game Ralph Thorndike and Marvin Welt led the way with 29 and 24 points respectively to account for two-thirds of their team's points.
Rockport scoring: Sullivan 4; Harkins 1; Annis 2(1); Leland; Thorndike 11(7); Dean 2; Gray; Spear, Farley; Welt 10(4); Davis, Simonton.
V.J.S. Wins Island Clash
Out in the bay, the forces of Vinalhaven and North Haven clashed with the former walking off with the bacon by a score of 74-55 and the girls by 54-22. This seems to have been the first appearance of the year for the North Haven team, while Vinalhaven has been fairly active.
Score:
Vinalhaven (74): Peterson 13(6); Williams (1); Young 2; Conway 2(1); Arty 3(1); Sutcliffe 5; Anderson 6(5) Gilchrist.
North Haven (55): MacDonald 13(1); Beverage 1(1); Burgess 1; Brown 2(3); Staples 6(4).
Scramble For Tourney
Opinions seem to differ as to Rockland's chances of making the Eastern Class L tourney. A week ago they were ninth in the standings and since then have won over Old Town. However, Old Town is in a slump and has lost again since then, so their point value is decreasing. A couple of wins on the current Aroostook trip would help no end.
It seems likely that there will be a mad scramble for the seventh and eighth positions in the tourney set-up and just about anything can happen apparently, under the Heat point rating system which apparently has done away with the im-

Fun Not A Business
For recreation, a man should do what he likes, not what he feels he must because the amusement is appropriate to his age or his position in the community.
The sad truth is that not many adults have much fun, but many of them "work" harder to do so than at earning a living.
The spirit of fun is spontaneity. There's not much chance for it when the "fun" is too well organized, or chosen because it is the right thing to do. Many things done in the name of recreation are nothing but sheer boredom or irritation.
Look at the expressions of near anguish on many a man's face as he struggles to keep awake at the opera, says Dr. Kraines. Or watch the grim faces of bridge players and listen to the violent discussions which follow a game supposed to be played for enjoyment.
The ideal recreation is not arduous pursuit of amusement. It is doing for pleasure, for fun, what ever will revitalize one's body, refresh one's mind, renew one's zest for living.
What constitutes fun is a highly individual matter. No man can tell another how to enjoy himself. If you like to loiter along alone with no specific destination—loiter. If you feel stimulated by crowds, shove your way into whatever kind suits you. If you want to ride a merry-go-round, or play with electric trains even when you have no child in tow, go ahead and do it.
Don't let it bother you that someone else may think it silly or a waste of time. No choice of diversion could be half so silly as missing fun for fear of what someone else might say.

Rev. Norman Camp, a missionary to the Belgian Congo, will be guest speaker Sunday in the services at the First Baptist Church. Mr. Camp has spent the greater part of his life in Africa, since he was born of missionary parents in Aba in the Belgian Congo, and he lived there until coming to this country for schooling. After graduation from the Philadelphia School of the Bible he returned to Africa in July 1946 as a missionary under the Conservative Baptist Foreign Mission Society. He is now on furlough following his first term of service. Members of the First Baptist Church will have a special interest in hearing him, as he is one of the missionaries partly supported by this church. The Sunday services in which Mr. Camp will speak will be the morning service at 10:30, the young people's meeting at 6, and the evening service at 7:15. The evening message will be heard over WRKD as part of the regular "Gospel Story Hour," 7:30 to 8:00.

REALM of MUSIC
by
Gladys S. Heistad

Directly after receiving the letter from Rolf and Lilly Heistad telling of attending the Luboshutz and Nemenoff concert in Seattle, Gladys Farmer of Rockville phoned me that Vernon Hunter attended this same concert, his seat made possible through tickets left for service men. Vernon writing home spoke of the Civic Auditorium where the concert was given as "a huge building with an audience of probably seven or eight thousand. I am sending a program plus a clipping which Gladys Heistad might be interested in for the 'Realm of Music' column."

Lilly and Rolf had sent me the same clipping but no program so the one Vernon sent had particular interest especially as it carried

The Daughters of St. Bernard's contributed $35 to the equipment fund of the Port O' Rockland Drum and Bugle Corps Thursday evening. The women had earned the money with club projects and plan still others to add to their contributions. The presentation was made by Mrs. Francis Groder. Visitors during the Thursday night drill of the corps were: Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rutter, Mrs. Irma Anderson, Mrs. Pauline Hutchinson, Mrs. Georgia Gifford, Mrs. Beverly Mignault, Mrs. Dorothy Sherman, Mrs. Priscilla Monroe, Mrs. Leola Hyland and Mrs. John Rapose.

An item in the 40 Years Ago column of the Bath Daily Times notes that the best paying flock of hens in the area belonged to Mrs. W. C. Todd of Georgetown. Ambassadors for Christ at the First Baptist Church will hear Rev. Norman Camp, for many years a missionary in the Belgian Congo, who will speak to them at 6 o'clock Sunday.

Members of the Finnish-American dance committee will meet at the home of Mrs. Inez Harden on Broadway Place at 8 o'clock Sunday evening.

David Taylor, a passenger in a car driven by Ernest Morse, 25, both of Thomaston, was hurt, but not seriously, when the car struck an icy patch on Old County Road Wednesday night, about 9 o'clock. Rockland Patrolman George Ackley, who investigated the accident, reported that the car skidded off the road, struck a telephone pole, and was damaged to the amount of about $450. Taylor suffered head bruises and a stiff neck but did not require hospitalization.

on its cover a charming picture of Genia and Pierre. The numbers played by these renowned duo-pianists were: Sonata in D major (Mozart); Introduction, Passacaglia and Fugue, Opus 96 (Max Reger); Suite from the Ballet "On Stage" (Norman Delo Jolo); Perpetual Motion (Mischa Portnoff); "Lindaraja" (Claude Debussy); and "The Bat," a fantasy on themes from "Die Fledermaus" (Pierre Luboshutz). It is of interest to note that the Jolo Suite and the Portnoff number were written for and dedicated to Luboshutz and Nemenoff.

Incidentally Vernon's address is: Pvt. Vernon Hunter, US 51157281 Casual Unlisted Section, Fort Lawton, Seattle, Wash. One can guess that he is exactly like thousands of other boys in the service—longing for letters from "home." Why not write to him?

While I have no intention of continually "harping" on Rockport days when the music colony was flourishing, so many letters and cards came to me during the holiday season from those who had been in the "colony" in those days that it is tempting to speak of them since I know there are many in this section interested and eager to hear news of these "boys and girls" who found places not only in our homes but in our hearts.

There is a letter from Phyllis Houston McKinney who came to Rockport for several summers—she lived with us five summers and had been coming before that. She at first studied violin with Jascha Brodsky, then changed to viola study with Max Aronoff, and became very proficient on the latter instrument. Even though Phyllis married and has since had a child she has managed to keep up her music, and a short while back she played with the Curtis String Quartet in the String Quintet in C Minor in an all-Mozart program, presented in Town Hall, Philadelphia. Phyllis enclosed a clipping which carried a charming picture of her, and had this to say of her appearance in a preview of the concert:

"Miss Houston, (wife of Dana C. McKinney Jr., of the Hercules Powder Co.) is a member of the New Chamber Orchestra. The group is conducted by Ifor Jones and sponsored by the New School of Music, where she now studies. The 31-year-old local artist entered the Wilmington Music School at 15 to study violin with Jascha Brodsky, turning from violin to viola five years later when she entered the Curtis Institute of Music. There her studies were supervised by Max Aronoff, now director of the New School of Music. Locally Miss Houston is first violinist with the Delaware Symphony. She has played with the WFIL and KWTY orchestras in Philadelphia, and toured with the Philadelphia Opera Company headed by Sylvan Levin."

In her letter Phyllis wrote: "Believe me, Gladys, it was a wonderful experience. I have always dreamed of playing with the Quartet, but I was so sure I would never be asked. The last time the 'boys' had played a viola quintet, they asked the first chair of the Boston Symphony, so then I was sure I would never have a chance. But I did! It was such fun, too, to rehearse with the 'boys'—I enjoyed every minute."

I went into Station WRKD a few days ago and had a talk with Manager Huber, and was glad to learn that some letters had come in response to the plea set forth in a recent music column to express appreciation of the better type programs the Station is endeavoring to give to music lovers. It might interest you, too, to know what Mr. Huber had written me after seeing this particular column:

"Your column in last Saturday's Courier-Gazette points up a very important factor in our program planning. We try our best to satisfy to some degree, everyone who listens to WRKD. It is not possible to contact each listener personally—so we must rely on volunteered opinions, which come to our office either via telephone or mail.

"As you probably know, ABC broadcasts the Metropolitan Opera every Saturday afternoon throughout the winter months—concluding usually in March. WRKD will definitely carry the opera each Saturday afternoon. I can't be positive about Piano Playhouse."

Announcement is made from the Church of St. John the Evangelist, Beacon Hill, Boston, that St. Gregory's Day, March 12 will be observed there with a musical Service at 8 o'clock in the evening. The Schola Cantorum, Everett Titcomb, will be assisted by George Faxon, Organist of St. Paul's Cathedral, together with the choir of All Saints Church, Ashmont, Stanley Rudnicki, Choirmaster, and of Christ Church, Hyde Park, Roy E. H. Carlson, Choirmaster.

Music lovers, especially those interested in liturgical music, who might be in Boston at this time, would find this musical service most gratifying. I might add that Mr. Titcomb is one of New England's outstanding musicians.

Music will not be neglected during the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II. During the actual ceremony in Westminster Abbey there will be an orchestra conducted by Sir Adrian Boult, and one the eve of the Coronation Day there will be a concert in the Royal Festival Hall.

This concert is expected to introduce the 10 short pieces for unaccompanied voices that the Arts Council has commissioned from 10 British composers. The idea for the commissions was suggested by "Orliana," the collection of madrigals written for Queen Elizabeth I. In the new collection, however, the texts must be by living composers. A DISTINGUISHED MASTER

Capt. Benjamin W. Dunton in characteristic pose

(During my youth Captain Benjamin Dunton lived on my street and he was the epitome of all my young ideals. Straight as a ramrod, slender and handsome in his uniform with somehow inherent in him the calm air of command and the certain knowledge that he was destined to walk the high places in life—Ben Dunton had everything. He had too, the bluest eyes I ever saw and a face, stern in repose, which could, when he smiled, bring an answering smile to all those around him. I can see him saunter to the rail of his tall-stacked Boothbay and signal the "cast off" and the echo shattering whistle blast as though it were yesterday, and can be sure it was the same unassuming Capt. Dunton, who stood casually on the bridges of a succession of the world's greatest ships.—Ed.)

Captain Walter E. Scott, long time friend of Captain Dunton and associate in the "Eastern" service pays tribute to Captain Dunton as our most successful Downeast Steamboat captain. His tribute is rerun from last week to correct a proofreaders error.

Tribute To Capt. Dunton
It would be a great honor to me to dedicate this article to a great Penobscot Bay Captain, a lifelong friend of mine and a man who served me well, his good will, his loyalty to me and my office during World War I is unmeasurable in scope.

There were a great many of the old timers who resented my appointment to the office I held with the Eastern, as I was much younger and my service with the Eastern had been much less in the terms of years, but the loyal officers who understood the situation far off-set those who opposed, and much was in my favor of the loyalty of those who had real power in the Eastern for the simple reason that they knew their jobs. I assisted Mr. Austin in a good many ways during the first world war after his right hand man, Andrew Sides entered the service. Mr. Sides was one of the Easterns most valuable men and Mr. Austin's most reliable consultant in outside operations in those days, and many times in those first World War years, I heard Mr. Austin say "I wish Andrew were here." My office had Mr. Sides' support and I have always considered him my friend.

Capt. Benjamin Dunton was skipper of the Boothbay while the Eastern owned her, up to the time she was taken over by the government. In early 1918 the Eastern was assigned to operate some lake steamers. Mr. Austin held me responsible to place on the first ship we were to operate a captain whom we could depend on to make good. I sent for Capt. Dunton and when he came to my office I sent him to Detroit to take command of the S. S. Lake Ormoe. Capt. Dunton brought her down from the Lakes stopping at Sydney, Cape Breton, for a cargo of coal. He brought it to Boston for discharge, ran her on the coast for awhile, until she was taken over by the Mallory Line. He stayed on her as master until she was again turned over to the Bull Steamship Company. Later she was turned over to the Ward Line. He remained with the Ward Line and took over the first tanker that was built for them in Chester, Pa., the S. S. Agawmoom and afterward all their new ships.

No country is competent to decide a great question sanely until it can discuss it without name-calling.

The world is having a hard time making up its mind whether to come to peace or go to pieces.

The regular meeting of the Youth Fellowship, with their leader, Mrs. Vera Johnson, will be held in the Union Church vestry on Sunday at 5:45 p. m. All from the 8th grade up are welcome.

Stated meeting of Marguerite Chapter OES will be held Monday evening at 8:30 with installation of officers. Worthy Matron Doris R. Arey will be the installing officer assisted by Past Matron Leola Smith. This will be a semi-private installation, with refreshments and dancing following the meeting.

Mrs. Dorothy Sutcliffe entertained the Knit-Wits at her home on Tuesday evening. A delicious luncheon was served by the hostess, followed by an evening of handiwork and conversation.

Church Meeting
The Wednesday evening meeting at Union Church this week was in charge of the Church School Committee, and conducted by Mrs. Patricia Crossman. After the repetition of the Lords Prayer, the congregation joined in singing "Faith Of Our Father" to open the religious service. Gladys Dyer accompanied at the piano.

A varied program was then presented to the large appreciative congregation. The program follows. Vocal solo, "My Heart Stood Still," "With A Song In My Heart" sung by Gary Oakes, accompanied by Arthur Brown. A tribute to Hazel Dyer, "The Roving Kind," read by Margaret Page Hood. Valse Triste by Sibelius, Arthur Brown, pianist. We Every Day Artists, sketches by Patricia Crossman. A closing hymn was sung by the congregation followed by the benediction. Refreshments were served by Pauline Hopkins and her committee.

Night Hawks
Mrs. Doris S. Arey was hostess to the Night Hawks at her home on Wednesday evening. An attractive and tasty lunch was served featuring some of Doris' home-made lemon sherbert. Plans were completed for a White Elephant party to be held at the home of Frances Gilchrist on next Wednesday. Each member is asked to bring two white elephants.

Woodchipper Provides Mulch, Bedding, Litter From Woodland Waste

A workman feeds a branch into the hopper of the woodchipper which will accept up to a six inch stick; with adequate power in the driving unit. It takes a three man crew to keep up with the hungry chipper which whips waste woods through the cutters and out the chute at high speed. Once started into the blades, the stick is drawn ahead rapidly by the action of the chipper.

A torrent of chips pour out of the chute leading from the chipper blades. Size of the chips can be controlled by the operator. The picture above shows clearly the method of mounting the unit on a medium size tractor. Power is supplied from the tractor's power takeoff with vee belts driving the cutter head. Mounting the unit on a vehicle which can easily travel over woodland is advocated.

HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT NOTES

Care Of Silk Stockings and Special Souring Of Cream Discussed Today

Dear Homemaker:

Watch the girl who sells them for tips on saving hosiery. The salesgirl knows that smooth handling pays to avoid snags that lead to runs and ruin. So she keeps her hands and fingernails smooth and avoids wearing rings that might catch and pull the delicate fabric. In stores, hosiery is kept in smooth boxes, each pair separated by smooth paper.

Such stress on smoothness may seem extreme unless you count the cost of casualties from contacts with rough surfaces. Probably no other item of women's wear needs such care as hosiery.

How To Smooth The Way For Stocking

1. Keep stockings in a smooth container, each pair separate, instead of tumbling them together in a drawer where they may catch on rough wood or something else in the drawer. Satin-lined hosiery boxes are for sale.

2. Stores advise rinsing new stockings before wearing them and then washing after each day's wear. This helps keep them in shape for a good fit and prevents possible damage from perspiration. Nylon is affected by some acids, and silk by alkaline substances.

3. Even if you wash only a pair at a time, it may pay to wash in a cheese-cloth bag as a protection against snag. Use lukewarm milk suds of soap or other detergent. Squeeze the bagful in the wash-water and then in rinse-water. Roll the bag in a bath towel to remove excess moisture. Then either dry the stockings in the bag or hand them over in a bath towel. Never hang hose on a rough rack or pin them on a line to flap in a breeze. Never dry in hot sun or near a hot radiator.

4. The life of your stockings may depend on how you put them on. Many a run in a brand new stocking has started by putting toes in the top and then jerking or pulling on fast. Safest way to don hosiery is to roll the stocking down to its foot, place your foot in its toe, then gently roll it up, guiding the seam as you go.

5. Worn shoe linings, rough edges on shoes or shoe buckles, or even rough callouses on the feet can catch and snag hose. Just now starched petticoats and stiffened undershirts or hems are in high fashion but they can play havoc with hose. So can rough places on furniture! A little sandpapering or waxing of a rough chair or table leg thus may save hosiery bills.

If you find a snag in a stocking, pull it inside where it is less likely to catch and pull. Sometimes you can halt a tiny hole by mending with yarn raveled from a worn stocking. Keep a few ravelings rolled on a spool in your mending basket, the specialists suggest. Other thrifty uses for old stockings. Painters use them for straining paint. Some homemakers report that nylons are resilient enough to make good stuffing for pillows.

Sour Cream At It's Best
Here's an interesting food item that you may want for your recipe file.

Sour cream, a favorite garnish for many dishes and a delectable ingredient in others, can be made at home from fresh, sweet cream. It can also be purchased from many commercial dairies in the larger cities.

Dairy specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture recommend specially prepared sour cream over cream that has become sour in or out of the refrigerator. Cream which has turned sour over a number of days is unlikely to have that clean acid flavor which is desirable.

To prepare sour cream from sweet cream simply calls for adding buttermilk, the specialists explain. Here are the directions:

Shake bottle of sweet cream thoroughly and pour out about half of it. Shake buttermilk thoroughly. For each pint of cream to be soured, add about five teaspoons of the buttermilk to the cream in the bottle. Pour back enough cream to fill the bottle to within three-fourths of an inch of the top. Place a lid or stopper on the bottle and shake well. Set the bottle of cream in a warm place, 70 to 85 degrees, for 24 hours. The cream is then ready for use but it will improve in body if stored in a refrigerator for a day.

Whipped sour cream makes a tangy garnish for such soups as cream of pea, bean or beet soup. With horseradish and other flavoring, whipped sour cream is a happy idea for meat sauce. And it makes the basis of a fine tart cucumber sauce for fish. Whipped or unwhipped, it is well-liked in salad dressings.

Whipping sour cream gives a smoother and stiffer consistency even for any recipe which does not call for cooking, according to department cookery specialists. As with sweet cream, it is important not to overwhip sour cream or it will turn to butter.

World-Wide Reputation

Workers at the Maine Agricultural Experiment Station have a world-wide reputation.

That was proved again this week with the receipt at the Experiment Station offices in Orono of a Scandinavian agricultural journal published in Stockholm, Sweden.

Swedish agricultural scientists writing about potato aphids had quoted the Maine scientists several times in their articles and had given them credit in their list of references.

FARM AND GRANGE NEWS OF INTEREST IN KNOX AND LINCOLN COUNTIES

Notes of a Poultryman

Any poultryman will admit that a person afraid of a little dirt should never go near a hen house and there is no question but that a man's Sunday clothes cannot be worn in a henhouse very long before they show definite signs of his occupation. However most of us are familiar with the adage that the dirt you can see will not do you any harm.

But many persons who see usually in conventional street attire have occupations that have more or less disagreeable aspects at times. All who deal with the health and sickness of human beings as well as accidents have highly distasteful tasks. The men who crawl beneath our automobiles, service our plumbing, clean our furnaces, tar our roads, etc., all have tasks that are neither soil nor odor free.

Again we have those who meet with groups of humans, such as school teachers, and though their tasks may be pleasant in many ways, there are problems, especially with the youngsters in the lower grades and there is always more danger of contracting contagious diseases.

Fortunately, our senses become a little dulled by repetitive sights, sounds and smells. The layman gasps for breath in a poultry house because of strong ammonia fumes, yet the owner merely grins and remarks that it is often much stronger than that. Thousands of busy feet will churn coarse sawdust into micro-particles that waft through the air in clouds and settle inch thick on everything in the building. The poultryman pays no attention to these problems, but when the house is empty a different kind of odor that is several times as offensive makes one eager to get the building cleaned out as quickly as possible.

In spite of all this dust and dirt the poultry business seems to be a healthful one. Only those with asthma or some other respiratory trouble have difficulties.

When these little balls of down, known as day old chicks arrive, a hundred of them weigh only about 11 pounds. It is still amazing to me what those little fellows will do to the sawdust litter on the floor, which may be six inches deep when they arrive and only four inches deep a week after they have been running on it. How many miles does a chick run in the course of a day, it must be quite a distance to pound down a square foot of litter in so short a time. That's what most of them have, a square foot each.

Pretty soon, the feathers begin to sprout and then the air is filled with that down and believe me several thousand chicks can shed a lot of down. But those feathers are not the final crop by any means, they keep on molting from time to time until they reach full growth. Finally, if they are pullets, they emerge with really beautiful feather coats and then the owner is ready to start collecting eggs.

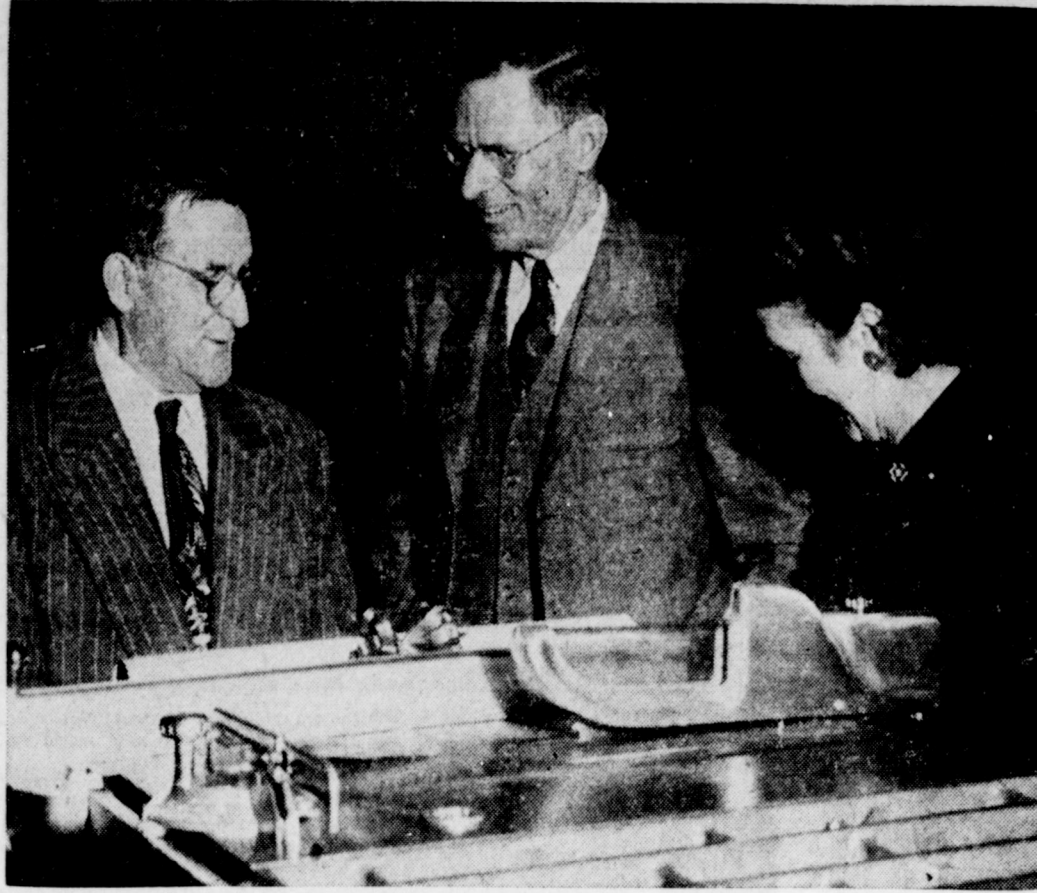

Those feathers tell a lot of stories to the expert poultryman. When the chickens are healthy, their coats are smooth and well kept. Any trouble and those feathers begin to roughen and take on a lifeless look. If chickens are not warm enough, their feathers are ruffled, if coccidiosis is present the feathers show it, approaching respiratory trouble shows up in the feathers. Later on, when the pullets have been laying a while, any pullet that still looks sleek is eyed with suspicion for the real workers have begun to look rather shabby. When the poultryman is checking his flock, he can find a story in the wing feathers that show whether or not a bird is in production.

Hens have wonderful eyes, far sharper than those of a human being. Those eyes are both microscopic and telescopic and there is mighty little that escapes Mrs. Biddy. Those eyes tell a story too. The poultryman learns a lot about his flock by looking each bird in the eye. First class fowl have bright clear eyes, while those out of condition have eyes that are often dull looking.

A jagged pupil with a grayish effect indicates a form of leucosis and while that bird may still be dropping eggs, it will not be for long and there should be no delay in getting the bird to market. That is where a lot of poultrymen slip up. After the flock has been in production for a while some birds cannot "take it" and begin to fade. Most of them do not die over night but fade gradually until they are walking skeletons. Generally it is leucosis, one of the leading causes of death among laying hens. If one feeds grain or pellets on the litter, it is quite easy to spot these birds as they do not join the mad scramble, but stay along the edges of the house.

In the poultry business, the percentage of lay is all important and the only way to keep this percentage up for long periods of time is to keep the flock free from disease and incompetent birds. There are other factors, of course, but as-

"Pop" Wentworth Honored By People He Served For 32 Years

Farm people of the Coastal Area honored Ralph and Helen Wentworth at a reception in Waldoboro Wednesday night on the occasion of his retirement following 32 years of service to the farmers of the section. Above, Ralph, center, and Mrs. Wentworth admire a power saw which was the gift of the members of the Knox-Lincoln Extension Association. With the couple is Chester Light of Waldoboro who was a member of the executive committee which hired "Pop" back in 1920 when he opened the first Extension office in the town of Warren.

THE GRANGE CORNER

NEWS OF THE GRANGES IN KNOX AND LINCOLN COUNTIES

suming that you have a good strain of layers, constant culling is vital. One could go further in raising the percentage by taking out all birds not laying at the moment, but that is going too far.

Most hens have brief rest periods and go broody from time to time but these hens will soon be back laying. One must learn to tell the difference between a bird that is taking a brief rest and one which is out of production for good.

Frank Reed, our Maine poultry specialist took up the subject of Leghorns in his monthly "Poultry Topics," and discussed the situation in a very comprehensive manner. Mr. Reed urges us all to watch our steps a little before we go Leghorns all the way. Anyone who is thinking about a flock of Leghorns for this season would do well to get a copy of this bulletin, if he is not already receiving it by mail.

According to Mr. Reed, the picture is not quite as bright as some enthusiasts have painted it, although he does not advise against a trial run.

Owl's Head Grange

On Jan. 27 Third and Fourth Degrees were conferred by Master Robert Murray on a class of six candidates: Joan Philbrook, Sylvia Raynes, Cynthia Palmer, Beatrice Harvey, Jeanne Stewart and Patricia Raynes.

A harvest supper was served before the meeting.

Members of Owl's Head Grange are invited to attend a harvest supper at Weymouth Grange on Feb. 2. Members who attend are asked to take sweets. The Acorn Grange team will confer the degrees.

Refreshments for the social on Jan. 30 are in charge of Hilma Niles, and on Feb. 3, Aletha Munro. A supper will be served by the men on Feb. 23. It will be followed by an entertainment and dance. Robert Murray is chairman with Arthur Decker and Herbert Libby on the committee.

Margaret Greeley, Grace Kirk and Marcia Greene were reported sick.

Orders For Conservation Materials

Many Maine farmers whose 1953 conservation plans include the use of lime and fertilizer to carry out soil building practices are placing their orders now. Orders for lime and fertilizer may be placed through committeemen or county offices if the Production and Marketing Administration.

L. A. Chatto, executive officer at the State FMA office, explained today that farmers may purchase these soil building materials directly from dealers, or have them furnished through the Agricultural Conservation Program under its conservation materials plan.

A good many think they have reformed when as a matter of fact they've merely grown too old for sinning.

First Installment Of Thomaston Scrapbook

The house on Main street, Thomaston, built by Captain Charles Ranlett, sold by him to the Hon. A. P. Gould, long owned by the late Albert T. Gould and now owned by Mr. Griswold.

By F. L. S. Morse
Main Street Homes

This article is the first of a series planned to cover the town of Thomaston, street by street, recording the buildings that appeared with the names of the owners on the map of 1855 and trying to trace the histories of the lots and buildings to the present. When these can appear in The Courier-Gazette, to be preserved in scrapbooks, much material will be on hand for a future history of the town from 1860 on.

In this article a record will be made of the buildings on Main street from Georges street to the business blocks on the northwestern side of the street. Much of the information was furnished by Mrs. Lois Creighton, visits to the Thomaston National Bank, where R. O. Elliot showed me old maps and hours at the office of the Knox County Register of Deeds have helped me in an effort to be accurate.

In the evening of Wednesday, the Tonia Circle meets at the home of Mrs. Oliver W. Holmes, 8 Purchase street. On Thursday in the vestry at 6.30 there is a Comity Circle supper meeting with Hugh Benner, president in charge. The supper committee is Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, Jr. and Mrs. Richard Spear, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Burgess and Mr. and Mrs. William Bicknell. The entertainment committee is Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Stratton, chairman, Dr. and Mrs. John S. Lowe and Miss Beatrix Flint.

Sunday afternoon at 3.30 there will be a union Youth Service at the Littlefield Memorial Baptist Church. Representing this church is Miss Marion Talbot who will read the Scripture. Admitted to the hospital during the week were Mrs. Mary Southard, Mrs. Grace Frye, Mrs. Christina Wiggins and John Post. Cards sent by members and friends are a source of helpfulness and strength. Those who aided in the preparation of the February Church and Parish Cards were Mrs. Ella Bird, Mrs. Lena True, Mrs. Brook Gregory, Mrs. George St. Clair, Miss Mabel Lamb, Miss Edna Payson, Almon Cooper, Jr., and Rex Garrett. Norman Hammond is a new teacher on the Sunday School staff. After Feb. 6, the address of William Schofield will be: Army Air Force, Sampson Air Base, Geneva N. Y.

At the Church of the Nazarene, Rev. Oakley E. Woodward, pastor: Sunday services will be as follows: Sunday School, 9.45; morning worship at 10.45; N.Y.P.S. at 6 p. m. and evening evangelistic service at 7.30. The first house east of Georges street was the home of John Copeland who married Lucy Malcolm of Cushing. Malcolm built Georges Hotel, even manufacturing the bricks, probably near the old bridge that spanned the Georges River at South Warren. He managed the hotel many years.

After his death, W. O. Masters and his wife, a niece of Mrs. Copeland, lived there until Mrs. Copeland died after an invalidism of 13 years. John Ryder and family lived there many years. Later it was the home of William W. Gilchrist. It is now owned by Mrs. Gamage.

The next house was the home of Capt. William M. Hyler and his wife, Letitia Malcolm Hyler, the latter a niece of Mrs. Copeland. They were the parents of Mrs. Creighton, who has given me so much data. Later Silas Hanley lived there and it was long the home of Henry Jones, who died recently.

Next was the home of David O'Brien, an attorney. His daughters lived there for years and were milliners with rooms in the O'Brien Block, now the Pearson Clothing Factory. The house is now owned by Miss Minnie Massener who lives in another state.

Edward Ellis O'Brien, a wealthy and prominent citizen and son of the noted Edward O'Brien, lived in the next house now owned by Mr. Whitman.

The house on the western corner of Booker street was long the residence of John D. Barnard, whose wife was a sister of Dr. Benjamin Buxton of Warren, well-known physician and Prison Commissioner. One daughter married Fred Robinson of Vinalhaven. Another daughter lived there after the death of her parents. The place is now owned by Ralph Jackson.

The vacant lot east of Booker street and long called the Starr lot has an interesting history. It was the old tannery of Spencer Vose, later owned by Josiah Keith, who was assisted by one Edward Breck who owned a small place near the mill and later moved to China, Maine. Josiah Keith had his residence here built about 1800. His wife, Experience (Orberton) later married Mathew Campbell. In 1856 the house was burned. Mrs. Campbell died in 1859. Keith's daughter Clementine Starr and her son William came to live in the new house built after the fire. A part of this was moved to Beechwoods street and the rest was moved to Hyler street and owned by the late Horace Vose.

The Cushing house was owned by Sara C. (Paine) Cushing, widow of Robert Cushing. The land had been purchased from George F. O'Brien who bought it from William R. Keith.

The house was either the Andrews house, now occupied by Mr. Feehan or on the same side. It would seem that the house later owned by Mrs. Golden, who married Robert Webster Shibles, and now owned by Mr. Snowman, was one of the Perkins homes and the house now owned by Mrs. Long was the other. This was once the home of the late Edward B. Carleton, a well-known citizen and former County Treasurer, later owned by Charles Creighton 2d, and still later the Methodist parsonage. In 1875 it appeared by the map to belong to Oliver Jordan.

The house near the northeastern end of the Mall was built about 1860 by Capt. Eben Creighton, later owned by Eben Creighton, 2d, and Mr. Overlock, now owned by Dr. Biggers.

The large house known as the Heald house was the home of Joshua Jordan but was apparently a Henderson place. Dr. Piper once lived there and Dr. Dennison practiced there for some years.

The next house was built by Capt. Charles Ranlett, a shipbuilder and sold to Hon. A. P. Gould, long owned by the late Albert T. Gould and now owned by Mr. Griswold.

The home of Lionel Jealous seems to have belonged to the Hendersons in 1855 and to the Jordans in 1875. Later it was in turn occupied by William Catland, and Addie Catland Coburn, and Levi Gilchrist.

The house now owned by Mrs. McAvoy was built by the late Dr. John E. Walker, the popular and beloved family physician of so many of the older citizens. This was the site of an older house owned by Richard Robinson, a leading citizen, and later by John O. Robinson.

Where the Masonic Hall now stands, there stood in 1855 the home of Elizabeth, widow of Joel Miller, who was warden of the prison, State Senator and Judge of Probate. In 1872 it was sold by Sophronia, Amasa and Jane Miller to Lorella, wife of Capt. Charles Stimpson, who built the beautiful residence long known as the Stimpson house. A Mr. Anderson lived there. It was destroyed by fire a few years ago. The shed was removed to the almshouse and the bay windows adorn a home at Pleasant Point.

The Aaron Clark house, where his father, Luther Clark lived, was formerly the Dunbar Henderson place or rather one of several houses so called.

The map of the town printed in 1875 shows a large vacant lot owned by Chapman and Flint. Since then the present home of Rita Smith was built by her father, the late Sidney Smith, a prominent banker and the present home of Mrs. Hattie Creighton, was built by the late Charles Creighton and sold to Capt. James Creighton.

In the space where at present the homes of Richard Feehan, Mrs. Snowman and Mrs. Long are seen, the 1855 map showed four homes marked Mrs. Cushing, A. Perkins, Asa Perkins and Oliver Jordan. The 1875 map shows homes belonging to William Andrews, A. Perkins, Oliver Jordan and one without a name, but apparently going with the Jordan place.

Sarah C. Cushing bought her place from Dr. Moses Ludwig who reserved a small building he used as an office.

The famous—and favorite—Boston Pops is on tour, Troy, N. Y., being the first of 50 cities the orchestra will visit between Jan. 15 and March 28 when the tour ends in Syracuse.

For the Pops' conductor, Arthur Fiedler, the tour will not only mean a great deal of packing and unpacking and conducting, it will also mean a temporary interruption of his favorite pastime—chasing fires. Fiedler, who is an honorary Fire Chief and Police Commissioner has a short-wave radio-equipped green convertible which he uses to get him to Boston fires.

To citizens of Boston a common sight is to see Fiedler dashing off to a fire, his Dalmatian pup perched on the seat beside him, his fire siren open full blast. The Pops' conductor's penchant for haunting holocausts is also well known in other cities in which he is a frequent guest conductor. Many of them, including Chicago and San Francisco, have issued him honorary Fire Chief badges.

Kippy Karnival Kween Candidates Chosen

The students of Rockland High chose the girls who will be candidates for Kween of Kippy Karnival Friday. Pictured above are the five misses elected by their classmates. Left to right are: Judy Campbell, Marilyn Seavey, Jean Talbot, June Gardi and Jackie Rogers. Elections for Kween will take place next week with the announcement of the winner being withheld until the start of the coronation march at the Kippy Karnival hall on Feb. 14.

The committee of merchants, teachers and students who will gather the prizes for the Kween of Kippy Karnival and her court met at the high school Thursday.

The group decided to purchase and present a trophy to the girl selected by her classmates as Kween.

Merchandise prizes donated by business people will be distributed equally amongst the five candidates for the title. The decision was made at the meeting. In the past, the Kween has received the greater portion of the gifts with the remainder going to the girls of her court.

Present for the discussion were: Mrs. Ruth Hoch, who heads the merchants committee this year; Sam Savitt, who originated the gift program and who headed it for seven years. From the school faculty were: Principal Boothby, Mrs. Ivy Hart and Lewis Levitt. Students participating were: Bruce London, Charles Sewall and Richard Hanley.

Sol Sulka of Sulka Jewelers has donated the trophy which will be awarded this year and has expressed a willingness to continue with a gift of a trophy in the years ahead.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Harvey, Jr.

Ruth Ann Hawkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin K. Hawkins of St. George, and Loren Linwood Harvey, Jr., son of Mrs. Leroy Poole of Rockland, were united in marriage by the Rev. John Fitzpatrick, Jan. 18 at 3 o'clock in the First Baptist Church at St. George. The double ring ceremony was used.

The bride wore an aqua suit with navy trim with hat of winter white felt. Her corsage was of white carnations. The maid of honor, Carol Hawkins, sister of the bride, wore an aqua suit with pink hat. Her corsage was yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Patricia Hawkins, sister of the bride, wearing a navy suit and blue hat, and Loretta Harvey, sister of the bridegroom, wearing an aqua suit and white hat. Both wore corsages of pink carnations.

The best man was Merrill Minzy and the ushers were Ralph Hupper and Walter Mosely.

The church was attractively decorated with pine and baskets of white gladioli and snapdragons. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Sten Skoglund, Mrs. Kendall Hawkins sang "Because."

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church vestry. Mrs. Russell Thomas finished cutting the cake and Mrs. Julian Hawkins dipped punch. Miss Leola

Robinson was in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. Phyllis Harvey had charge of the gifts.

Mrs. Harvey is a graduate of St. George High School and is employed by Karl M. Leighton, Jeweler. Mr. Harvey is a graduate of Rockland High School and is employed at General Seafoods.

After a short wedding trip they will be at home to their friends at 88 Camden street, Rockland.

Submit Orders For Fruit Trees

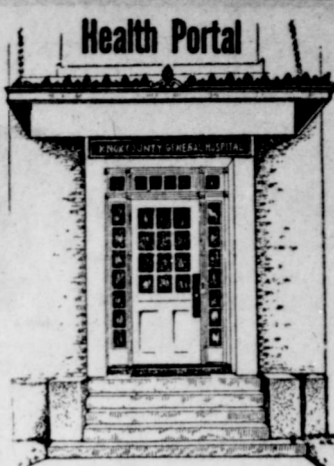

Now Maine orchardists are now submitting orders for the fruit trees they want to plant this spring. The orders, for lots of 50 or more trees, are being sent through the Apple Tree Pool, which closes Feb. 15.

Prices are about the same as last year. This is in spite of general price increases on fruit trees.

All standard commercial varieties of apples and other fruit trees are available through the pool. Two new apple varieties being offered this year are Dudley and Sandow. Dudley is a hardy variety recommended for planting in Northern Maine. It is a mid-season apple, ripening just ahead of McIntosh.

Sandow is a new variety of Canadian origin and is of the Northern Spy type. Owen suggests it for limited trial only in Maine, since no experiments with it have been conducted in the State. It's reported to be hardy.

In addition to apple trees, pear, plum, peach, sweet and sour cherry trees are available through the pool. For information as to varieties recommended for Maine, obtain Maine Extension Bulletin 403, "Fruits for Maine." This free bulletin may be obtained from county agents or by writing to Frank E. Owen at the Extension Service, University of Maine, Orono.

The Day's Jewelry Store of TODAY — now in the process of being remodeled — for better and finer convenience to you — our customers.

here we GROW again!

A brand new building — Three floors in all in this spectacular, bigger and better DAY'S. A new entrance, new marquee, new windows — in short, a new look that we know you will love, inside and out. In fact — the Day's Jewelry Store of the near future will be the NEWEST thing in town!

New block-wide selling floors — North, South, East, West, wherever your eyes may turn a finer, wider selection of jewelry, and a bigger and better variety of other marvelous values. Yes... the new seven-league selling floors that stretch from one side of our city block to the other will make your shopping quicker and more convenient — pure pleasure. We've waited for this opportunity for a long time — our chance to give the city of Portland and you, our wonderful customers, the NEW DAY'S, Maine's Finest and LARGEST Jewelry Store.

Please pardon our dust, but... It's a necessary evil that we all have to endure while our store is being remodeled. We have tried (and we will continue to try) to keep our alterations from showing — to keep serving you joyously and smoothly even while we are tearing the building down around your ears and ours. We're putting our best foot forward, sideways, downward and upward to modernize, polish and fill this building with the loveliest things in all the world. We'll keep you informed of every move we make.
