THE CHARITY CLUB.

BEING A STORY OF SEVERAL GIRLS IN CAMP.

The Outdoor Life, Boating, Fishing and Rambles in the Woods—Sports Freely Indulged in Bring Health and Happiness—What the Maine Woods is Doing for Wise People.

(By H. L. Goodwin.)

At the daily meeting of the Charity Club between the dinner and evening study hours, there was an air of suppressed excitement that indicated matters of importance for consideration. The Charity Club was in no way a philanthropic organization, but simply a circle of four seniors in a young ladies' seminary, formed for "mutual improvement and entertainment, and because we like each other well enough to share our hearts and homes. Charity begins at home, so we call it the "Charity Club" as one of the members explained to a friend outside the charmed sphere.

"Oh, girls!" exclaimed Louise Bradley with fervor; here is the very thing for us! Now listen to this!" She drew a tiny scrap of newspaper from her purse and read: "For sale cheap, and on terms to suit, a small abandoned farm in a healthy locality among the New Hampshire hills, high altitude, fine view, charming lake nearby; fifty acres of land, half of it suitable for cultivation, the rest woodland; large house in fair state of preservation, and good barn. Fine place for summer home, or to take boarders. All conveniences, stores, postoffice, etc., handy. Address, etc."

"There, now; what better do we want than that? Summer boarders is just the thing. Can't you hear the gold coins jingling already, girls. Seriously, it is just the thing, I am sure. There is money in summer boarders, and what could be more delightful than this little old farm in the New Hampshire hills, with all conveniences handy. What do you say, shall we investigate?"

The girls were all enthusiasm at once and the question was discussed on all sides and in all its phases. Of the four Louise Bradley, though the youngest, was leader in everything, and her suggestions were usually safe to follow, for she had a wise little head on her young shoulders. None of the four belonged to wealthy families, and all were obliged to work their way through school though their parents were as liberal with them as circumstances would permit. They were looking forward to life in a university, and ways and means were important questions and they were often discussing money-making propositions. All had taught some in country districts, and all hoped to become successful teachers of the higher branches of learning.

Mollie Farley, Agnes Ward and Frances Chapman were at once interested in the plan Louise suggested, with the result that they wrote to the advertiser that night, asking for full particulars, which they received a few days later. They found the description of the place so alluring and the terms offered so satisfactory that Louise was sent to make a personal examination of the place and its surroundings. Then the four steeled themselves to the utmost and raised money for the first payment, which, though it was not a large sum, was the cause of many a longing for girlish fancies going unsatisfied, but all for an ambitious hope for the future. The first of May the property was in their hands and their hopes ran high.

Ten days later two bright-eyed girls, full of confidence but feeling very poor of purse, alighted from the stage at the gate of their purchase. It was a Friday night and they had two whole days in which to look the place over thoroughly, make a list of the articles of furniture needed and arrange for the few repairs they expected to find imperative. They had bargained for the house partly furnished and in truth it was; but when she saw the condition of the furniture—old-fashioned in the extreme, but not of the massive antique sort that is nowadays sought eagerly by connoisseurs, and devoid of paint—Francis was ready to cry; but Louise, the originator of their plan, who had some pretensions of being an artist and really could paint quite creditable little things, had grasped the possibilities of the situation and was delighted.

"Why Frances, what makes you so sober? This dear old furniture will be perfectly charming when it is painted white and hand decorated. That shall be my part of the work of getting ready for house keeping," she exclaimed gleefully. "And what a lot of it there is! Why, there is everything here that we shall need, except dishes and bed clothing!" And there was.

The Marlin Repeating Shotgun

Made famous by its dependability. The solid top and side ejection keep gases and powder away from your eyes; help quick, effective repeat shots. Rain, sleet, snow and foreign matter can't get into the action. The mechanism is strong, simple, wear-resisting. The double extractors pull any shell instantly; two special safety devices prevent accidental discharge while action is unlocked, and an automatic recoil block makes bang fire harmless. All Marlins are strongly made, finely balanced, accurate, hard hitting guns, and are the quickest and easiest to take down and clean. Illustration shows Model 24 grade "A," 12 gauge; it has all the features that make for a perfect gun.

At the Methodist church last Sunday, there were special temperance exercises in the Sunday school; over 85 were present, and many signed the total abstinence pledge. The following letter written by President Taft was read:

The White House,
Washington.

My Dear Young Friends:

The excessive use of intoxicating liquor is the cause of a great deal of the poverty, degradation, and crime of the world, and one who abstains from the use of such liquor avoids a dangerous temptation. Abraham Lincoln showed that he believed this in writing out for his boy friends the pledge of total abstinence so often quoted. Each person must determine for himself the course he will take in reference to his tastes and appetites; but those who exercise the self-restraint to avoid altogether the temptation of alcoholic liquor are on the safe and wiser side.

Sincerely Yours,
Wm. H. Taft.

Mr. James Worthley and family are saddened by the news of the death of his brother, Hiram P. Worthley of Concord, Mass., Jan. 29, and two weeks after the death of her father, the only daughter, Miss Nellie Worthley, passed away. Mr. Worthley was born in Avon, Me., 66 years ago and was a veteran of the Civil war. A widow and two sons are left for whom much sympathy is felt by many relatives and friends, both in Maine and Massachusetts.

Mrs. Julia Whitney of Phillips was a caller in town today.

Mrs. Fred J. Ward, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. W. P. Holman, returned to her home in Wilton last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Ray Whitney of Beverley, Mass., are receiving congratulations on a little daughter born St. Valentine's day, Feb. 14. Mr. Whitney is the grandson of Mr. Benj. B. Burbank of this town.

The High school gave a speaking contest Tuesday evening, Feb. 14th at the Methodist church. The parts were well rendered and the speakers chosen to represent the Strong High school at Phillips, Feb. 24 are Miss Lulu Phillips and Neil Luce. Much credit is due Mrs. Weston P. Holman for training the speakers. The admission fee was 10 cents and the amount taken at the door was $6.75. Following is the program:

RANGELEY.

Feb. 21, 1911.

Lyman Kempton has returned from several weeks visit among relatives in Massachusetts.

At the K. of P. meeting last week the third and fourth degrees were conferred after which a chicken supper was served.

A little son arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Horr Wednesday of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Nate H. Ellis are spending the week in Quincy, Mass.

The Ladies' Aid meet this week with Mrs. Ida Kempton.

Donald Mathieson was in Phillips Saturday.

There was no preaching services at the church Sunday as the pastor, the Rev. L. A. White, is confined to the house with a severe cold, and erysipelas.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Herrick are in Boston and vicinity for a short time.

Mrs. John Oakes and Ray Oakes were called to Madison last week by the serious illness of the latter's mother.

Much sympathy is extended to Mrs. J. E. Lamb, who on Monday received the news of the death of her mother, mother, Mrs. Georgia Bigelow, at Augusta. Mrs. Lamb is confined to the house with a severe attack of rheumatism and was unable to attend the funeral.

Considering the fact that the evening was dark and stormy and so many of our town's people ill, there was a fair attendance at the lecture Friday evening. Those who attended felt amply repaid in listening to Prof. Tubbs' remarks. They were also favored with a solo by Mr. Everett Bean of Massachusetts.

Five candidates were admitted to Summit Rebekah lodge at their last meeting. The new degree team did their work in a very efficient manner. Refreshments of fruit, nuts and fancy cookies were served.

At the Grange there was also degree work and the literary program included papers by Lynwood Toothaker and Thayer Ellis, both of which showed thoughtful preparation.

William Tomlinson, Will Marble, Sylvader Hinkley, Leon D. Haley, Alexis Blodgett, Reed H. Ellis are among those who are in Augusta this week.

E. I. Herrick returned from Lewiston Saturday. Mrs. Herrick spent Sunday in Portland, joining her husband in Augusta the first of the week.

Mrs. Nial Lamb was called to Wilton Friday by the illness of her mother, who we have learned passed away the first of the week.

Mr. W. H. Martin, principal of the High school was also called to his home in New Hampshire Friday on account of his mother's illness. A message received from him Monday stated that she does not improve and he will not return before Saturday. William Rancour died at the home of his sister, Mrs. F. R. Rancour, on Monday, Feb. 13, after a short illness of cerebral hemorrhage. Prayers were said at the house, Wednesday, A. M. His father and brother from Fairfield arrived Tuesday night.

The Pythian Sisters had their installation of officers Thursday evening at the K. of P. hall. Past Chief, Agnes Robertson, assisted by Clare Ross and Isa Humtoon performed the work in a very pleasing manner. The officers are as follows: Most Excellent Chief, Cora Porter; excellent senior, Nora Pillsbury; excellent junior, Edna Hinkley; manager of Temple, Alice Herrick; mistress of finance, Erma McCord; mistress of records and correspondence, Ida Ross; protector of Temple, Mira Ross. A most delicious oyster supper, cake and coffee were served.

A Yarn for Harmony.

The following yarn should be credited to the Harmony correspondent of the Rockland Opinion: "We have 15 head of cattle, this winter, and we have read so much about dehorned cows that we thought we'd get one to experiment with and if we like the breed we would break the horns off the rest of the herd. Well, we attempted to tie her up but she wouldn't take her place, and, as she had no handles to get hold of we had to use our hog hook to pull her into place. Then, as fast as we got her tied, she would pull her head out of the chain. As a final resort we got it back of her ears and drew it as tight as we could and pinned it on with wife's hat pin and we had her secure. Well all went lovely for a few days, until one of our neighbors who has an Irishman helping him in the woods, told Pat to go up to Jim's and get his cant-hook. About an hour later Pat came leading the hornless cow. On being asked what he meant he replied: "Begorra, I hunted the place all over and this was the only thing I could find that can't hook."

We heard a man say the other morning that the abbreviation for February—Feb.—means Freeze every body, and that man looked frozen in his ulster. It was apparent that he needed the kind of warmth that stays, the warmth that reaches from head to foot, all over the body. We could have told him from personal knowledge that Hood's Sarsaparilla gives permanent warmth, it invigorates the blood and speeds it along through artery and vein, and really fits men and women, boys and girls, to enjoy cold weather and resist the attacks of disease. It gives the right kind of warmth, stimulates and strengthens at the same time, and all its benefits are lasting. There may be a suggestion in this for you.

RE-SUBMISSION A REALITY.

The Maine Senate voted to re-submit the question of constitutional prohibition by a strict party vote, excepting one, Senator Chandler of Washington county (Rep.), voting with the democrats in favor of the proposition.

In the house last Thursday 21 Republicans voted for resubmission making six more than the necessary two thirds.

Representative H. B. Austin of Phillips, who has for years maintained that the republican party should insist upon resubmission for the sake of rooferting and strengthening the prohibitory law, addressed the house as follows:

of the gentleman from Yarmouth, or of my friend the gentleman from Biddeford, I would prefer that the few words which I have to say now might also have been embodied in the record of the House today. The only objection to that in my mind in my own personal case would be that neither my friends, the members of this House, nor my constituents at home, nor my many friends throughout the State probably would ever see or know what they were. Now I am not going into this matter, although feeling it deeply, with the masterful ability for discussion and declamation and analysis of my friend the gentleman from Ellsworth, nor can I play upon the very utmost feelings of human sympathy, as has my esteemed friend the gentleman from Houlton. I cannot be so moved with the awful agony of this solemn hour, as is my esteemed friend from Houlton. I do not look upon the cause of temperance as upon Caesar's body lying before us here in the House of Representatives today with its life blood ebbing away through the stabs of its friends. That is not my idea of it. I have been brought up in my line of thought and in my method of thinking and in my belief that all great causes must be carried through to a successful termination by concerted and united effort. I am primarily a party man. I believe in party organization, and that party effort must be maintained to carry through to successful issues the more important questions of the day; and for that reason I have stood for some things in the past with other members of my party which seemed against my personal judgment, and the question which is now before us has been one of them. My women are dearer to me than anything else under God's Heaven. I am not here today to propose or advocate any measure which shall tear out the hearts or leave my women in shame in the streets of the State of Maine. Nor do I believe that the gentleman from Houlton, Mr. Hersey, whatever his views may be believes that the Republicans or the Democrats of this House in their support of this great question are taking steps against the comfort, the good feeling and the best interests of the women of the State of Maine, and their families and fire sides. That is all extraneous.

Remember the Name.

Foley's Honey and Tar for all coughs and colds, for croup, bronchitis, hoarseness and for racking lagrippe coughs. No opiates. Refuse substitutes. W. A. D. Cragin

Now I am making no apology for what my vote shall be upon this question either to this House, to the galleries or to my constituents. The time has come in my opinion for me not to sink my personal judgment in the unknown wishes of the majority of my constituency. I do not think the Republicans of this State of Maine or the Democrats of the State of Maine can afford longer to ignore what I believe is the wish of the great body of the people of the State of Maine. Now to go over the matter which has been gone into minutely by others, let me say that my belief is founded upon this—it is a question of political judgment and not a question of ethics. In the year 1902 our Republican party in this State came away from the polls with a plurality of over 25000; in 1904 we came out with a plurality of 26,000; in 1906, at the end of one of the most successful administrations that the State has ever had, Governor Cobb's first administration, the first two years of his administration in this State at a time when no mal-administration was charged against the Republican party and no charges of extravagance, the main questions at issue being other policies, and I say under the conditions existing at that time we came out with a majority reduced in the two years from 26,000 to 8000. For Heaven's sake, Gentlemen, can you see any writing on the wall, or are you still blind? (Applause and laughter). In 1908 at the end of Governor Cobb's second administration an administration in which our friends the Democrats vied with us in throwing bouquets to that masterful administration, our majority was still further reduced to 7000. That was not on account of gross Republican extravagance and mal-administration. It was something else. Gentlemen, there was another cat in the meal. What happened in 1910, just two years afterwards? With a man placed in nomination by the Republican party whom no man ever dared to call dishonest, who had given us two years of excellent administration, as far as honesty and the ordinary policies of the administration went, with a man against him in the Democratic party who at that time was inexperienced but who gave signs of course we say, we all say, of great merit and of good prospects. Those two men were set up against each other, the Republican having had two years of experience and two years of good administration. What is the result? Of course now my friends say, "That has nothing to do with this. We said and we proved that you Republicans were not only extravagant, were bad administrations but we more than two-thirds believe and we are going to try and make the people believe you are dishonest." I must admit that those things had force, as was proved afterwards. (Laughter). But gentlemen, I am speaking of the polls and of nothing that has happened at this present session of the Legislature. (Laughter).

But what happened in the years from 1908 to 1910? The Republican majority of 7000 wiped out and a Democratic plurality of almost 9000, a difference of over 15,000 in the State of Maine. Can't you see any writing on the wall, or are you still blind? (Applause and laughter.) Are you going to say, fellow Republicans, that the only reason that we were kicked out of office and completely discredited by the people of this state last year was simply and solely from the fact that we were grossly extravagant and totally unfitted for the administration of the government of the State? I think that is a humiliating confession. I do not believe that we are even going to let our good friend from Waterville (Mr. Pattangall) prove that we were so, although he is certainly making long strides in that direction. (Laughter.)

PETERS SEMI-SMOKELESS cartridges have made good, and have won their present leading position in the ammunition world on merit. Do not be misled; specify PETERS SEMI-SMOKELESS and do not accept a substitute, but stick to the kind that has made and holds world's records.

Now I claim this gentlemen, that the further any political party gets from the voice of the people of this State or any other, the less confidence the people will show in them. I have no fellowship or feeling whatever to any man whatever his principles are that says to me: "The danger of submitting this proposition to the people is that the majority of the people of the State of Maine may want something different." For Heaven's sake, what are we? Are we a government by the people and for the people or are we governed by maudlin sentiment? The very foundation of our governmental existence depends upon the people and we must not get out of sight of it. My claim is that the Republican party has gotten too far away from that position and is suffering therefrom today.

Now lest I may take too much time I want to close with only a very few remarks and will leave with you this thought. The Prohibitionists of this House and of this State are not all teetotalers. (Laughter and applause) Nor on the other hand, perhaps are all teetotalers prohibitionists. I am firmly of the belief that the rural sections of this State believe today that constitutional prohibition is the best policy for the state of Maine to adopt. I am not afraid to put this great question before the people of the State of Maine next September and let them decide, for I know that my good old Franklin county will return an enormous majority for constitutional prohibition. They are aching for a chance to do it. I know the county of Oxford will do it, and I know that the county of Aroostook will do it. I know the rural counties of the State will do that thing; and therefore, representing the rural sections of our State, it gives me pleasure, gentlemen, to register my vote today in favor of resubmission. I thank you. (Applause)

"MAINE INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITIES."

The first edition of "Maine Industrial Opportunities," a bulletin issued by the Industrial Department of the Maine Central railroad for advertising business openings, idle water powers, vacant buildings and opportunities for commercial and manufacturing enterprises in this state, has been exhausted in less than a month, three thousand numbers having been distributed throughout New England and the middle states. So large was the demand for this issue that it has been deemed advisable to prepare at once a second copy and, for the purpose of securing up-to-date information a circular is being sent throughout the state by the Industrial Department of the Maine Central railroad, asking for information for the bulletin's columns.

It is urged in this circular that public officials forward to the Industrial Department any facts regarding manufacturing opportunities which may exist and which the world should be told about through the medium of this publication. This work is most important and should be encouraged both by private citizens and public officials throughout the entire state. The Maine Central pays all the expense of printing the bulletin and distributing it, and the Industrial Department only asks the public to supply the facts which will attract people to the state. It is hoped that the requests for information will receive an immediate and hearty response in order that the work may be satisfactorily accomplished.

at the foot of Mt. Zircou, the third highest mountain in Maine. It is surrounded by farm and timberlands of seven hundred acres. Has an artificial pond fed by two natural trout brooks of pure spring water from the mountain and is alive with trout varying from 1-4 to 2 pounds. Protected by state laws. We took from the trout last year over 200,000 eggs which went to the state hatchery at Oquossoc, Maine.

There is not a more ideal spot in the state of Maine for a private summer home or a club house. The scenery is beautiful with nice paths through the forests, where are plenty of deer, partridge and small game. There is a large level plot suitable for a golf course or tennis court. The property occupies the entire valley, is only about four miles from Rumford Falls and the Maine Central railroad and is reached by a good carriage road.

We offer this property for sale.

Reports come from the Adirondacks in New York that the deer and elk are yarding together in peace and harmony in Essex County.

In Maine it is illegal to hunt on Sunday although the law is so faulty in construction that it is almost impossible to enforce it. In New York it is illegal to fish on Sunday but legal to hunt.

It is reported that the government will do a big job at stocking streams in Washington state next spring for this inspection.

STATE OF MAINE CLAY PIGEON SHOOTERS TAKE NOTICE.

$1000 In Prizes and Money at the State of Maine Shoot This Year, Haines Landing, Maine.

The Mooselookmeguntic Gun Club last year won the State of Maine Team Championship and this year will hold the State shoot. They are already preparing their program.

From the plans now outlined by the Club there is no doubt it will be the finest shoot ever held in the state of Maine.

The first day's program will include morning, Guides' Event; in the afternoon the Rangeley Lake Preliminary. The second day, in the morning, State of Maine Championship, five men team. Afternoon, Rangeley Lakes Championship. Third day, in the morning, Five men Inter-City Team Match, open to five men teams from any city in the United States. Afternoon, State of Maine Individual Championship will be held also the Elm House Cup.

The prizes are the very best ever offered in this state and will be on exhibition in Portland very shortly.

The entire program will be shot under the Squire Money-back system which guarantees to the poorest shooter a chance, not only to make a good winning but if he should not prove to be shooting up to his best, not to lose anything but the price of his targets.

The Club is giving prizes of a value of approximately $500 and approximately $500 in money, making it well worth while for any man that can shoot to go and shoot the entire program, as if he is shooting up in form he can no doubt, not only win good prizes but enough money to pay him for his time and expenses.

This shoot will be held at Haines Landing in June on the traps of the Mooselookmeguntic Gun Club.

The Club has made special arrangements and rates at the hotels for the shooters.

The Club has spared no expense in arranging the shoot to attract every shooter in the state and from other parts of the country.

The winner of the State of Maine Individual Championship will receive a diamond and gold medal and $50 in cash. The winner of the Rangeley Lake Championship a $30 gold medal and $40 in cash, besides getting a leg on the Rangeley Lake Championship Cup, which is a very large sterling silver cup, standing about 20 inches high. To each member of the team winning the State Championship a handsome gold and silver medal.

The program for this shoot is not out and the absolute date has not been set as yet, but it will be worth while for each and every shooter to get in practice as early as possible and make up his mind to go.

LARGEST SINGLE ORDER FOR LAUNCHES COMES FROM SOUTH AMERICA.

$50,000 Shipment of 200 18-Footers Being Made by Michigan Steel Boat Company of Detroit.

News comes from South America of a distinct increase in motor boating interest this season. It is asserted both by returning travelers and in correspondence from principal water points of the southern continent that the launch will afford one of the most

The engine is exactly the same as the one that won the Gold Medal at the Royal Imperial Technical Society of St. Petersburg, Russia, last year. Orders of this size indicate that

WITH THE FOX HUNTERS.

(Special to Maine Woods.)
New Vineyard, Feb. 13, 1911.

Norris Morton of Farmington seems to be the most successful of the fox hunting fraternity in this section. To date he has six; five killed in front of his hound, Scout, and one "dug out." This last one was not secured without some trouble, besides the digging, for Norris had his thumb bitten through and some scratches, besides, from Mr. Reynards' teeth.

Leigh Barker, with his dogs, Gypsy and Topsy and Barrett Ramsdell with Belle and her two puppies, Spot and Ranger, have had good sport and considerable of profit.

Bert Mosher has Nellie, another of Belle's progeny, that promises well as a hunting proposition.

Leigh Barker has as his section, the New Vineyard and Industry mountains, which form one chain, while Ramsdell keeps pretty closely to the region around the two Picos, with an occasional pray on the Mosher mountain and Morton has as his the section to the west of this, with Cowan and Porter hills, as the best of this hunting grounds.

Foxes are, or appear to be rather plentiful and the fox hunting farmers may milk their cows a little earlier in the morning and a little later at night, enjoy a day's outing and return with a substantial reward if his luck is good.

Horse racing is called the sport of Kings, but fox hunting is the king of sports.

Bert Mosher has shot a fox since writing the above, somebody said it was a "Sampson" but a fox is a fox even if all of them don't look alike and then again Bert is not alone on these kinds of fur.

CARRY POND CAMPS.

(Special to Maine Woods.)
Carry Pond, Me., Feb. 12, 1911.

I wish to express my views in regard to the game laws.

There should be no change in the deer law. There are ten deer here now to one of ten years ago. The moose law is alright as it now is.

There isn't any need of any change in the number of partridge to be taken, in this locality at least.

Foxes were so plenty here last fall that in my opinion they made the partridge so wild that no one here was lucky enough to get six birds.

The law on fur bearing animals should remain as it now stands except on beaver.

I think the general law making Oct 15 the open time for trapping has stood for a century, which shows it to be a popular law. Most fur-bearing animals are quite prime by Oct. 15th.

I think the unprime skins as a rule are taken in closed time from Oct.

The shipment made fifty carloads with a valuation of $50,000.

Twenty of the boats have been shipped, and the rest of the 200 are expected to go forward in the next 30 days.

Each of these boats is complete with a 3½ H. P. Detroit, two cycle, reversible engine, including all 1911 improvements. They are fitted with the Detroit patent fuel feeder which enables the engine to run without change of equipment on kerosene, al-

Open up the law for trapping beaver for a few years at least. There is no question but what beaver are doing lots of damage on townships of lumber land which contains ponds, streams and flat country.

I well remember that two years ago at the legislature one man's argument was that the beaver's dams formed ponds and pools for trout.

How about it when the spawning beds of a trout pond are in the outlet and outlet and the dams are so high that it is impossible for the trout to get to their beds in a dry time. Little Carry Pond has a spawning bed about one-half mile down the outlet. There are several large beaver dams between the pond and the spawning bed.

The past two falls have been very dry and the water was low and it was impossible for the trout to get to their spawning bed. These trout no doubt had to lay their eggs in the mud and would never mature.

I noticed in a recent issue of the Maine Woods one man said, "these dams could be torn out with very little expense by the state." I wonder if this man ever tore out a beaver dam and visited it again in two or three days?

I went to the outlet of Little Carry Pond with some friends and we tore out a dam and lowered the water about a foot. This we found to be very hard work and decided to get some dynamite. In a day or two we visited the dam with our dynamite. The beavers had repaired the dam we had torn out, but we applied the dynamite and this time made the opening wider and deeper. We went to this dam for several days and each time we found the dam one foot higher than before and the last time we visited the place we found it necessary to get a boat to reach the dam so we gave it up as a bad job. So now, Little Carry Pond is about three feet higher than its usual height with many dead trees around the shores.

THE REAL ISSUE IN MAINE.

A TALK ON PROHIBITION.

(Written for Maine Woods.)
Strong, Maine, Feb. 3, 1911.

The real issue in Maine, is the protection and sanctity of the purity and beauty of the life in our homes. It is the supreme issue every where it may be, because everything depends on the chastity of our homes, and everything centers in them. This their pockets and taken business from en out. The saloons have touched them. And it is because of this feeling that we have the prohibition sentiment sweeping over the country. Not entirely, of course, but largely.

When a young man goes out from our homes to mingle with men in other states, and to live under new conditions, we want to feel that we have safe-guarded him as far as possible by making him able to resist temptation. The real issue in Maine anybody who likes can procure liquors. Some call them "blind tigers." But what honest citizen is there, who would not prefer a hundred of these to one open saloon. If our prohibitory law has made liars, the same can be said of other laws on the statute and even the Ten Commandments of the Decalogue. There are laws against murder, lying, stealing immorality, etc. People break these laws. Are we to blame our statutes for this? No one is injured by law only the lawless. Law is nothing more nor less than a weapon of defence by which to protect the innocent and punish the guilty.

Who needs the saloons? Who desires to have the rum sellers dominate our municipal life. Who wants the saloons to offset the efforts and to nullify the influence of the church? No good citizen. No man who has the interests of the state at heart and even the man who is tempted by the saloons, and who cannot resist their temptation does not want them.

But the saloons continue to exist, and why? Because there is money in the business. There is no easier

FOR THE WINTER CAMPER

To start a fire with a gun:

Tear off that part of your wardrobe which you can best spare, soft stuff preferable. Take a bullet from a shell and reduce the charge two-thirds, filling shell in with bits of cloth. Then put your wad of cloth against some solid object and fire into it. If there is no solid object, place it on the ground and fire downward—the cloth will ignite nine times out of ten. I have, on a rainy day, started a fire in this manner with a piece of wet cotton.

If wet in cold weather—keep moving.

Sometimes this will happen to the best of skaters and hunters; some may fall in an airhole or the ice give way, and they are soaked through. If there is not material at hand to build a roaring fire, do not build a small one. It is better to keep going and going hard. The outside of your clothes may freeze, but the constant exercise will keep you warm and partly dry you. I have skated fifteen miles in zero weather after getting

Hollow ice:

When you notice a hollow sound on the ice, be careful. The water has settled and is a foot or so below the ice, and your weight may break it. The ice on a small lake has suddenly fallen by the throwing of a rock on it, this leaves an open space of water that is anything but inviting in skating weather.—Camp and Trail.

A GUIDES ASSO'N LAUNCHED

A very enthusiastic and harmonious meeting of the guides and other interested parties was held in the office of W. R. Roix in this village this afternoon. A good delegation was present from both Ox Bow and Masardis.

The meeting was called to do something in opposition to the bill before the legislature which provides a close time on all moose for a term of four years, and on which a public hearing is to be held next Wednesday. This bill has stirred up quite a commotion in this great moose section of Maine, and everyone present was up in arms against the measure.

W. R. Roix was chosen chairman

issue is more than political, it is a moral, a social and religious. This is a question of supreme importance to every citizen in the state. It is nothing less than a business and moral issue. It has a most potent bearing upon our homes, our schools and our churches. No greater question has ever confronted the citizenship of the state, than the question of Prohibition, which effects all classes and conditions of our people, the boys and girls, sons and daughters, mothers and fathers.

I am proud of our state of Maine and there are times when I hear things said of the state I cannot but strongly enter my protest against. I object to the statement no matter where it is made that it would be for the interest of Maine and of the homes and schools and churches of Maine, to change from prohibition to license. There are those who are favoring a license law, and they are doing it on the ground that a license law would improve business. The real issue is a moral one, and higher and greater than the issue they are trying to raise but they are wrong in their contention on their line.

I have had the opportunity of observing conditions elsewhere and the is the people of Maine, and we should stand everywhere for righteousness and for good citizenship.

Then, recognizing the importance of the real issue in Maine we should do something. There are men who are ready to admit the evils of intemperance but who are not willing to work for their removal. They remind me of the old woman who said at a prayer meeting, "I have made many crooked paths in life because no man liveth and sinneth not, and I know that I am a sinner, but brethren pray for me that I may keep on in the old way." Now, we do not want to go on in the old way, unless that has been the way leading to good citizenship and to right living.

And when told that a license law and the coming into the state of the open saloon would improve this business of the state there is an unanswerable argument that the saloon takes money needed in the regular lines of business. There is always in every community about so much money to be divided among the laboring men, and whatever percentage of his wages a mechanic or a laborer gives to the saloon is taken from the money he would otherwise spend for his family or deposit in the bank.

way to make a living than by selling liquor. It is a lazy, but an effectual one. Let me put it in this way. Temperance has no economic value and the saloon has no true economic value. "What do you raise in your state," asked the senator from the south to a senator from New Hampshire, and he replied, "chiefly men." And to raise true men and women is the highest economic work of any state or of any nation. And if the best environment and the best conditions are a necessity for the growing of crops they are certainly necessary if the race is to be developed.

Wet and then walked two more miles before getting a change, and did not take cold. Some friends who received a plunge at the same time stayed in the woods, building a miserable little fire of grass and twigs and in consequence barked the rest of the winter with a cold.

Biscuit in a frying pan:

Mix the biscuit dough in the usual way. Let the fire burn down to glowing coals or rake coals from the fire. Grease the frying pan a very little. If no grease is obtainable, it doesn't matter, but the pan must be well covered and watched carefully. After the biscuit, which should be moulded small, are put in the pan, place a few coals on the lid and bake twenty minutes. These biscuits will be excellent.

To roast fish:

Or other game on a stick: Cut two small sticks, place firmly in ground over a fire that has burned to coals—or use dry wood only. String the fish on the stick, lay over across the forks so that it will not fall, and turn slowly until brown.

To cook a hunter's meal:

The smaller the fire the better, unless it is needed as a preventive from the cold. I have seen hunters, wishing to make a pot of coffee, build fire enough to roast an ox. I have made a pot of coffee in less time over a fire that just heated the bottom of the pot, without scorching my trousers, filling my eyes with smoke or burning my hands. If you are hunting in the woods where there is a growth that is inflammable, burn a circle around the fire just before turning in. You may then leave the camp fire all night, thus having less danger and vastly more comfort.

Hunter's frying pan:

Hunters will find it a mighty handy thing to have a small frying pan with a folding handle or even a tin with a ring on the edge—and that being impossible, a hole made in the edge—this will make it possible to thrust a stick through it for holding. Always have on hand three or four slices of bacon, which, if wrapped in clean paper, will not spoil. Before frying a bit of game put in a slice of bacon and fry first. This, with the game, makes a most delicious feed, and a stout stick handle will not burn before the cooking is done.

of the meeting and Clare Orcutt secretary. The matter was discussed at some length and then it was voted to send Mr. Roix to Augusta to do what he can to defeat the bill. Subscription papers were drawn up to present to the people of Ashland, Portage, Masardis and Ox Bow; to raise the necessary amount to pay Mr. Roix for his time and expenses and if possible also to send Edward Junkins and C. C. Peterson, experienced guides. C. C. and Isaac Libby are already in Augusta.

After this business was disposed of it was considered an opportune time to start an association of those interested in the preservation of game in this section. Accordingly temporary officers were elected and a committee on constitution and by-laws consisting of five persons representing the four towns of Portage, Ashland Masardis and Ox Bow was chosen to report at a meeting to be held at the office of W. R. Roix two weeks from today, at which time a permanent organization will be affected.

Committee is as follows: Isaac Libby, Ox Bow; Herbert Rafford, Masardis; Fred Hess and L. A. Orcutt, Ashland and Fred McNally, Portage. The temporary officers were elected as follows: President, W. Kennebunk claims the palm as the original cold storage proposition. Recently while carpenters were tearing away a partition in the summer home there of Lawyer John G. Smith of Saco, they came upon the skeleton of a rooster. As the house was built early in 1800, and had never been remodeled before, there is no other explanation than that this house had contained poultry for 111 years. How it came there, of course will never be known. No one remembers the rooster, and no one is now anxious to claim him or claims to have lost a rooster 111 years ago. It is presumed that when the house was being built the bird crawled in there.

effect of the saloons on legitimate business and on the homes of the people. I have talked with many men who live in license states and almost always found that they regretted the existence of saloons and spoke of the deplorable effect on business. And I know that there is a growing feeling, even with men who do not look upon the matter from a moral standpoint that the saloons must be driven

Every branch of legitimate business must feel the bad effect of the saloon because the saloon takes the money of their patrons, and in return gives nothing to the state.

There are those who tell us that the prohibitory law is educating a large class of liars in the state. That because of this law, there are saloons in back allies and out of the way places in every community where and when we are tempted to exchange prohibition for a license system because it is said that a license system will give us more public revenue, let us not forget that it is better to raise men than to raise revenue.

Who is your favorite guide? Why not start him in the contest by giving him your votes?

Mrs. C. H. McKenzie accompanied Mr. McKenzie on his business trip to Rumford this week.

R. J. E. Morey, local manager of the Phillips exchange of the Maine Telephone & Telegraph Company, moves to Wilton this week where he will be the local manager of that exchange for the same company. Mr. Morey has been in town for about four years and has ever been courteous and obliging to patrons of the telephone service and the many friends of both Mr. and Mrs. Morey will be sorry to have them removed from the town's circle of young people.

The ladies of the Congregational church served a very toothsome supper at Wilbur hall on Saturday evening from 6 to 8 o'clock. After the supper, the tables were cleared away and a musical program and games enjoyed. On the supper committee were: Mrs. Fred Hough, Mrs. F. A. Lawton, Mrs. Chas. Mahoney, Mrs. J. F. Hilton and Mrs. Jennie Dutton. Eight young ladies waited upon the tables, namely: Misses Avilla Hersey, Algie Pratt, Helen Hilton, Mildred Mahoney, Estelle Barker, Ruth Austin, Bertha Beedy and Dallas Voter. The following musical program was carried out to the delight of all those present: Piano solo, Miss Lucille French; vocal solo, Miss Estelle Barker; violin solo, Miss Pearl Johnson; duet, Misses Barker and Johnson. After this program all joined the games which were played until a late hour. The net proceeds of the supper were $15.20.

The P. A. A. basketball team journeyed to Dixfield last Thursday where they played against the Dixfield town team in the evening. The Phillips boys were greatly handicapped by the hall in which they played, it being very small, and they found it difficult to get in their usual good team work. The score was 28-20 in favor of Dixfield, the summary of which we were unable to get in time for publication. It is hoped that a return game may be had, but it seems that Dixfield is rather timid about leaving their own hall. Friday the Phillips team went to Rumford, having a game scheduled with the Indians of that town for that evening. This was a very fast and exciting game and was very largely attended. Both teams played well and clean and the spectators witnessed some very good work. The game ended 28-18 in Rumford's favor, although the outcome was undecided until the last few minutes of play. Following is the lineup and summary:

P. A. A. Indians
Capt. Chandler, rf., lg., Carrier
Hemmings, lf., rg., Riggle
Trecartin, c., c., Young
Sweetser, rf., lg., Capt. Hanley
Ladd, lg., rf., Poulin
Score: Indians, 28; P. A. A. 18. Goals from floor, Hanley 6, Young 5, Chandler 3, Sweetser 2, Trecartin, Ladd, Poulin. Goals from fouls, Young 4, Trecartin 2, Chandler 2. Time, 20-minute periods. Referee Israelson. Umpire Barker. Scorer, Preble. The Phillips team left Thursday morning and returned Saturday noon, reporting a fine time but feeling somewhat disappointed especially over the loss of the Dixfield team. All rumors of accidents to the members of the team were false and groundless. It is true that a few such injuries as sprained fingers and one sore knee were sustained, but there was no unnecessary roughness or dirty playing whatever.

Mr. Leon Delman, representative of the Hank's Manufacturing company of Augusta is in town this week giving free demonstrations of the Hank's Guaranteed Fire Extinguisher.

A regular meeting of the Jr. O. U. A. M. was held at Wilbur hall last Friday evening. The first, second and third degrees were worked on one candidate. The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, March 3rd.

The Sunday school history club entertained the High school freshman class with a Valentine party at the home of Miss Pearl Smith on Friday evening. Partners were found by matching hearts. Refreshments of candy and pop-corn were served and all reported a fine time.

A large number attended the dance school on Tuesday evening. The last night of the school will be on Tuesday, March 7, when extra music will be furnished and to which all are cordially invited to attend. At intermission, an oyster and pastry supper will be served.

Miss Estelle Barker and Mr. Everett Knapp will represent the Phillips High School at the Inter scholastic prize speaking contest which is to be held in Lambert hall tomorrow evening.

Miss Mollie Hescok is visiting her sister in Rumford.

W. I. White spent Sunday at his home in Rumford.

We have been enjoying a week of as fine winter weather as anyone could wish for. There have been no bad storms for the week, the skies have been clear and the thermometer in the neighborhood of zero. Last week witnessed some of the coldest mornings of the winter, the thermometer registering from 10 to 40 below zero. Last week saw one of the most remarkable changes in temperature. On Wednesday morning, in various parts of the town, it was from 32 to 48 below zero, and on Thursday noon in the sun it was 96 above, a difference of 128 to 144 degrees in 36 hours.

There will be a conference at the Free Baptist vestry, Saturday the 25th at 2-30 P. M.

Miss Shirley Holt and Mr. Floyd Holt who are attending Bridgton academy spent a few days the first of the week at the latter's home in Dixfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Toothaker visited Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Davenport the first of the week.

S. Davis Winslip who has been spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Winslip, has returned to his studies at Tufts College, Medford, Mass.

District meeting of the Odd Fellows I. O. O. F. with Mt. Saddleback lodge, Wednesday evening, March 1st.

There was a largely attended meeting of the King's Daughters at Mrs. Jennie R. Dutton's last Friday evening. There was a reading from Don fellow by Miss Dallas Voter and quotations and anecdotes of Longfellow, Lincoln and Washington. The carnival which will be held in May was discussed. Home made candy and popped corn was served.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Spaulding of Phillips visited at H. W. Worthley's over Sunday.

Mr. J. A. Norotn was a business caller on the hill the first of the week.

Mrs. Mary Gleason of Phillips has been visiting at Fred Ellsworth's.

PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

The King's Daughters are completing arrangements for a Carnival of the Seasons to be given some time in the spring, probably May, and with that end in view the following committees have been chosen for the different tables: Spring, white work. Miss Avilla Hersey, Mrs. Addie Parker, Mrs. Lydia Harnden; Summer—fancy work, fancy aprons—Mrs. Evelyn Currier, Mrs. Cora Beedy; Autumn—quilts, work aprons, sofa pillows—Miss Sarah Toothaker, Miss Cora Wheeler; Winter—Mrs. Frances Record, Mrs. Eva Toothaker; domestic table—Mrs. Edith Haley, Mrs. Edith Wells; ice cream, Mrs. Ida Morton, Mrs. Nan Leavitt; candy, Miss Algie Pratt, Miss Dallas Voter; coffee, Mrs. Cherry Pratt, Mrs. Mae Hopkins; tea, Mrs. Milia Ross, Miss Georgine Wilbur; memory, Miss Cornelia Crosby. Anyone who is interested in the work of the circle and the good it extends to others is invited to contribute anything they wish to any of the above committees or to the general committee: Mrs. Addie Parker, Mrs. Lydia Harnden, Mrs. Mary McKenzie.

Miss Christine Cragin, daughter of Mr. W. A. D. Cragin of Phillips, is stenographer to the general auditor of the Spreckles Company of San Diego, Cal. The Spreckles Co. owns a large number of important public service corporations, in the line of transportation, lighting and heating, water works, etc.

Mrs. George Harnden of Madrid was in town Wednesday and called on her niece, Mrs. E. L. Matthews.

The subject of the sermon at Union church next Sunday morning will "The Public Schools of Phillips."

The girls of the Eekalaka club enjoyed a supper at the home of Miss Rachel Winslip of Auburn recently. Scalloped oysters, egg salad, potatoes, hot rolls, olives and cake were served. In the evening the girls attended the basket ball game.

TELEPHONE RUMOR UNTRUE.

Rumford, Me., Feb. 21, 1911.
To the Editor of Maine Woods:

My attention has been called to an item in your issue of February 16th, stating it was rumored that it was the intention of the Maine Tel. & Tel. Co. to discontinue the Central Office of the company in Phillips and switch Phillips subscribers from the Farmington Exchange.

In behalf of the company I would correct these vague apprehensions. The Telephone Company has no intention whatever of closing the Phillips Exchange.

Two years ago, the citizens of Phillips were getting their telephone service from one of the best equipped telephone exchanges in the territory operated by this Company. Because the Telephone Company declined to give free toll service between this exchange and other exchanges of the Company at a positive loss to the Company, the citizens of your town have seen fit to duplicate our lines and system to as great an extent as possible. The result is what such

Mr. Goldstein says: "I suffered from rheumatism five years, it kept me from business and caused excruciating pain. My knees would become as stiff as steel. I tried many medicines without relief, then took Hood's Sarsaparilla, soon felt much better, and now consider myself entirely cured. I recommend Hood's."

competition usually brings, two systems, neither one of them being able to give alone the service required by the business men of your community, and neither one of them with sufficient revenue to warrant the high class of service naturally expected in a community the size of Phillips.

The Maine Tel. & Tel. Co. will maintain its service as before, but make such economies in the management of its Phillips Exchange as present conditions warrant. Mr. R. J. E. Morey, who has been the efficient local Manager of the Phillips Exchange for a number of years, will be transferred on March 1st, to Wilton, assuming the management of that exchange. The Phillips Exchange from that date will be in charge of J. B. Madden, now Manager of the Rangeley Exchange, who will assume management of both exchanges.

Trusting that this brief statement will correct any erroneous rumors which may be floating about, I remain

Very truly yours,

MAINE GUIDES' CANOE CONTEST

OPEN TO ALL REGISTERED GUIDES

On Monday, June 26, 1911, Maine Woods will give away a Maine manufactured guide's canoe absolutely free of charge. The canoe will be disposed of through a voting contest and will be given to the registered Maine Guide who receives the largest number of votes. Any registered guide in Maine may compete and the one having the largest number of votes at the close of the contest will be the winner.

Rules of the Contest.

It is essential to the contest that the names of not less than two contestants appear and remain actively engaged until the close. In the event of the withdrawal of all active candidates but one, there can be no contest and the prize will be withdrawn.

A coupon will be printed in every issue of Maine Woods until and including Thursday June 22, 1911, which will contain the last coupon. The contest will close at this paper's business office at 7.30 o'clock p. m. the following Monday, June 26, when the votes will be counted by a committee representing the leading contestants.

1. For every yearly new subscriber to this paper (8-page outing edition) at $1, 200 votes will be given. For every new subscriber for the local edition (12 pages) at $1.50 a year, 300 votes will be given. A new subscriber may pay as many years in advance as he wishes, and receive votes at the rate of 200 for each $1, and 300 for each $1.50 a year paid, but all these payments must be made in advance at one time.

2. For each $1 paid by present subscribers, either arrearages of accounts or in advance on present subscriptions, and whether for the outing edition or local edition, 100 votes will be allowed.

3. Changes in subscription from one member to another of the same family, etc., made for the obvious purpose of securing the increased number of votes given to new subscribers, cannot be permitted.

4. Each issue of Maine Woods will contain one coupon which, when filled out and delivered at the Maine Woods office, will count as one vote.

There will be no single votes for sale; votes can only be obtained as above set forth, or by clipping from the paper the votes that appear below.

Votes will be counted each Thursday during the contest, and the figures of such counting printed in the following issue of the paper.

When a subscription is sent in, please mention the name of the party whom you wish to receive the votes, as no votes can be given if not taken at the time the subscription is paid.

All communications should be addressed to "Voting Contest, Maine Woods Office, Phillips, Maine."

SPOKANE ROD AND GUN CLUB

Spokane Rod and Gun club elected John S. Malloy, one of the foremost sportsmen in the Pacific slope country as its president at the annual meeting on February 9. The other executive officers are: Vice president, Maurice Smith; treasurer, Fred K. McBroom; secretary, Al Wieseman; directors, Thomas B. Ware, E. J. Chingren and A. K. Copson. Hugh McElroy was chosen field captain.

Secretary Wieseman reported that the finances of the organization are in better shape than at any time in the history of the club. With no debts, there is $208.61 on hand. The dates for the Washington State shoot were fixed for April 25 and 26 and Secretary Wieseman was instructed to notify Elmer Shaner, secretary of the Interstate association.

Tom Barelay was elected secretary of the Washington shoot and will have full charge of the tournament.

The handicap committee for the coming year will be Messrs. Malloy, Copson, Wieseman, McElroy and Smith.

CAMP LOCATION WANTED.

Philadelphia, Penn., Feb. 18, 1911.
To the Editor of Maine Woods:

A party of us here in Philadelphia wish to form a club and either lease or buy a tract of 50 or 100 acres in Maine. We want good fishing and shooting, and I know of no one better qualified to advise us than you. We would prefer a tract on the new extension of the Somerset Railroad between Bingham and Kineo where we could build a modest camp on a lake not more than a mile or two from the railroad.

A party spoke to me the other day regarding a suitable location in Maine to start a Girls' Summer School and I told them I was going to write you regarding the camp and would also mention the matter of the school to you. This of course should not be too far from civilization and near a town where suitable supplies could be obtained. Any information which you are able to give will be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,
C. H. Bouclen.

THE GANG HOOK.

Cornish, Me., Feb. 14, 1911.
To the Editor of Maine Woods:

Would like to get my paddle in on this single hook question before the show is all over.

"How these men who are in favor of the gang hook can have the audacity to call themselves sportsmen is beyond my understanding, and I boast of average intelligence at that."

I wish that these so-called sports could be exiled to some such God-forsaken place as the great south west for a few years, where there are neither fish nor water. I dare say when they were allowed to return they would begin to appreciate this little old neck of the words called Maine where the game hog and the poacher have as yet, failed to wholly destroy the blessings God has given us in the shape of beautiful waters with a few fish in them.

Any man who has reached his majority has seen the game gradually become scarcer, this brook or that pond, where the fishing used to be so good, stripped of its fish until no one would think of going near them for the purpose of fishing. And what is it all due to if it isn't the fact that men have been allowed to use the abominable junk called Gang Hooks etc.

The primitive Indian, who didn't fish for the fun there was in it but from absolute necessity, managed to hook and land his fish with a piece of bone for a hook and a rawhide string for a line.

But these sportsmen think they have got to have the whole catalogue of killing devices or their trip will be a failure.

Until they are reduced to the extremity of the Indian why can't they use the single hook as any true sportsman would, so that when the next fellow comes along he will, at least, stand a chance of getting a strike.

NEW ENGLAND FARMS.

The February number of "New England Farms" a monthly agricultural bulletin issued for free distribution by the Industrial Department of the Maine Central railroad, is a particularly interesting issue and presents a number of attractive special articles by the best authorities. A noticeable special is entitled, "Peaches in the White Mountains," by John Albee of Washington, and it tells the story of how he succeeded in successfully raising peaches far above the line generally thought to be available for that purpose. Dr. George M. Twitchell of Auburn, Me., discusses very intelligently the New England horse problem pointing out where, because of the continual demand for horses in the cavalry service and for various uses in large cities, what is left to send to the farmers shows great deterioration. He suggests that the farmers should use some of the remaining high-class stallions in Northern New England and breed them to Western brood mares, in this way, by a process of selection, gradually securing an equine strain, which will answer better for the farmer's demands. This article is a most interesting contribution and should be considered by every New England farmer. C. M. Gallup of Skowhegan tells the story of the Somerset Poultry Producers association, an organization which is meeting with great success and is doing much good, although it has been established but a few months. The example set by the poultry men of Somerset is one well worth following by those in other parts of the State. The Abanded Farmer describes his experiences with little known crops on a farm which he purchased in Northern New England. Prof. W. A. Brown of the University of Maine offers some suggestions for spring work for poultrymen and there is an important article on the favorable types of the Morgan horse which should be perpetuated in future breeding, as well as an interesting description of how a Boston fertilizer concern has pointed out to farmers the advantages of spraying fruit orchards. In the editorial department particular attention is called to the American Land and Irrigation Exposition in New York, November 3-12, and the necessity of a display form this section is emphasized. There are other interesting editorials and the usual good selections of agricultural comment and suggestions in the various departments.

"New England Farms" is published monthly and will be sent free on request to those persons who forward their names and addresses to the Industrial Department Maine Central railroad, Portland, Me. Ten thousand of these bulletins are sent every month to farmers of Northern New England.

THE CHARITY CLUB.

engaged to patch the roof, door-steps and fences, and make whatever small repairs he considered necessary and after a visit to the village store with this youth and his father's stout horse and farm wagon, where necessary supplies were purchased, the girls returned to the seminary jubilant, with visions of a full house in a few weeks and a full purse at the end of the season. The house really was in a charming spot, and with the fruits of their garden, which Rufus Anthony was to plant and care for until their arrival for the summer, and the fresh milk, cream, butter and eggs which the neighborhood afforded, they felt that they would have strong attractions to offer their city friends who could well afford the luxury of a summer vacation in the country.
The four young women wrote glowing descriptions of their enterprise, and the result was that when the school year closed they had engaged the rooms they thought suitable for guests for nearly the whole season, and the success of their project seemed amply assured. Some of their friends had laughingly attempted to discourage them, but for the most part their plans had met with approval, and all were in high spirits when, the school having closed for the year, they took train for the New Hampshire hills. Louise was armed with paints and brushes in profusion, and immediately on arrival began her self-imposed task, while the others pitched into the other work with a will; they cooked, cleaned, cut the grass, assisted by Rufus Anthony, and soon had the old place looking very nice and attractive. They had given themselves just a week for preparation for guests, and found that they needed every minute of it. But when their time was up they were ready.

Then followed many happy days. Eight friends of the four joint proprietors of Camp Charity, as the members of the Charity club called their cosy home, came almost as soon as the rooms were ready to receive them. Three of them were students in the seminary and the other five were teachers whose school days as pupils were over, but who were still young women and called themselves jolly bachelor girls. Camp Charity was popular at once, and immediately after the first arrivals had once written home, applications for accommodations later in the season began to come in from the friends of the writers, and some of these, but not all—there was not room enough—were accommodated, and the house was full of jolly, care-free lovers of nature, who spent most of their time out of doors and grew amazingly plump and healthy.

Rufus Anthony made himself indispensable not only to his employers, but to the guests, and being the only man in the neighborhood, he was exceedingly popular. Being a very bashful youth, not much accustomed to the society of cultivated young women, he had many experiences that were not exactly to his taste. One of his duties was to act as guide and oarsman for those young lady guests at Camp Charity who did not choose to row themselves, or who were unable to from lack of experience. There was fairly good fishing in the lake, and many beautiful groves and dells on its shores made it an attractive resort for both guests and camp proprietors, though the latter had so many duties that their time was so fully occupied that they had little time for amusements, a fact which they found quite trying at times, but they were anxious to earn all they could with which to pay for their property, and to carry them through the remainder of their school course, so they bore it with good grace and on the whole enjoyed their work.

Mollie Arley was passionately fond of the great out-of-doors and found the work very trying at times, but she kept heroically at it, though sometimes it seemed as if she could stand it no longer; then she would hunt up Rufus Anthony and ask him to take her out on the lake, where everything else would soon be forgotten. She was as timid as she was passionately fond of the woods and the water, a shy little brown-eyed girl, one of whose chief attractions was the wealth of golden tresses greatly admired by all her friends. Everybody loved her but nobody understood her; she had such a variety of moods and she was constantly giving surprises to her most intimate companions. When in the mood she was the life of the happy colony of young women, and she had secured more patrons for the enterprise than the other three girls combined, not because she had worked harder though she had not shirked in the least, but because of her singularly winning ways.

She was the life of the Charity Club when in school, and her friends gave her a large share of the credit for the success of Camp Charity, but they had some trying times with her though they bore their trials as patiently as they could. She was sure to have one of her irresistible longings for the wilderness at the most inopportune moments, and when she called on Rufus Anthony to be her slave for a day or a half day it was sure to be at a time when she was most needed at the camp; but he always went and the three girls left behind were obliged to do the work of the four as well as that of their hired man.

REMINISCENCES OF PHILLIPS.

THERE'S NO RISK.

If This Medicine Does Not Benefit You Pay Nothing.

A physician who made a specialty of stomach troubles, particularly dyspepsia, after years of study perfected the formula from which Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets are made.

Our experience with Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets leads up to believe them to be the greatest remedy known for the relief of acute indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. They are rich in pepsin, one of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine. The relief they afford is almost immediate. Their use with persistency and regularity for a short time brings about a cessation of the pains caused by stomach disorders.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will insure healthy appetite, aid digestion and promote nutrition. As evidence of our sincere faith in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give you entire satisfaction, we will return you the money you paid us for them, without question or formality. They come in three sizes, prices 25 cents, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain them only at—The Rexall Store, W. A. D. Cragin's, Phillips, Maine.

homes passed into other hands. And about this time the Josselyn's and Buttlers' moved to Portland. Still later the boom in Arkansas city sounded throughout our valleys with such golden promise as led many of the good people dwelling under the shadow of Mount Blue, to seek homes and fortunes in that thriving town. Phillips added her full quota to this number.

And some of these many energetic, ambitious men have gone farther on until Phillips is represented in every state in the Union. Then why wonder that its weekly paper should have a wide circulation?

It would be useless for me to attempt to give the names of the many young men who have left Phillips from time to time in answer to the call of ambition. Adventure, philanthropy or religion. The list would be too long. But from the going away of Dr. George T. Blake to fill a better opening for his profession in a New Jersey city to the self-sacrificing compliance with the call of the Master of Rev. Nathan Brackett, I have the all in my mind, and so far as I know each in his own sphere, "acted well his part." What an interesting book each individual history would make. "Hero worship would ensue."

There I told you my thoughts were in a jumble—all owing to those letters. I'll have them untangled next time.

By Mr. Austin of Phillips—Petition for an appropriation on the Dead River road in Dallas Plantation.

BULL MOOSE PROTECTION.

Twenty-five measures in all were before the committee on inland fisheries and game Wednesday afternoon and evening and the committee room was crowded with hunters, fishermen, guides, hotel men and sportsmen. The big bill of the afternoon was that introduced by Representative Austin of Phillips providing for a close time on bull moose for four years. The bill was favored chiefly by the Maine Sportsmen's association and the William Tell Club and opposed chiefly by the camp owners of the present moose country.

The hearing on the moose question was opened by Representative Austin of Phillips. He explained that the question of having a close time on moose had been considered a long time by sportsmen and had been given special consideration during the past two years by the Sportsmen Association. It seemed to be the general opinion that drastic action is now necessary to save the moose from extinction in this state, although it was admitted that this might work considerable hardship on some sections of the state. Maine is now the only New England state where moose are found and the only one east of the Mississippi except a part of Michigan.

Mr. Austin thought that the measure might be considered a local matter but insisted that it is a State-wide measure and asked that it be considered as such.

John F. Sprague of Dover, president of the Maine Sportsmen association, argued strongly in favor of the bill.

J. Putnam Stevnes of Portland thought the state might lose a little by a close time of four years but would be sure to gain in the end.

Fred R. Smith of Pittsfield, secretary of the Sportsmen's Association, considered it for the best interests of the state to put on a close time.

Judge Newell of Lewiston appeared for the William Tell club, the well-known organization that has a camp near Mooschood lake. He believed the moose to be almost extinct in the state and the deer much less numerous than they had been. The club he represented had some of the best hunting ground in the State, but this last fall 20 hunters and five guides had failed to down a single moose or even see a bull, although the club has been getting one or more annually for years. He believed the time has come for the protection of moose to prevent extinction.

Senator Kellogg opened the case for the remonstrants. He admitted that the camp owners he represented do not depend entirely on the moose to attract their patrons but he believed they understood conditions in their section very well and that when there was a need for close time on moose they would ask for it.

How to cure a cold is a question in which many are interested just now. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has won its great reputation and immense sale by its remarkable cure of colds. It can always be depended upon. For sale by W. A. D. Cragin.

Captain Pollard, one of the oldest game wardens in the state, stated he knew Aroostook county to be opposed to the measure and he believed there are more moose in the State now than 10 years ago.

Senator Theriault believed that even if Maine should place a close time on moose the animals would wander over into New Brunswick and be shot there.

Representative Mace of Great Pond could see no danger of extermination under proper regulations or even the present laws. He considered that most of the non-resident hunters want to kill moose and would not come if deprived of the privilege.

L. T. Carleton, formerly chairman of the fish and game commission, said that there are more moose and as large moose and more bulls now than there was 10 years ago or five years ago.

The committee in executive session voted ought not to pass upon the bill to create a close time for bull moose, voted to extend the close time on caribou six years, and voted ought not to pass upon the proposition to fix a date for the opening of fishing in Rangeley lake region, thus leaving the open time as it is now, when the ice goes out.

AMONG THE CHURCHES.

Union Church, Phillips.

Melvin Sherburne Hutchins, Pastor. Calendar for week ending, March 4. Sunday, Feb. 26. 10.45, "Morning Worship. Sermon, "The Public Schools of Phillips." 11.45, Sabbath School. 7.30, People's Service. Music by Choral Club. Stereopticon Travelog. "O'er Southern Seas and Philippine Trails."

Thursday, March 2. 7.30 P. M., Mid Week Prayer Meeting.

All are invited to attend these services.

At the Union church Sunday morning Rev. Mr. Hutchins preached the fourth in a series of sermons, having for a text Psalm 137, 5 and 6. The subject of the sermon was "The Strongest Forts."

The strongest forts of the world are not the block houses built by our Colonial ancestors in which they and their families might find protection from the hostilities of savage Indians. Neither are they the old-fashioned forts of stone such as at Fort Ticonderoga. The strongest forts are not those modern defenses built within hills, sending forth from the hillside their cannon-charge. Nor is the strongest fort the Massive Rock of Gibraltar which guards the way to England's interests in the far east.

There are interests of infinitely more importance than those guarded by block-house or fort of stone by hidden cannon and mountains of rock. The greatest forts are not those which preserve the entirety of a nation, or that directly safe guards its commercial interests. The things that plead most strongly for protection are human character, and the welfare of heart and mind. For these there is no other protection like that of the home. Homes were established by God. They are the starting point of many movements for man's betterment.

The Bangor theological school brings, to speak to its students, men who are among the ablest in the country. For the last six years they observed a "Convocation Week" in which there were many addresses and sermons by strong and able men, and to whose exercises all preachers of the state are welcomed. Many a backwoods minister finds his outlook broadened beyond the confine of his own restricting horizon by this meeting with men of varied experiences and of larger knowledge. During the last Convocation Week these four men were among the speakers; Washington Gladden D. D., Dean Hodges, Miss Perry and Dr. Bosworth. The work which is resulting in so much helpfulness was planned by "The Lady of the Teacups," Mrs. Beach, in the home of the president. The home is the best preparation for government. There we are led to think upon the rights of others, to plan for their welfare in all possible ways and to recognize authority. The government of a nation, building upon the work of the home, seek to educate those under its care, to provide means for supplying their needs, to carry their mail and to watch over and guard them. Its authority is for the good of the governed, watchful of the welfare of those within it, is the best preparation for good government.

The home is the foundation of ethics. No one, unless he be a hermit, can live long without finding the need of ethics to direct his conduct toward others. The home where each desires the good of all others is the best foundation for the practical knowledge and application of ethics.

The home is the foundation of religion, "the thoughts of God in the lives of men." Here we know life's brightest hours, we know the darkness of disappointment, the sorrow of bereavement and the joy of hope. And in these experiences we get our thought of God. Religion is not given us by any church however faithful it may be in its work. It is not bestowed by any school, however careful it may be in its teaching. The thoughts that dominate our religious life are shaped in childhood's hours, and belong to the wealth of the home.

Home, then, stands for the best in government, in ethics, in religion. It is itself beset by perils old and new. Of the age-old perils, those belonging to all time perhaps the two most deadly are intemperance and impurity. The peril of intemperance lurks in many a fair place and waits for the thoughtless and careless. It turns the brightest homes to darkness and fills the life with sorrow, sin, and bestiality. Its temptation are spread for all.

The peril of impurity is most of all to thought. People like to appear at their best before others, yet the evil and impure thought may be there unseen. Cherished, it leads to deeds like itself. It is awful to hear the name of God profaned. Yet when spoken carelessly, without any thought of blasphemy, it is not so terrible as the unclean words with which the mouth is sometimes befouled. I think of no word to apply to the filthiness which impure thought some times puts into speech; no words nasty enough for the mind which offers an abiding place for thoughts of impurity.

Among the modern perils to the home is that of the weakening of its power. In these days the country is often abandoned for the town. The tendency is to seek the city and the comfortable home is left for the flat, the tenement or the hotel of the city.

Economical Housewives

want flour that 'never fails—that makes the most bread to the sack—that serves every baking need.

So they use nothing but William Tell Flour—and have "good luck" every day they bake.

For William Tell bread is a marvel of lightness—its cake melts in your mouth—its pastry makes the cook famous.

One sack will prove itself—order today.

William Tell Flour

C. H. MCKENZIE TRADING CO., Phillips, Maine.

There follows the pressure of the mass of the people in a space smaller than that which God meant them to occupy.

Other perils are the race for money getting which would make everything subservient to the one purpose of accumulating wealth, the demands of modern pleasure and the multiplicity of organizations whose claims leave no time for the quiet enjoyment of the home.

These conditions that confront us today, as some of them have done in the past, call for action. Do not let them take from us the eternally essential joy of home.

For the maintenance of the home and the home spirit certain things are required. There must be appreciation, and expression of the same. Hearts of Christian kindness and grace will direct us in this and we should cultivate the faculty. I do not think so evil of my fellow mortals as to believe that the lack of expressions of appreciation in their homes and among their own is a proof that they do not care. Rather it shows carelessness and lack of thought.

Another essential is service of love. It will restrain one from continually asking "What shall I receive?" "How much will be done for me?" With love in the heart desiring to express itself in helpfulness rather shall we ask, "What can I do?"

Beside appreciation and service of love in the home there must be reverence for God and for religion. This is the thought that I most wish to express. It is for the home a strong fortification. I do not know just how this reverence may always be best attained. It is lamentable that the old-fashioned family worship has been so generally abandoned. It is a good thing for the family at some time in the day to come together to acknowledge God. Not by mottoes on the wall, but by praise to him. is not demanded of church members alone but of all. The best welfare of the home requires that there should be a recognition of God, and acknowledgment of his blessings.

Upholding in our homes appreciation, service, reverence, they shall be to us a fortress protecting us against the power of temptations of doubt, of disappointment and despair.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders is enough to make any piny sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Phillips readers.

John W. Kennedy, Phillips, Me., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble for years and at times I was so miserable that I could not get around. I felt restless and too frequent passages of the kidney secretions caused me great annoyance. I doctored and took a great many remedies, but did not obtain relief. Several months ago I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I procured a box from Cragin's Drug Store. While I have not used this remedy as regularly as I should, I can say that I have been helped a great deal. Doan's Kidney Pills have cleared my system of uric poison and as the result, the pains in my back have become much less severe. My kidneys are also in a more normal condition. I heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers."

THE FARMER

The best occupation in the world is farming. This is the one occupation that is not, and never will be, over-crowded. The farmer's life is unique in that he can enjoy the freedom of speech above all other men without injury to his business.

I am going to farming for two reasons. First, I believe my health better when I work out of doors. Second, for the benefit it may be to the community. By this I mean if I succeed. A successful farmer creates wealth and adds it to the community. A successful farmer has an influence to induce sensible young men to go to farming.

Every good farm, bodily, needs a young man with common sense and native ability.

H. L. Goodwin has a pullet that hatched five Rhode Island Red chickens the coldest morning of the winter last week. They didn't seem to mind the cold and are as lively and smart as chickens of their age could be expected to be.

A large party of Rangeley people lunched in Phillips Monday noon on their way to Augusta, to attend a hearing on a proposition to divide the town of Rangeley, setting off a portion, to be called Oquossoc plantation. It is said that the sentiment in Rangeley village is very much against the proposition, and it looked as though the opposition would be well represented, whether successful or not.

Miss Opal Webber of Madrid has recently been in Phillips, a guest of Miss Cora McLaughlin.

Several of the young ladies of the Phillips high school have been invited to attend a reception at the Farmington normal school on Friday of next week, and expect to avail themselves of the opportunity.

Mrs. Edward Harris of Salem visited friends in Phillips one day last week.

PHILLIPS AND VICINITY.

George T. Jacobs, who has had a severe attack of the grip and came very near having pneumonia, was down to the village for the first time since his illness, Monday. He says he isn't over it yet by any means, but is gaining rapidly. He says he has not had a bad cold for four or five years.

The subject of the debate in the high school Friday afternoon will be, "Resolved, that a system of postal savings banks should be established in the United States." Much interest is taken in the debates this term, and excellent work along this line is being done in the school, it is said.

The pupils in Mrs. Parker's Miss Robbins' and Miss Simmons' rooms united in a Washington's birthday entertainment Tuesday afternoon, in Miss Robbins' room. The programme including music by schools, and by individuals from the different schools, recitations, etc., were all selected to be adapted to the occasion. Yesterday was observed as a holiday and there were no sessions of the schools.

Yesterday afternoon the younger children in the Sunday school were entertained in the Free Baptist vestry, and in the evening the entire union Sunday school had an appropriate entertainment at the same place.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Guy Everett and little daughter of West Farmington visited relatives in town this week.

Carroll E. Whitney, who for some time past has been an efficient clerk for the C. H. McKenzie Trading Co., finished his services with that company last Saturday.

Miss Blanche Kenniston spent a few days in Rumford this week with her sister, Miss Carolyn Kenniston.

Rev. Miss Robinson and her friend, Miss Adams of Wells were guests of Mrs. C. H. Noyes last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Butterfield and three sons, Everett, Vance and Norman, of Farmington were guests of her sister, Mrs. C. H. Noyes, over Sunday.

Mr. Willis Hoar and family are nicely settled in their new home. The house is both beautiful and convenient. There is a nice large kitchen with an abundance of closets, a good sized living room, a cozy little dining room and a parlor and bed room, besides a kitchen bed room, down stairs. The ceilings are all of steel and the floors all hardwood. As yet the up stair rooms are not finished.

The regular meeting of the Winship Neighborhood club was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Heath, Saturday evening, Feb. 18. There was a good attendance and a most enjoyable evening was passed. A pantomime, participated in by Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wing, Mrs. Weston Parker and Miss Dollena White, afforded a lot of fun, after which charades were played till a late hour. The hostess served peanuts and home-made candies. The next meeting will be at Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Wing's.

Mr. Charles Newman, who has been spending the winter with his mother, Mrs. Abbie Newman, has come to Bangor.

Mrs. Will A. Dill started for the village. They were on the hill just below Dill Bros., the sleigh run out a little on the hard side of the road and tipped both ladies out. The horse got a little nervous and continued out over the stone wall and into the field. Mrs. Toothaker, holding fast to the reins, turned the horse back over the wall and into the road. There both ladies got hold of the horse and tried to hold him, but one shaft was broken, and one tug unhooked and while one tried to hold the horse and the other to unhook the other, the horse got away again and ran back to Pinkham and Berry's, around back of their barn where the other shaft was broken and the horse cleared from the sleigh. If there are any other ladies more plucky than these have proved themselves to be in unforeseen and dangerous emergency, we would like to hear from them.

In initial lines above some allusions are made to the weather. At Dodge's recently before sunrise, the glass registered 18 degrees, while at same time at C. E. Dill's it indicated 35 degrees. De-Faith.

Backache, Rheumatism, Sleeplessness

Result from disordered kidneys. Foley Kidney Pills have helped others, they will help you. Mrs. J. B. Miller, Syracuse, N. Y., says, "For a long time I suffered with kidney trouble and rheumatism. I had severe backaches and felt all played out. After taking two boxes of Foley Kidney Pills my backache is gone and where I used to lie awake with rheumatic pains I now sleep in comfort. Foley Kidney Pills did wonderful things for me." Try them now. W. A. D. Cragin.

A little run away last evening, (14) which has been the occasion of some telephoning and "rubbering;" it was thus: Mrs. A. J. Toothaker and
