Twenty-first.—To see if the town will accept the list of Jurors as revised by the Municipal Officers of said town.

The Selectmen give notice that they will be in session for the purpose of revising and correcting the list of voters, at nine o'clock in the forenoon on the day of said meeting.

ORRINGTON, Feb. 28, 1895.
REPORT OF THE Supervisor of Schools.

In this report it must be borne in mind that reference is made only to the fall and winter schools, the summer schools having been under the supervision of my predecessor; but where the same teacher was retained through the year these remarks, of course, will apply incidentally.

District No. 1.
Miss Marcia E. Lunt taught in this district five successive terms, resigning at the close of the Fall term. The school did well under her conscientious instruction.

She was followed in the Winter term by Miss Fannie T. Tolman, a graduate of Farmington Normal School and well qualified for her position; but her method, being quite different from the former teacher, caused some friction in discipline for a time. This was overcome, however, and a good degree of success was obtained.

District No. 2.
The Summer term was taught by Miss Julia C. Smith. The Fall term was continued by her three weeks, when sickness compelled her resignation, much to the regret of the whole school. Miss Maud W. Brewer finished the term with great profit to the school.

Miss Lizzie M. Nickerson cared for the Winter term with her usual interest, which was profitably appreciated by her scholars. It was gratifying to those present at the examination to observe their undivided attention.
District No. 3.

Miss Grace B. Reed. It is questionable if a more suitable teacher for this school can be obtained than Miss Reed. During the year it has grown in scholarship that is commendable. Thorough and practical has been the constant aim of both parties, teacher and scholars.

District No. 4.

Summer and Fall terms. Miss Bessie A. McGraw, teacher. These were full schools and required watchful effort to govern and faithful effort to instruct. Miss McGraw succeeded in both directions, and satisfactory work appeared to have been done.

Winter term. Mr. F. A. Hobbs came from Orono College well recommended and brought with himself ample qualifications to instruct, but a little imprudence near the beginning of the term caused some diversity of opinion which was hurtful to the school. This, however, gradually wore away and the older scholars acquitted themselves well at the close of the term. The teachers in this district were greatly handicapped by the crowded and inconvenient school room.

District No. 5.

Miss Lois A. Lethers taught the Summer and Fall terms and Miss Josephine King the Winter term. These schools passed pleasantly and profitably to the few attending. A noticeable improvement in reading was made in the latter term.

District No. 6.

Miss Alice M. Dodge, teacher. Miss Dodge's retiring manner gives a first impression of inefficiency, but a further acquaintance with her work in the school room shows her to be a very persistent body in securing desirable work.

District No. 7.

Miss Jennie E. Crowell was teacher the first two terms. She labored diligently for her pupils, who made good attainment under her instruction. A class in geography was pleasantly taught somewhat after the Kindergarten method.
Winter term. Mr. F. G. Marshall, teacher. The school was greatly profited in all the branches taught. A goodly number of large scholars attended who were devoted to study and exemplary in conduct. This proved a very successful term

District No. 8.

Summer term. Miss Geneva H. Richardson, teacher.

Fall term. Miss Hattie M. Soper, teacher. Miss Soper was well prepared for her work and efficient in its execution. The scholars soon caught her enthusiasm and labored heartily to their own great profit.

The Winter term was in the care of Miss Bessie A. McGraw, who carried on the good work to the acceptance of all concerned. There are two or three very good scholars in this school.

District No. 9.

Summer term. Miss Lucy Morgrage, teacher.

Fall term. Miss Lizzie M. Nickerson taught this school with her usual good success.

Winter term. Miss Lottie E. Mossler, in this, her first term, commended herself as a teacher. During this session and the preceding one the scholars were orderly and accomplished all that could reasonably be required of them.

Corner District.

Summer term. Mr. Henry C. Wright, teacher.

The Winter term was also taught by Mr. Wright. Among the many excellencies of this school was a critical study of English grammar, especially in its analytical and syntactical parts. Arithmetic received a scholarly attention.

High School.

The town did wisely in changing the location of this school from the Town house to the Corner school house. It was a more comfortable place in every respect. Mr. Wright seemed to intensify his interest towards the advancement of his pupils and they reciprocated by a studious, manly and deferential deportment. Several students attended to drawing and a few to Latin. The success of this school should enlist the town in its annual support.

In discharging the duties of this office I have endeavored to carry out the wishes of the School Committee as expressed at its several meetings and particularly to fulfill the wishes and contracts of the former incumbent of the office, Capt. Jas. B. Bartlett. Several teachers were either positively or conditionally engaged for the schools and their wages fixed. Agreements for wood, at fixed rates, had been made; also certain repairs; all of which I considered just claims and approved.

The town at its last annual meeting neglected to appropriate money for school books and the sum of nearly fifty dollars for that purpose had to be drawn from the school money. This is the fifth year since the introduction of free text books and most of the spellers and lower readers are nearly worn out and must be replaced. I recommend the sum of one hundred dollars for this purpose.

Only such repairs have been made as seemed absolutely necessary; further repairs are very much needed, such as grading, painting, the thorough overhauling or rebuilding of outhouses and the incidental repairs of school rooms. Under the present law this becomes the direct duty of the town and it seems proper that an appropriation for this purpose be made.

In general our schools have been quiet and prosperous, the attendance good; the qualifications of teachers ample and the interest of parents in the scholarly attainments of their children has been cordially manifested.

The care of school books and their proper distribution is quite a burden to teachers and to the Supervisor; for as new classes are formed from term to term, the special books required for such classes must often be sought in other districts. In this way the greater part of the books are kept in constant use and their durability quite limited. It is a matter of regret that so much indifference is shown in the care of these books. It seems, however, to be a local disorder confined principally to a couple of districts.

In closing this brief report you will, I feel assured, unite with me in expressing the deep interest manifested by your late supervisor in all that pertained to the advancement of our common schools. Trained in their rigorous discipline of a generation ago, Capt. Bartlett loved good order, methodical arrangement and an implicit obedience to law. Long habituated to command on shipboard he allowed the school teacher to “tread the quarter-deck” with like authority. Somewhat in contrast to this sterner mood, however, he was tender of heart, sympathetic and kindly benevolent; always ready to direct the industrious, relieve the needy and encourage the plodding student; an upright citizen who cordially embraced the prosperity of his native town. So far as I can learn, he is the second town officer to die in the discharge of his official duties since the organization of the town.

Respectfully submitted,

J. WYMAN PHILLIPS,
Supervisor.
