CAUGHT OVER 1000 FISH

Manufactures His Own Fly and Gets a 4-Pounder--See Five Deer.

(Special to Maine Woods).
Grant's Camps, Kennebago Lake, June 21—The past month fishing has been extra good and the camps have been entertaining more guests than ever before, for as fast as one party would leave for home their places were taken.
This morning eleven went out on the noon train and to-night as many more will come.
Wm. D. Grant, the proprietor is now wearing a smile and receiving congratulations as the happy father of a ten pound baby girl born on Wednesday.
H. B. Reed of South Weymouth, Mass., and Charles M. Brett of Newton Center, Mass., with Dexter Hunt and Chas. Cushman for guides have been here ten days. Mr. Reed, who has been coming to this region for years and to these camps since they were opened, when he left this morning said, "We have caught over one thousand trout and salmon, and I have never had such good fishing in all the years I have been coming here." Mr. Reed used a No. 10 fly hook and only kills the few fish he wants to eat.

Henry P. Andrews of Hudson, Mass has Emery Haley for guide and has to his credit a 5 pound trout, which proves there are big as well as little fish in this lake.
Camp Ready is taken for the summer by Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Whipple of Poughkeepsie, N. Y. This is the first time the party were ever in Maine wilderness. Mr. Whipple is a great fisherman who makes his own rods, ties his own flies and spends many happy hours all by himself on the lake. One morning this week Mr. Whipple was rowing on the lake not far from the camps when he noticed the trout rising for a fly that was on the water, but would not take any that he offered them. "I am going to have one of these fish" he said, and caught one of the flies that was on the water, returned to camp and was busy for a little while. Then he came out with a fly he had made, that looked much like the live ones and rowed on to the spot where he had watched the trout rise and commenced fishing.

Rangeley Lake House, June 25—Each day brings new arrivals many of them having been here summers in the past and to them it is like a happy home coming. Others come for their first visit and are very enthusiastic over the beauties of this region of lakes and mountains and what seems to many the unending wilderness from here to Canada. It is from these miles of unbroken spruce, fir and pine that each breeze brings health to the overworked and many from the city who come to the Rangeleys for their vacation days.
Dr. Eleanore M. Arthur of New York, who was here last year, arrived Wednesday and has taken the same rooms at Mrs. Dill's cottage near the steamboat wharf.
Rev. William T. Thompson, a well known New York Methodist clergyman, on Tuesday joined his wife and daughters who came the day the hotel opened.
Mr. and Mrs. Edward S. Crocker of Fitchburg, Mass. who have been away for several days, going by automobile, returned yesterday and were accompanied by their nephew, Edward S. Crocker, Jr.
Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Tunns of New York, who have spent a number of summers here are back again for another season.
The third cottage is again open

STEAMER SINKS ON BIG LAKE

Captain Drowns but Engineer Swims Ashore

As we go to press we get the report from Rangeley that a steamer belonging to Cummings, a mill owner on Mooselookmeguntic lake sank some time this morning. The captain, we understand was drowned but the engineer succeeded in swimming ashore.
Later--We are unable to learn many particulars in regard to the above except that the boat was owned by Cummings Brothers and used to pick up and tow logs around. The boat sank in Bugle cove. It seems that the boat ran on a rock the day before and was undoubtedly damaged unknown to them. The captain and the engineer were sleeping on board and when they awoke the water was well over them. The captain, Mr. Cummings, was drowned but the engineer swam to a motor boat, but when they returned to the steamer no trace could be found of Mr. Cummings. We have been unable to learn whether the body has been recovered or not.

for the summer and occupied by Dr. and Mrs. J. E. McMichael of New York, who are welcomed by old friends.

STOP THE WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER OF WILD BIRDS.

The importers of wild birds' feathers have been flooding the country with letters to the millinery trade and thus deluging their members of Congress at Washington with appeals to defeat the proviso of Schedule N of the tariff bill, which prohibits the importation of the plumage of wild birds. This proviso has passed the House of Representatives, but if the feather importers have their way and the American people do not protest vigorously, the Senate will remove it from the bill.

The feather importers are telling their side of the story. Let us look at the other side. The importers represent that the millinery trade does not use the feathers of song or insectivorous birds. Nevertheless, many of the species used in the trade to-day are insect eaters and some of them are very beneficial. The reason song birds are not used as much in this country as they were formerly is that the activity of the Audubon societies has rendered it unsafe to sell them and they have gone out of fashion.

I remember when bluebirds, tanagers, thrushes, and warblers were commonly sold here and worn by our women and when one man shot practically all the male orioles in Cambridge, Mass., for the millinery trade. Some of the big wholesale firms have thousands of small birds still in stock which they cannot sell. The importers represent that the greater part of the feathers used in the trade are those of birds that are killed as pests, or those of game birds that are killed for their flesh; but fully nine-tenths of the birds that are killed as pests are beneficial and many such are killed when actually performing indispensable service to the agriculturist. Robins killed, when in the act of pulling up young cabbage plants, were found to have taken only the plants that were dead or dying. They were not eating the plants, but the grubs that were killing plants. The use of the feathers of game birds for millinery leads to killing them in the breeding season when their plumage is at its best and the trade is rapidly exterminating such beautiful birds as the impeyan and argus pheasants because of the high price offered for their plumage, which acts as a bounty placed on their heads in addition to the value of the flesh as food. The flesh of these birds is perishable and cannot be transported to markets from their native wilds, but the plumage can be sent to market from the "utmost parts of the earth."

The feather business is directly responsible for annual orgies of monstrous cruelty and rapacity. In every continent where desirable birds may be found, brutal savages are engaged to search the fastnesses of the wilderness where they slaughter the birds in their nesting season—a time when bird life should be held sacred. Millions of birds have been killed while engaged in feeding or brooding their young and the little ones have been left to perish miserably of cold and starvation. The wings or plumes of living wounded birds have been cut or torn off. Suffering wounded egrets have been tied and propped up as decoys under a tropical sun until the terrible ants of the tropics ate out their eyes. Albatrosses have been confined and starved to death to remove the fat from their skins, that the oil might not endanger their plumage. White plume hunters have been murdered by jealous savages, and wardens employed to protect the birds have been threatened, assaulted, wounded, and slain by brutal plume hunters.

The laws of country after country and State after State have been violated. What matters it to the importer that India, Australia, or New Guinea prohibits the killing of certain birds or the export of their skins so long as he can get enough to supply the trade. What matters it to him that the laws of certain states forbid the killing or possession of the feathers of native birds so long as they can be sent abroad and he can continue to import them from Paris and ship them with impunity.

The blood of the innocent of every land is on our hands. If we stop the importation of the plumage of wild birds now, it will be a death blow to the traffic. Already we have waited too long, some birds cannot be saved. Let us appeal to our Senators at Washington to do their plain duty in this matter of vital importance to the American people and put our country among the leaders in bird protection.

We do not believe that the members of the United States Senate will vote to continue this barbarous, inhuman and disgusting slaughter if they understand the matter fully. We believe that many honest, self-respecting milliners will repudiate it and join with us in favoring the proviso. Senator Johnson of Maine is chairman of the sub-committee, having schedule N in charge. If the people of Maine urge him to secure the passage of the proviso prohibiting the importation of the feathers of wild birds, he will do so. Let us urge all our Senators to end the traffic forever.

Edward Howe Forbush.

BRIGHT NEWSPAPER MAN HAS POSITION IN DETROIT.

Morgan J. Flaherty of Portland has worked for several Maine newspapers and for the past two sessions of the legislature has represented the Portland Argus in Augusta, has left for Detroit, where he has secured a position upon the Daily Free Press. It is understood that later he will be in Washington for that paper. It will be remembered that Mr. Flaherty was on the Maine Woods staff for a few months some years ago. Mr. Flaherty is one of the brightest newspaper men in the state and we wish him success in his new position.

FINE VIEW CAN BE OBTAINED

Party Were Not Beaten by Numbers but no Record Made

(Special to Maine Woods.)

York's Camps, Loon Lake, June 23—The two story cabin which obstructed the fine view of Loon Lake has been moved back across the road and visitors to the woods riding through the camps as well as guests who suggested the idea are now perfectly satisfied.

The cabin next the dining hall having been moved leaves a fine opening for light and added comfort in the office.

Messrs. E. B. Hough and Howard H. Wilkinson, who visit the camps annually, brought Messrs. Howard D. Wilcox and Dutee Wilcox all of Providence to the camps and they had such a good time the party purpose coming again next month. No record of fishing was made but we understand they were not beaten in numbers by any of the other guests.

Franklin P. Lee of Milford, Mass., was here with the Marble party in May and with his daughter, Mrs. James L. Peden, of Philadelphia came again last week.

Messrs. J. Crawford, Jr., of Worcester, R. L. Heiser of Mahoney city, Pa., J. J. Crowley, Dr. Heber Bishop of Boston and James R. McAleer, the latter well known to baseball fans, had pretty good luck with rod and reel and enjoyed every moment of their outing at York Camps.

Howard P. Bartram of Newark, N. J., who is quite a lover of the forests and has travelled almost everywhere in the United States, Canada and Alaska, has devoted most of his stay here to the study of the shilful beaver family who have their colonies within a short distance of the camps. Mr. Bartram is a very interesting talker and tells in detail the way the little workers have made canals 50 to 100 yards long in which to float the four and five feet logs to the dams they so ingeniously build to cause the deep water for their homes.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Smith of Brooklyn, N. Y., accompanied by R. F. McChain of Flatbush, N. Y., are among the fishing enthusiasts, and are keeping up the record by getting hordes of trout, many weighing over two and one-half pounds. Mrs. Smith has had many strikes, and was quite elated when, with the assistance of Clarence Gile, her guide, she landed a 3½ pound salmon and a 2 pound trout.

Messrs. W. C. Clark and T. G. Henley came all the way from Paris, Texas, to enjoy a few days here. These gentlemen left overflowing with praise of the camps and "fish stories to tell the girls and boys when we get back home."

Mr. and Mrs. N. S. Weston of Augusta, Me., are having good luck and much pleasure. Mr. Weston landed a 3-pounder before he had been on the lake an hour. The couple signify their intention of remaining over the Fourth.

"Truthful James."

STRANGER LIKES MOUNTAIN VIEW

Getting Ready for Sportsman's Association--Fish are Caught From the Wharf

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Mountain View House, June 23—A stranger to this part of the world recently was passing by on the steamboat when he saw the flag flying, as if to welcome all and remarked, "What a pretty spot and an ideal location. Never heard of the place before, but I'll stop over and shall send my family there for the summer, for I am satisfied, even before I look the hotel over." That only tells of the first impression one has of this attractive spot in the cove opposite Bald Mountain.

Just now everything is rushing to put the finishing touches, mow the lawn, furnish the new sitting room, etc., to be ready for the Maine Sportsman's Fish and Game association and their friends, who will own the place from July 3 to 7. Hon. Putnam Stevens of Portland, president of the association, is making great preparations to have this the largest and most enjoyable outing ever given by this well known and popular association and they could not in all our state have selected a more desirable place.

Dr. Alexander T. Martin left for New York last Saturday to enter the Roosevelt hospital. The day before, with a fly he caught a 3½ pound salmon.

Charles A. Hubbard of Newton Center, Mass., and A. W. Rogers of Beverly, Mass., with Frank Porter and Harry Quimby guides, stopped here this week en route for Kennebago, which is now the thing to do, since going by rail is the way to reach that part of the wilderness. Mrs. C. C. Gould and family, a party of five, came this week for their first season and have taken one of the camps until September and are greatly pleased with the place.

Jack Dillon and party of traveling men came this week by automobile and the way they fly over the country and take orders, is going some.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Strong of Boston and Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. White of Auburn were guests here the first of the week.

M. L. Thurston and son, W. H. Thurston of Bethel in Overland car made a quick trip of over 100 miles, reaching here Wednesday night and reported the roads good.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Schmitt of Brooklyn, N. Y., were here for the week end and started this morning via the chain of lakes and through Dixville Notch and the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Andrews of Boston are passing honeymoon days here.

The first Pierce-Arrow car model 1913, reached here from Poland Springs Saturday. It was owned by C. E. Bull of Syracuse, N. Y., who was accompanied by his wife and Frank Santon of the same city and friends, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Dean of Boston. Mr. Dean is one of the old comers to Mountain View, who loves to fish as well as any other man. Last evening he asked one of the boys, "Will you just take a rocking chair down onto the wharf for me? I am going fishing." His friends laughed when they saw him sitting there so comfortably and casting the fly, but they cheered when he landed the first trout, and when he came in with enough for breakfast remarked, "Did I hear anybody say there was no fishing at Mountain View?"

Landlord Bowley took a business trip over to Stratton last Friday and the car is now ready to take pleasure parties over the country.

Com. F. A. Newlin of Boston has his boat "Comet" all gaily dressed with a new coat of paint, flags, etc., and takes great pleasure in sailing over the lake.

At Camp Rouge-et-noir the flag is flying, for the Lynn gentlemen find this their happy home during this trip to the Rangeleys. Messrs. Chas. F. Cotter and Wm. F. Dee, who are to be joined by friends this week.

BOTH CHAMPIONSHIP AND CHALLENGE CUP WON BY SAME SHOOTER.

State champion and also winner of the Lee Challenge Cup is J. D. Gay of Pine Grove, who broke 98 targets out of possible 100 in the main event, shooting Remington U. M. C. speed shells, at the Kentucky State Tournament held in Winchester, May 22 and 23d. The championship, high amateur, 198 out of 200, and a long run of 170 targets straight, concluded Mr. Gay's work on the first day of the meet. Homer Clark, who was high over all on the same day, scoring 139 out of 200 with a Remington pump gun, ran off 174 straight breaks.

Nothing Can Keep Fresh After It Is Cut Up

You can't expect the chopped-up tobacco that comes in packages to be fresh, because it has been chopped up too long a time. Most of the natural moisture and flavor escapes from the small particles of tobacco before they are put in the package. By the time you smoke them, they are so dry that they burn fast and bite your tongue.

All the flavor and fragrance of the tobacco is pressed into the Sickle Plug and held there by nature's own covering—the natural leaf wrapper. When you whittle a pipeful off the plug you get fresh tobacco—slow-burning, cool-smoking, rich and sweet.

You don't pay for a package—don't waste any tobacco—and get more tobacco for your money. Buy some Sickle at your dealer's today. You'll find the Sickle way is the only way to get a satisfying smoke.

TWO FISH AT A CAST ON THE POOL

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Trout Brook Camps, June 23—The guests at Trout Brook Camps are getting the best fly fishing this year that they have had for a number of years. Trout and salmon weighing up to 6 pounds are caught on the fly and nothing is saved under 10 inches. There is a large fishing pool handy to the camps and last evening it was boiling with trout and salmon. I was watching the boys fishing and many times they got two trout or salmon at one cast, filling up their fish baskets in a short time. They claimed that it was the best fly fishing that they ever saw and I think they were right.

FOREST OFFICERS HELP STATES PROTECT GAME.

An agreement to cooperate with the state of New Mexico in the protection of game on national forests has been entered into by the United States Forest Service. Negotiations looking toward a similar arrangement with the game wardens will report to the nearest forest officer any fires they may discover on or near a national forest.

The present plan is a logical development of the general policy of the Forest Service to help the state authorities in game protection. It specifies more definitely than heretofore the extent of the cooperation forest officers are expected to furnish. In a letter to State Game Warden Trinidad C. de Baca, the government outlines the proposed activities of Forest Service men in assisting to enforce the game laws of New Mexico, as follows:

Forest officers will pay strict attention to the enforcement of the game laws in so far as their duties permit, by reporting all cases of violation of the game laws to the regular deputy state game warden in whose district an offense is committed. They will make arrests in flagrant cases where it is impossible to notify the deputy state game warden, and where the violator is likely to leave the section of the country. They will also furnish to the proper officials all available information which will assist them in apprehending or prosecuting violators of the game laws.

The rangers will further be expected, as far as practicable, to keep a record of the total number of game animals by classes killed in their districts, to be turned in to the state game warden, at the end of the season.

Maps showing the telephone connections of the forest service and the headquarters of the rangers will be furnished to deputy state game wardens by forest supervisors.

In case the regular deputy state game warden discovers fire on an area within or contiguous to the forest, he is expected to promptly notify the nearest forest officer of the fact.

The matter of maintaining the game supply in New Mexico and Arizona is being taken up energetically by both these states. On the Carson, Pecos and Gila National forests in New Mexico, deer, wild turkey and in certain localities, bear may be found, while on the Sitgreaves and Apache National forests in Arizona big game in quantities abounds. In the White Mountains of the Apache and the Black Range of the Gila National forest is some of the best hunting in the country.

WARBLERS.

(Written for Maine Woods.)

By H. W. Jewell.

The Warblers are the most beautiful birds which we have. There are some 22 species in the state not including some other birds which belong to the same family but are without yellow in the plumage which is one of the principal colors in the birds of the Warbler family. The Warblers are known as the Wood-warblers because they inhabit the woodlands especially. No woodland is too poor not to have within its trees some nest of the Warbler family. Even the pine woods have their share. The pine Warbler here builds its nest and raises its brood.

I have spoken of yellow being the predominating color of the Warbler family and while this is so in the most beautiful of the species, black, white and blue are other colors which are often seen. Warblers are great destroyers of insects which inhabit the trees of which they live and we are much indebted to these birds for the vast numbers of insects of which they destroy.

Birds' appetites are something wonderful and so is that of their young. They must be on the wing from morn until night in order to obtain food enough to satisfy it.

One of the most beautiful of the Warblers is the yellow Warbler. It is a golden beam of sunshine as it flits to and fro through the foliage of the trees which it inhabits. It is of a rich golden yellow in color. Its nest is made of the softest of materials; it is the cotton like substance taken from the stems of the cinnamon fern most wholly. Within this beautiful cradle the eggs are laid and the young reared. It is I think one of the most beautiful of bird nests with perhaps that of the Humming bird being the only exception. The Canadian Warbler is also a very beautiful bird. It has a throat of golden yellow with a necklace of black spots and lines yellow with a black cap. The Parula Warbler is blue on head wings and back and wings also have two encircling it.

Wilson's Warbler is also golden white bars; throat and breast yellow. These birds are found in wet swamps where the Usnea moss hangs in long streamers from the trees. The ends are looped up over the limb forming a cradle within which the nest is made and the eggs laid.

There is much resemblance between the Myrtle Warbler and the Magnolia Warbler on account of the position of the yellow spots on both species. The Myrtle warbler has a yellow spot on the crown of head; a yellow spot on each side of the breast; yellow on rump and the throat is white. There is also a black spot covering the eye with a white line above it. The three outer tail feathers are white for about an inch in length, the white not quite reaching the end of tail. The wings have two white bars. The back is dull colored and marked with arrow like black spots. The Magnolia Warbler is much the same with the exception that the throat and breast are yellow with black spots and there is no yellow patch on the crown like that in the Myrtle Warbler. These descriptions are of the males only, the females are much duller colored. This is their protection from their enemies of which they have many and were they brightly colored like the males they would fall an easy prey to their enemies.

The Blackburnian Warbler is a beauty. There is an orange cap surrounded with black; another orange line over eye; black spot running through eye; throat orange yellow; back black with two white lines running longitudinally down the back nearly to the rump; white wing bars; three outer tail feathers; white from sides of rump to nearly the end of tail. The female is so much differently colored that she would never be taken for a partner or such a beautiful husband. The Chestnut-sided Warbler is a beautiful bird. Cap yellow; black spot over and through eye; white patch below ears; breast white, with a chestnut colored line on each side of breast; back olive green; wing bars white, tinted with olive; female much duller.

Black throated Blue Warbler, head and back blue; three outer tail feathers white from about way below rump to end of tail; white spot on side of wing; throat black; breast white. A very handsome bird. Female olive green. One would never know she was the mate of this bird. It is by these dull colors that nature protects the females of the species.

AROUND THE STATE.

Three men in Franklin county, the town of Wilton, have been prosecuted for violations of the fish and game laws of the state of Maine, being found by Warden Emery S. Bubler to have in their possession fish of under size. The men were Otho Knowles, Harry L. Hinkley and Edward Blaxel all of the town of Wilton and were tried before Trial Justice A. B. Allen, found guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $6 with costs of $3.02.

J. Merton Swain was exhibiting a 2½ pound trout a few days ago, which he caught at Mt. Bigelow pond on a brown hackle and succeeded in landing without the aid of a net. 'Twas a dandy fish and an exploit which an experienced sportsman like Mr. Swain fully appreciated.

Lewiston has broken all bird records so far as known, for after two previous years of unsuccessful effort, a pair of doves have hatched out their young in a tree on Main street in front of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alton J. Neal. Prof. J. Y. Stanton, professor of ornithology at Bates college for so many years, says he never knew of a similar instance. He considers this tree nesting unique and has watched the progress of their domestic affairs with a good deal of interest, as the doves are located but a short distance from his home.

Oscar Childs, who runs the work shop at the Kennebec county jail, has just returned from a fishing trip on the lakes of northern Maine. Although he was very successful from the fishing standpoint he says that the black flies are in no way merciful to newcomers. He succeeded in landing a fine string of trout.

Judge Nathaniel Hobs of Portland, who with Harry B. Ayer, register of probate, has been fishing at Sebago lake, landed two handsome salmon.

A party of Augusta fishermen in which were A. N. Soule, F. G. Marshall, W. E. Swift and M. W. Wiswell, have returned from Carry pond and Pleasant pond, where they went for a brief trip recently and report that in addition to having a good time they met with the best of luck in fishing especially in the latter pond and landed all the trout that a reasonable man could expect.

Hon. James Donohue, recently retired from the commissionership of sea and shore fisheries, has returned to his Rockland home from Norfolk, Virginia where he attended the annual convention of the National Shell Fish association. An oyster roast was one of the social features of the convention which impressed Mr. Donohue.

GOOD BATTLE WITH SALMON

Nine Salmon Landed on the Fly in One Afternoon--Great Fishing Every Day.

(Special to Maine Woods).

Spring lake, June 23--The fishing still holds good at Spring lake.

Wm. M. Will and C. W. Ruth of Boston, Mass., with Will Viles for guide landed 9 salmon one afternoon recently on a fly. They were kept busy all the time and both agreed that it beat any fishing they had ever seen.

On Monday, June 16 S. J. Wyman of Kingfield with Arthur Wright for guide landed a 13 pound lake trout and the next day a 9 pounder. Miss Caro B. Marshall of Reading, Mass., in the meantime captured a 12 pounder and a 7 pounder. These four fish weighed 41 pounds and made a good picture.

Saturday night F. C. Burnham, A. C. Burnham, A. B. Jenkins and P. J. Bauer of Hartford, Conn., reached camp and Sunday morning about 5.30 Arthur Burnham was on the float casting his flies. At 5.45 there was a big splash and Arthur had hooked his first salmon for this season. It was not many minutes before nearly every guest in camp was on the float to watch the battle, among others Mr. F. P. Kalkhoff of Brooklyn, N. Y., photographer for the Maine Central Railroad, with his camera. It was cold on the float and Arthur and his guide, Fud Taylor, both wanted breakfast but it was just 8 o'clock when Fud brought the beauty ashore. He weighed 7 pounds and fought like a demon for 21-4 hours.

Sunday afternoon A. C. Burnham and P. J. Bauer with Fud Taylor for guide caught 11 salmon on the fly. F. C. Burnham and A. B. Jenkins with Will Viles for guide caught 7 salmon on the fly.

Geo. L. Wakefield, Nat. Eaton and J. Barnard of Wakefield, Mass., with Frank Savage for guide returned Sunday from a three days' trip to Spencer lake. They report good fishing and a fine trip.

Fly Rod's Note Book

BY FLY ROD

Kennebago Lake House, Kennebago, June 23--In September, 1911, when at Kennebago I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. and Mrs. Whitmore Preston, two delightful Bostonians, and when saying good by, they said, "We are soon to start for a trip around the world and visit the different countries as fancy leads, and shall be gone more than a year, but some future day hope to meet you here again."

Not long ago the telephone bell rung, and when Mr. Look called, "Hello, Hello," the answer came, "Here is a night message for the Kennebago Hotel Co., from San Francisco, Cal., are you ready?"

"Wait until I get pencil and paper. Now go ahead," was Mr. Look's reply.

The message was from Mr. Preston and read like this,

"We have just reached America. Have found no place as beautiful as Kennebago. Wire if you can take care of me until October."

Saturday I took dinner at Mountain View, then a 20 minute ride by train, a pleasant sail up the lake and at 3 o'clock was again greeted by Mr. Preston, who followed his message and is happily located here until the mountains have changed their dress of bright summer greens to their autumn mantle of scarlet and gold.

"Japan is truly a land of great beauty. New Guinea with its tropical verdure, birds of paradise, black men with little red flowers stuck in their bushy hair, clothed in a red waist cloth and a necklace of bones is a weird land. Australia had little of interest but New Zealand has scenery worth the long trip to see. Our Pacific slope has charms for many but we found no place more wild and beautiful or a better climate than Kennebago. Here the sunsets paint the sky beyond the mountains at the foot of the lake with weird hues one never tires of watching. I am glad to be back again," was what Mr. Preston said of his trip, as he came in from a tramp through the forest where he has been cutting out the old trail.

This is his summer pastime cutting trails up the mountains, from one pond to another and around the lake shore. Never has he caught or killed a fish and it almost seems as if the birds, deer and other inhabitants of the woods welcome the lover of nature back to Kennebago as his friends surely do.

The old buckboard still comes rattling in from Rangeley and some, for the sake of old times prefer this route.

The steamboat Kennebago leaves to take passengers down the lake at 5 o'clock in the morning for the 6.20 a. m. train and at 10.45 a. m. for the 12.30 p. m. train, bringing back the people who have come on the noon train in time for dinner and those who come by the afternoon train reach here in time for supper.

All are glad that the "iron horse" does not come within six miles of the place and that the echo of the steam engine is not heard across the lake. Life in these big cabins can be spent as in the days past close to the unbroken forest, with all the comforts of life, but far from the rush and noise of city life.

For two weeks a jolly good party of railroad men, employees of the Boston and Maine and ladies have occupied four of the camps and as for 15 years past, have spent their vacation in June at Kennebago, where they have caught fish, hundreds of them. They have had fish baked, fish boiled, fish fried, and fish for breakfast, dinner and supper and talked fish, and after a ride over the buckboard, for a time forgot there was a railroad.

This year there were 19 in the company: Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Morey, E. B. Savory, R. B. Lindsley, F. H. Sleeper, W. E. Kendell of Somerville, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Taplin of Cambridge, Mass.; Miss Annie M. Morse of Wollaston, Mass.; Col. Chas. H. Cummings of Ware, N. H.; D. W. Chandler, F. W. Johnson of Concord, N. H.; F. N. Keyser of North Haverhill, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Chesley of Reading, Mass.; Leon D. Hurd of Manchester, N. H.; A. Colby and Wm. Merritt, Boston; Fred A. Fernald of Newton, Mass. May they come by buckboard over the same old rocks and stumps for the next 15 years to spend June days here.

"Fishermen I have known," will often find a place in my Note Book and always bring pleasant memories.

One evening this week I spent most delightfully as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Wilbur of Philadelphia in the log cabin where they are at home for two weeks.

Mr. Wilbur, who is one of the largest chocolate manufacturers in this country, is also a great fisherman. He has caught trout and salmon in the far west, Mexico, Alaska, Newfoundland, Canada and Scotland, has for years been a member of the Megantic club, and last September came as far as Eustis by automobile, then went to Chain-of-ponds. Aaron Soule is their guide and they are having good fishing and a most enjoyable stay at Kennebago.

Mr. Wilbur is a personal friend of the celebrated salmon painter, Walter M. Brackett of Boston, whose 90th birthday was recently celebrated by the Boston Art Club. They have camps near each other on the Saint Marguerite river in Canada.

Last season Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur entertained friends there at Camp Wilmar on their $20,000 salmon pool and Mr. Wilbur caught a salmon that weighed 36 pounds and Mrs. Wilbur one of 25 pounds. That is Canadian salmon fishing.

This week they go to Poland Springs then to the Mount Washington House for the season.

A party was going down the lake Sunday morning for a fishing trip at little Kennebago and a shore dinner. The steamboat took the daily supplies to the different camps along the shore and I accepted the invitation to be landed with the milk, eggs, butter, etc., at Skeddler's point two miles down the lake on the right hand side by water and 2½ miles by trail.

This place took its name in 1863 when several of the citizens of Rangeley, who had a peaceable mind and did not intend to hear Uncle Sam call them to war, skeddaddled to this wilderness which then was not disturbed by the fisherman or lumberman. They arranged with some friends now and then to bring them flour, salt pork and a few of the things necessary, and there they lived in hiding until there was no danger of being called to go south to fight for their country and bravely returned to their homes but the point of land was named.

Last summer Harry E. Converse, a wealthy Bostonian, came here for the first time and although he has a summer place at Bar Harbor and one at Buzard's Bay decided this was just the place he would like to skeddaddle to when business for a time should be forgotten.

He leased of the Kennebago Lake Hotel Co., a mile of the lake shore, one half mile each way from Skeddler's point. Mr. and Mrs. David Quimby were hired for a year. Freeman Tibbetts was engaged to superintend the building of a set of log camps and Nov. 10, 1912, a crew of men went into the woods and selected the logs each one of the same size. The land was cleared and now a fine set of camps are completed and furnished ready to welcome Mr. Converse and party the first week in July.

The large camp is 22x24 feet with a living room, where there is a big open fire, two sleeping rooms and bath on the first floor and a sleeping room up stairs. Connected with this is a camp 16x22 feet with a kitchen completely furnished with all the modern improvements, hot and cold water, set tubs, etc. In the rear is a sleeping room and sitting room for Mr. and Mrs. Quimby. There is a piazza 8 feet wide and 64 feet long around the camp. A wood and ice house has been built, also a store house and a work shop. Water has been brought in pipes to the camps from a large never failing spring 100 rods back on the hill side.

There is a good wharf where the steamboat leaves the mail and supplies twice a day. Dave last week put the telephone in so a Boston call can be taken.

The first of July Mr. Converse will unfurl the flag and long may it wave to tell he is spending happy days at Skeddader's point.

The wind was blowing and the white caps covered the lake as with Mr. and Mrs. Quimby I took the row boat to cross the lake to Forestholme nearly opposite Skeddader's. Dave can handle the oars and it was just fun to ride over the high waves across.

My friends, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Atwood of Stonington, Conn., have for several weeks been enjoying life at Forestholme, one of the most beautiful spots in the wilderness that the flag ever waved with the forest for a back ground. The hearty welcome received added to the perfect June day.

The camp was decorated with large vases of carnations and roses that were sent last week for the 26th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Atwood. Their perfume blended with that of the wild flowers and pine that the summer breeze wafted in from the open window. May this charming couple for many years to come celebrate their wedding day at Forestholme.

Mr. and Mrs. Q. A. Atwood of Newton, Mass are spending a month as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Atwood and the gentlemen were up on little Kennebago for a day at Forestholme annex.

In the afternoon we took a walk up to the garden back of the camp where the squirrels, after taking all the peanuts they could carry from the pockets of their generous friends on the piazza, had been busy in the early morning digging up the corn. When discovered the little rascals were sitting up chattering and eating off the little green sprouts then taking the corn to their store house. A short trail to the cove where a new guides' house is nearly complete and Tom Mathieson can live in comfort the year around if he wishes

Mrs. E. Atwood is the finest fisherwoman I have met for many a day. She is now an expert with the dry fly and for hours stands on the wharf and proves to the trout that her box of dry flies made in Scotland are as dainty a bit of lunch as any Kennebago fly that ever dropped in the water.

One afternoon this week a big buck deer took a swim across the lake landed on the shore near the wharf, then shook himself and walked over the hill back of the camps, where no doubt he is waiting for the garden to furnish him a breakfast.

It was sunset when the boat whistled and I said good by promising to come again in the near future.

Wm. Cunningham of New York, who is spending the summer with his family at their beautiful home on the shore of Rangeley lake, came in Thursday. He was accompanied by his daughter, Miss Cunningham, and friend, Miss Kerr, of New York and guides, A. D. Tibbetts and Frank Huntton.

After a night in Camp Content they went up to the hotel camp on little Kennebago for a stay of several days.

While there the young ladies caught many trout on the fly and watched over 20 deer in the wilderness home, who seem to know they are free to go and come and be admired until October.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Lunn and little daughter, Nina, of Auburn with Chas. L. Harnden, guide, who are spending part of June here, were on Saturday joined by their friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Sweet of Lewiston and Miss Constane Raboteau of Brooklyn, N. Y. Eben Harnden and Frank Huntton are guides and Sunday they enjoyed a fishing trip to little Knenebago.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Tenney White of Brookline, Mass who are touring Maine in their auto, came Friday with James Ross guide, to try their luck fly fishing.

It was their first experience in a log cabin and they are so much pleased with the place they plan to return for a longer stay later in the season.

Geo. D. Rosengarten of Philadelphia, a wealthy drug manufacturer, who has been coming here for years, returns home to-day after a month's stay during which he has regained his health and with Rube W. Wilbur guide, had great sport fly fishing and many a 2-pounder has he returned to the lake. Three handsome trout, one a 4-pounder and two 3-pounders Mr. Rosengarten saved this season that he is having H. L. Welch mount to decorate his city home and show to his friends as samples of the speckled beauties caught at Kennebago.

The two new log camps are nearly ready to occupy and this place will soon be crowded and all the camps on the lake shore taken.

Nearly every morning several deer can be seen in the open field beyond the garden.

The weather is perfect and life at Kennebago a happy one.

ed to cast. Out in the water he sent the new fly. There was a rise, a whirl, and Mr. Whipple had hooked a trout that gave him great sport for some time before he was safe in the net, a handsome 4 pound trout.

The DeWitt camp is now taken by two New Yorkers, Messrs. John Dallett and H. J. Scales who have come to enjoy their first fly fishing at Kennebago. Hall Grant is their guide. One of their first catches was a trout that weighed almost a pound and had a smelt four inches long in his mouth.

Mrs. Frank King and Mrs. Otis Bean of Cupsuptic were guests here for a short time this week.

Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Wheeler and Miss Katherine Wheeler of Portland were here for the week end.

Arthur P. Knapp of Lowell, Mass., who is here for a month's stay with Ed Morrison guide, are having great fishing. Friday they came down from Beaver pond and while coming down the stream they saw five deer at one time feeding in the open not more than six rods away. When they reached camp the guests presented him with a medal as the victor of the hot air contest with Fred Drake at Seven ponds and "old man Drake is hard to beat."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Selfe of Wellesley, Mass., have been spending their honeymoon in Camp Kunning. While here they took a tramp up West Kennebago mountain and a canoe trip on the stream.

Messrs. Louis S. Clarke, Jr., and Frank Clarke of New Orleans, La., with Hall Grant have had a most delightful stay of several days. They caught their first Maine fish, a 4-pounder, that is being mounted by H. L. Welch to take to their southern home, that their friends can see what a "speckled beauty" is and prove their fish stories.

H. L. Moody of Boston and C. B. Hisey of Malden, Mass., with Al Sprague guide, have had a great week's fishing and caught all they wanted.

Capt. Chas. H. Beaton of New Britain, Conn., is enjoying life for two weeks in West End camp. The captain has been coming to Maine for many summers and everywhere he goes to camp and hotel old friends are most happy to greet him.

Messrs. J. M. Wilson and A. H. Mathews of Brooklyn, N. Y., with Frank Huntoon and Willmont Patterson guides, have had two weeks of good sport and caught "fish without number."

Mr. and Mrs. F. O. Walker of Rumford, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hayden of Portland are here to spend Sunday in Camp Sunshine.

Dr. F. R. Sims, Frederick H. Brown of Melrose, Mass., and Fred A. Fernald of Newton Center, Mass., have just returned home after a week's stay.

The new postoffice at Kennebago, Mrs. Lena P. Grant, post mistress, will be open in a few days. Miss Clara Lambard, assistant. The supplies have already been sent by Uncle Sam and the boxes, etc., will soon be installed in the new office.

The past month Propt. Grant has kept a crew rushing work on the improvements that are being made about the camps and grounds, and the coming summer will be a busy one for every mail brings letters from those who want to spend a time in this part of the wilderness of Maine.

THINK FISH ARE GETTING WISE

Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty Guests for Many Years Trying Their Luck

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Upper Dam, June 18—The salmon won't bite in that pool. This is the way it has been for the past few days.

After the logs were all through the dam on May 31, which was several days earlier than last year, E. M. Nicholas of Columbus, Ohio, was on the pool sending the fly out over the water. That afternoon he had good sport with a pair of silver beauties that were recorded and during the week six more. By that time word must have been telephoned to every record trout and salmon in the waters that "the fly fisherman, with all kinds of new flies, that Yankees, Japs and Scotchmen can invent are back again to that Dam House and let us be wise this year and not try every new thing they offer" for not a record fish has been taken since.

Mr. and Mrs. James C. Dougherty of Syracuse, N. Y., who have been here for many years, are back for their usual early fly fishing in the pool, as both are experts at the gentle art. Mr. Dougherty has a small canvas boat of his own, in which he sits for hours in the pool sending the fly for many feet over the water and seems as content and happy to bring in a pound fish for their breakfast as if he had a 3-pounder. Mrs. Dougherty is one of the few ladies whose name is on the famous book.

George B. Bearce of Lewiston with his guide is still at Beaver Lodge, his camp on Beaver pond. With Clayton Sweatt, his guide, Mr. Bearce often follows the trail from the camp to the lake and with a motor boat takes a sail and comes here for his mail and supplies. Callers are always welcome to pull the latch when the flag is out.

Walter Maberry and son, who have a camp down the lake, are entertaining two Boston gentlemen, Messrs. J. L. Wilcoxson and Carroll I. Hooper, who are enjoying the wild life far from civilization. As one remarked, "We are so deep in the woods the only way we can tell when daylight comes is to walk out from the dense forest and look upward."

Four gentlemen from Portsmouth, N. H., Messrs. W. D. Walton, H. E. Boynton, Fred H. Ward and John W. Emery spent several days here this week fishing. Their guides were Ernest Grant and Clarence Harlow. They spent the time on the lake, lunching on the shore and even if they did not land an 8 pounder, they caught their limit and had a most enjoyable outing.

The first family to arrive for the season is Mr. and Mrs. Stephen H. Palmer, their daughter, Miss Louisset and son, S. H. Palmer, Jr., of Milford, Penn. This is their third summer at Upper Dam and they are delighted to pull up the flag from the second cottage and be at home until October. They have the same guide, Elmer Woodbury. Last year they made great catches from the pool and may yet find a tempting fly for the educated trout and salmon.

NO AUTO HORN HEARD AT BEMIS

Six-Pound Trout Caught by Lad—Busy Place at This Time of Year.

Bemis, June 19—The coming and going of many people, tourists, workmen and those who are interested in the extensive lumber business of this section makes this a busy place at train time. There are not many villages where there is a store, postoffice and school that can only be reached by train or steamboat with no public road, but the toot, toot of the auto horn is not heard at Bemis for there is no road coming to the place.

These camps that were among the first public ones open at the Rangeleys have for many a great fascination as they are well kept and are homelike and comfortable. The big fish know how to reach here, but are not always wise enough to escape being caught.

John R. Trask of Dixfield spent Sunday in camp and had a fine box of fish to take home with him.

Billy Myers of Sidney, N. C., celebrated the 17th by catching off the wharf just as the sun was coming over the mountains, a 5¼ pound trout that he is having mounted at Welch's.

Eddy Campbell, a lad living here, caught a trout while trolling near Toothaker island that weighed 5 pounds and 15 ounces.

A. McCommick holds the record for size with the 7¼ pound salmon he caught not far from the shore.

Mrs. L. Gaudet and Mrs. May Lohnes share equal honors as both caught a 3½ pounder, one a trout and the other a salmon.

Ezra Moulton of Rumford went this morning with four salmon weighing from 2 to 3 pounds each, that he caught while trolling alone not far from the camps yesterday.

The following are among those who have registered here this week: Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Crapser of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Marble, Lowell, Mass.; Dr. and Mrs. F. N. North; Mr. and Mrs. J. Jordan, New York; Mrs. Anna E. Dickerson, Oakland, Cal.; Dr. F. Symington, Norwich, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. E. Eldridge, Jamaica, Mass.; Joseph J. Walker, Frank P. Davis, Bridgton.

MEETING OF MAINE AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the directors of the Maine Automobile association was held in Portland this week and resolutions were adopted embracing important features of the present road situation in this state. All of the resolutions were unanimously adopted and will be sent broadcast throughout the state. They were as follows:

Ordered that the executive officers be instructed to report to the State Highway Commission, towns that have left sod in their roads in violation of the law which comes in full force in July and that such report be accompanied by the evidence in the case.

Resolved: That, in the opinion of this association, construction or extensive repairs should not be commenced on any road until a detour has been selected, placed in a passable condition and proper signs erected, plainly indicating the detours. This not only is in accordance with the new law, but is inexpensive and of the greatest importance to the traveling public and summer tourist business.

Whereas either owing to insufficient equipment or lack of good judgment, or other causes, some of the contractors on the Portland-Kittery road have unreasonably exceeded the time in which they agreed to have their contract completed, to the detriment of the business of the state, therefore be it

Resolved: That this association recommend that the State Highway Department take measures to compel contractors to complete their work in the specified time, either by subletting and charging the cost to the original contractor according to the New York method, or in some other effective manner.

Resolved: That we commend the zeal thus early displayed by the proposed highway commissioners in their meeting to consider the work before them, even if they are not to assume office, officially, until July 12.

Whereas complaints are constantly being received that cars are being run with last year's number plates, therefore be it

Resolved: That we request all town and county officers to see that the law in relation to chauffeur license fees and automobile registration be strictly enforced.

Reports of the work of the association were received from all sections of the state, showing its widespread influence in all matters pertaining to good roads and the enforcement of automobile laws in general.

The Touring Information bureau, located at 12 Monument Square, Portland, is doing a tremendous business, receiving hundreds of letters from all over the country, and the new 1913 road book, issued by the association, is being complimented on every side and has already done much to bring automobile traffic to the state.

The present membership of the association is 2,000 and is growing rapidly. It was shown at the meeting that its work had only begun, and that it was more necessary than ever that it should take an active interest in road and automobile matters. When the new State Highway Commission comes into office July 12, the association will make it a point to keep it posted regarding road conditions throughout the state and will furnish evidence to back up these conditions. Everything will be done to support the new commission and to help its members get a good road system through the state.

The question of the Portsmouth and Kittery road was taken up and it was voted to invite the new Highway Commission, the present Highway Commissioner and officials of the Maine Automobile association, to go over the road between Portland and Portsmouth, meet the local officials along the line and arrange to have the highway put in good condition for traffic by July 1. By this it is meant to have suitable detours laid around work in progress and where this will be impossible, to have the work stopped during the summer months. This inspection will probably be made sometime within a few days.

SPINNEY COLLECTION OF MAINE BIRDS.

The Spinney collection of Maine birds, says the Kennebec Journal, has been added to those now in the state museum and now with the exception of a few, the museum has on exhibition practically all the birds in the state. The collection was made by Captain Herbert Spinney during the years he was keeper of Seguin light and the greater part of them were gathered on the island, though some are foreign birds. There are about 206 birds in the collection and were collected during a period covering about 20 years. A good many of them flew against the lighthouse during migration and were killed. Many of the birds in this collection are extinct in Maine or extremely rare, which renders the collection of double value to the state.

The fish and game commissioners feel lucky to have been able to secure this remarkable collection that has taken years to gather, in that it was for sale and many other state made strong bids for the collection. The birds will all need to be freshly mounted, and for the present are in a case, to keep them from prying hands.

Curator James has just returned from a trip to Metinic Island where he has been in connection with the department, having brought home a few more curios to add to the museum collection. The island is extremely rocky and is owned by the Audubon society for the protection of birds. Mr. James brought home several specimens of the eggs of different birds along the coast namely, sandpiper, gulls, Savannah sparrow, guillemot and the herring and ring bill gulls. He secured the nest of several of the birds together with the eggs.

MANY DEER SEEN IN VICINITY

Fine Fishing at Near-by Ponds—Large Fish Are Being Caught.

(Special to Maine Woods.)

Lakewood Camps, Middle Dam, June 19—It is early morning and the guides are sitting on the veranda waiting for the breakfast bell to ring and planning the day's sport for those they are to take out for the day.

We are going over to B pond for the day. Never had a party who liked the woods and could tramp better and you just ought to see those city folks eat. "Where are you going to-day Bill?" "Oh, my party wants to troll up the narrows and they think more about the shore dinner, than they do of the fish they catch. Where are you going G?" "Going to breakfast, there is a bell and it is half past six, come on."

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. R. Felt of Peabody, Mass., who came for a stay are so much pleased with this their first visit they are to remain for the rest of the month. They have Hollis Ellingwood for guide and have been camping at Richardson and B ponds fishing on the lake and in Pond-in-the-river with good success.

"We have seen seven deer and the 3 pound trout on the fly is our biggest one. When at B pond we killed the fourteenth hedgehog that has been shot there this spring and 'shot' him with a broken oar. Yes we are having a great time," said Mrs. Felt as the lunch was being put up and now they are on the trail, off for another day out in the open.

Everyone was pleased to welcome Mr. and Mrs. William C. Renwick of Summit, N. Y., on their unexpected arrival Saturday.

They have been coming here for a number of years to spend September but decided one morning "we will go down in Maine to Middle Dam and celebrated our 35th honeymoon" and now they are happy "in the same old log cabin".

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Garland of Worcester, Mass., who came in May return home tomorrow after a delightful outing and good luck fishing. A 3½ pound salmon is their largest this week and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Frazer of New York and their friends Messrs. C. W. Cowles, John Sullivan and A. C. Brew are having a great time fishing.

Mrs. Nath. N. Thayer of Boston on Tuesday trolling, caught a 4 pound trout, that all said was the handsomest fish that has been seen at this hotel this year.

Mr. Thayer last evening, on a fly over the dam caught a 3½ pound salmon on a No. 10 hook and also a 2½ pounder that gave him great sport.

The fishermen are having great fly fishing and losing all kinds of tackle over the dam.

Capt. E. F. Coburn made a business trip to Portland this week and Walter D. Hinds took him for an auto ride and they took a spin at the rate of 65 miles an hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Goodrich of Lynn, Mass., have reeled in for season.

They both sent home a box of fish and took with them all the law allows, and had all they wanted to eat. "Who says we did not have good fishing?"

Several parties are going home this week and others are coming to take their places.

True Anglers Use The Williams Barbless Hook

Because it is guaranteed to catch and hold better than a barbed hook, yet you can remove the little fish without injury. Yearlings, spawn, and their killing wastes thousands of eggs, this means certain ruin to a glorious sport. The Williams Barbless hook is a scientific and a practical lure, no mechanism, just its ingenious shape. It stands for a SQUARE deal to the future of the sport: a SQUARE deal to the little fish and a SQUARE deal to yourself as a sportsman. Imported standard flies, $1.60 per dozen, bait hooks 25 cents.

BUSINESS GOOD AT THIS SEASON

Mrs. Clark High Line the Past Week with Trio of Salmon

(Special to Maine Woods).

Mooselookmeguntic House, Haines Landing, June 19—The last week has been the best one at this time of year since the hotel has been open, for the last of June has always been dull and now there are 30 guests and although a number return home to-day, others are coming and soon the camps will nearly all be taken.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Glover of Camden, who have been here for a number of seasons, came Saturday, accompanied by Mrs. F. F. Curling of Thomaston. "I do not know of another place where one can get such an extended view of miles and miles of unbroken forest and the White Mountains beyond as you look down the lake, it is wonderful," said Mr. Glover as they were watching the brilliant sunset this evening.

Richard M. Hoe of New Brunswick, N. J., who with his father and sister, are here for the summer, is greatly pleased with his first record fish, a 3½ pound salmon. Wm. Luffkin is his guide.

Mrs. James P. Clark of Springfield, Mass., is the lady to whom all are taking off their hats, for she was high line the past week, having brought in a 6½ pound salmon, and one 3½ pounds, also a 3-pounder. Mr. Clark has something to say about the 4 pound salmon he caught.

Mrs. A. F. Grassman of New York and sister, Mrs. L. Reinhardt, of San Francisco, Cal., with Frank Fall for guide, had great luck yesterday and caught 17 trout and salmon. Mrs. Grassman would not record her fish for the largest was only a little over 3 pounds. The party return home to-morrow greatly delighted with this, their first visit which they say will not be their last.

The following party were here for Sunday: Alfred S. Sparks, R. J. Harris, H. Q. Howes, of Rumford; and C. E. Carpenter of Glens Falls, N. Y.

A party who have greatly enjoyed the week here are: Dr. J. F. Croston and son, F. A. Croston, and Rev. Fr. James O'Doherty of Haverhill, Mass., and Rev. Fr. D. F. Lee of Amesbury, Mass. Their guides are Ed Lowe and Will Boulter and they have had good fishing.

One of the log camps in the circle is taken for several weeks by Mrs. Harrison Taylor, her sons, M. Harrison and Joseph C. Taylor, of Philadelphia, who came for the first season and are charmed with life here in the wilderness by the lake side.

Raymond F. Page of Haverhill, Mass., arrived to-day for a two weeks' stay.

The store at the postoffice has this week received a fine assortment of confectionery and all kinds of toilet articles and one is surprised to meet so many people there who come from the near by hotels and private camps.

Almost every morning when the team goes over the carry to the train one or more deer are seen and they are looking "fat and pretty," as one of the drivers said.

H. J. McIndoe of New York is here for a 10 days' fishing trip.

G. Howard Harmon of New York was to-day joined by his wife and they plan to remain for several weeks.

TWENTY-FIVE DOLLAR LICENSE FEE REQUIRED FOR MOOSE ONLY.

Hartford, Conn., June 16, 1913.

To the Editor of Maine Woods.

Your legislators make such numerous changes in your game laws that it is hard work for the ordinary layman to understand them.

I saw a little item in your paper several weeks ago stating the open season on moose had been shortened and that the licence fee for non resident hunters had been raised from $15 to $25. Now does this mean that all non-resident hunters must pay a license fee of $25 or does it mean that only those who want to hunt moose must pay the $25 and those who only want to hunt deer, birds and other small game can still get by with a $15 license? I would like to know about this before I make arrangements to go to Maine this fall, for I feel as though $15 is about all I care to put up for the privilege of going into your beautiful old state for the sake of lugging a gun for three or four weeks and leaving with your residents anywhere from $175 to $250, for there is a limit to all kinds of foolishness.

Very truly yours,

C. H. Hunting, an old Subscriber.

[We would state that the $10 additional to the $15 for non-residents' hunting license is required only when the non-resident wishes to hunt for moose and that the $15 license covers deer, bear and all smaller game.—Ed.]

No fixed program will be followed but the different plans will depend on the weather. One-half day will be devoted to automobile rides through courtesy of Camden board of trade. Another half day to a motor boat trip among the islands. On a clear day the party will visit the famous Mt. Battie, a carriage road leading to the summit. A picnic shore dinner will be another pleasure and short trips by motor boat as the members desire.

Near the hotel is the splendid clubhouse and grounds of the Camden Yacht club with wharf, float and tennis court which will be open to the visitors. Fishing trips, either salt or fresh water will be arranged for any who desire. The arrival of the Eastern Yacht club on their annual cruise, July 5, at the anchorage in front of the hotel will be a pretty feature. On the evening of July 4 a fine exhibition of fireworks will be shown in connection with a celebration.

FISH AND GAME NOTES.

W. T. Pollard of Foxcroft has been appointed inland fish and game warden by Governor Hanies.

W. L. Volter of Wilton appeared before Justice A. B. Allen, recently, charged with the killing of deer out of time. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $40 and the money now is in the state treasury. The warden who seized the meat was compelled to swear out a search warrant for Volter had hid a part of the carcass in the ice house, where he evidently had no fear of it being discovered. The meat was given to the Central Maine General hospital in Lewiston.

Four Bangor men, one of whom has been in the public eye more or less since March, will probably hesitate before they try to break the fish laws on lake Sebasticook. The four Bangorians, whose names are withheld owing to the fact that they have always obeyed the laws in the past, motored to this town Monday evening, hoping to carry home nice catch of white perch for

HUNTERS AFTER VALUABLE FOX

Many Visitors Call on Mrs. Fox and Children.

The finding of a black female fox and her three young, last week, in Canaan by Guy Nelson and Elmer Goodrich has aroused nearly every farmer in town to hunt for the valuable animal. They are especially encouraged in the fact that there are more of the black and gray foxes in the town in view that Mr. Nelson last fall caught a black and a gray one that netted him $2,800. The foxes taken by Mr. Nelson last Saturday, are worth from $3000 to $6000. He was offered the first sum the day following the capture. He has them now caged at his home near Canaan village. The mother fox in a cage by herself lies close to one corner of her pen with each day nearly 100 people looking at her envying the ownership of her. The children of this fox are about two months old. They are taken in the hands of the owner and appear to be little afraid. They are now in color a little bordering on the gray but those who have seen them are sure that they will be black. Up until last fall Mr. Nelson had been a farmer and trapper living near Sibley pond. While hunting red foxes and other fur animals he suddenly found one morning in his traps a black fox and a gray fox. His wife helped him in this capture and he divided the money with her. They have now bought a home in the village and Mrs. Nelson has bought an automobile. Mr. Goodrich saw the big fox first and with the aid of Mr. Nelson, they captured her and then dug out the little ones.—Kennebec Journal.

which Sebasticook is noted.

Deputy Game Warden William R. Bennett, however, had a suspicion of the motive of the Queen city men in coming to the lake and so maintained a watch on their actions. They hired some boats and started fishing despite the fact that they had been warned beforehand that the catching of white perch is not legal until July 1.

Warden Bennett discovered that they were catching perch and at his approach the fish were evidently thrown into the water as 11 were found floating in the vicinity of the boats. Warden Bennett returned to shore and when the fishermen finished their fun he arrested them and took them before Judge F. Wade Halliday in the municipal court where, after a hearing, they were adjudged guilty and paid fines of $3 and costs. They motored back to Bangor, sadder but wiser fishermen.—Bangor Commercial.

APPRECIATES MAINE WOODS

Albany, N. Y., June 4, 1913.

To the Editor of Maine Woods:

I am in receipt of your letter regarding my delinquency in paying for the Maine Woods. I thank you very much for reminding me of the same.

I certainly appreciate the Maine Woods. I enjoy reading it every week. Really the Maine Woods has been improved wonderfully within the last year. You send out news from all over the state and as I have fished and hunted in nearly every section of the state of Maine, it is particularly interesting to me to read the Maine Woods. If the people who have visited in Maine knew that the Maine Woods contained such splendid news from the different camps of the fishing and hunting territory, you would increase the circulation of 10 times what it is today.

I enclose check for $2 which I understand now pays my subscription up to Dec. 12, 1914.

Very respectfully yours,

Geo. D. Babbitt.

HATS OFF TO MR. EMERY.

New York, coming by automobile, are pleasantly located at this hotel for the summer and express themselves as greatly pleased with the place.

The following party of Bostonians, who came by auto have been enjoying a few days here: Messrs. C. D. McLaughlin, J. C. Brown, William A. Miller and F. X. Johnston. They came to land a big fish and intend to do it.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murphy of Plainfield, N. J., who were here a number of years ago, have returned for another season, their daughter, Miss Lydia A. Murphy, and maid accompanying them.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Tenny White of Brookline, Mass., who are touring Maine, spent the week here and said "Rangeley lakes is the most beautiful place we have found in the state." They returned by the way of Dixville Notch and the White Mountains.

Mrs. J. C. Baird of Boston, accompanied by her son, Stewart Baird the actor, have returned for another season, and no doubt the "Rangeley Follies," which have been such unusually fine theatricals in the past will be better than ever this year.

The orchestra arrives Saturday of this week and now there will be music and dancing in the casino every evening.

Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Overton of Brookline, Mass., made a short stay here this week while motoring through Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Pope of New York, who arrived on Saturday for another summer were greeted by a host of friends. They were accompanied by their friend, Miss Joan Oakley of London, England, who is enjoying her first trip to America.

Mrs. W. M. Ratlew and daughter, Miss Ratlew, of Norfolk, Va., who are touring in their automobile for several months, are making a few days' stay at this hotel. They express themselves as delighted with Maine, coming from Poland Springs and plan to return via Dixville Notch and the White Mountains.

Those who have come by auto the past week have reported the roads in good condition with few exceptions.

Miss M. F. Leavitt and Miss L. K. Leavitt of Newport, R. I., arrived on Monday for a month's sojourn.

Dr. E. A. Bush of Syracuse, N. Y., is among the new comers who make a long stay.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Strenn of Oakland Cal., are here for a few days.

From the following 10 states and one foreign country guests have registered this last week, which tell that the travel has commenced early this year: Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Texas, California and England.

The ladies are delighted to have the New York novelty shop reopened, where they can purchase all kinds of fancy work.

The lovers of golf are now on the links and the white dresses, scarlet coats and pretty costumes worn by the ladies, make a beautiful living picture as they follow the balls over the course.

Prof. Neher, of Princeton college, and family came Tuesday and have opened their cottage below the hotel, where as usual they will spend the summer days.

Two Fitchburg, Mass., gentlemen, Messrs. F. C. Nichols and Richard Bullock, who came in their machine, have been spending 10 days at Camp Among the Clouds with Joe Lamb and Wilmont Patterson guides, have returned and are fishing this lake for a few days.

Tennis is now one of the attractions for the young people who are greatly enjoying the game, as the court is in perfect condition.

The lady guests will be glad to know Miss Anna G. Mahoney, the manicurist and hair dresser, has returned for another season.

This week's fishing has been great. Everyone, who has been to Quimby, Ross and Kennebago reported the fly fishing good and here on Rangeley lake the salmon have kept many a fisherman on the anxious seat and broken rods, lost leaders, flies and all kinds of alluring bait have been stolen by the fish.

Everybody takes his hat off to F. W. Emery of Boston for the first of the week he caught trolling a 4 1/2 pound salmon; then with a fly a 4 pound trout. On Sunday trolling he caught a 7 1/4 pound salmon and yesterday he came in with the biggest fish taken from the Rangeley waters this year, a 9 pound salmon, which was the talk of the day, as all had a chance to admire the silver beauty. Vid Hinkley was the guide and the salmon was hooked off Ross point and made a good fight. Written in red ink on the fish record, is the 30th record fish Mr. Emery has caught in this lake since he came in May, the 9 pound salmon.

C. A. Hubbard of Newton, Mass., Harry Quimby guide, records a 3 1/2 pound salmon on the fly.

Mrs. A. T. White of Brookline, Mass., Jim Ross guide, caught a 3 pound salmon.

F. C. Nichols of Fitchburg, Mass., Wilmont Patterson guide, a 3 1/4 pound salmon.

Thomas H. Bauchle, Jr., of New York Tuesday caught a fine pair of salmon one 3 1/4 pounds, the other 6 1/2 pounds. Ed Hoar, guide.

Col. John Caswell of New York came near stopping the narrow gauge out going train Tuesday noon. He just came to the wharf with two good salmon, and as they were being weighed and measured the passengers were ready to take the train and standing on the platform anxiously watched the Col. and Fred Hoar his guide. One gentleman said: "Seeing is believing. I never did think they caught such big salmon in these lakes. What does that weigh," as the smallest one was put on the scales. "Just 4 pounds," was the answer. The big one was taken up and it lacked two minutes of starting time, and one gentleman called, "How much, tell us how much that weighs?" "7 1/2 pounds," answered the Colonel as the conductor called, "All aboard" and after the train started came the word, "It is 25 1/2 inches long, and 15 inches girth," and all the way to Boston the excited travelers talked about that 7 1/2 pound salmon and did not know a 9-pounder would be "biggest yet," and landed before the evening train left.

The fishermen are all starting out this morning with great expectations for they hope to hook some of the big fish that got away yesterday.

Will someone tell why it is the fish take everything offered them one day, and the next nobody can hook one?"
